RECORD IS MADE IN PERSONALTY TAX COLLECTION

Swanson Outdoes His Predecessors.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

State's Attorney Swanson has collected nearly as much personal property taxes in two years and a half of the most stringent business depression as did any state's attorneys collected in the previous 16 years. The statement of the state's attorney's activities to date was made public yesterday.

The state's attorneys of the past made no serious effort to force collection of delinquent taxes. They wrote letters and then received what was tendered them. They filed relatively few suits against delinquents.

Mr. Swanson has been compelled to go to the courts to obtain taxes. In his two and a half years he has collected in the Circuit court $8,785,492 in delinquent taxes, as compared with $7,125,528 collected by the previous state's attorneys in 16 years by Circuit court suits.

More Personally Collected.

One result is that more personal property taxes have been collected this year in Cook county than ever before in its history. Those taxes were for the tax year of 1929 and due May 15 last. The collections are 8.4 per cent lower than for the previous high year and 12 per cent higher than last year.

This appears at first glance to be at direct variance with the contention of various organizations and public officials that the public does not have the cash with which to pay its taxes. The claim has been made more particularly with reference to real estate taxes, but the statement has also been especially made that the people have not the money with which to pay the taxes assessed.

The records of County Treasurer McDonough show that about one-tenth more personal property taxes have been paid this year than at the peak of prosperity in 1928, when the 1927 taxes were paid. And there is considerable time left in which the state's attorney can make more collections.

Comparison of Collections.

Year.	City.	Country.	Total.
1925	21,150,423	2,389,523	24,500,966

Of the total collections this year, State's Attorney Swanson has collected $1,779,555 since they became delinquent on May 15 last. Two checks for that total have been handed to County Treasurer McDonough. The matter has not been allocated, but when the distribution has been made it will show Chicago with larger collections than ever before. Without the state's attorney's collections the city would not have any more money from personal property this year than in previous years, if as much.

Personal property tax collections by state's attorneys since 1914 are shown in the following table, which is by calendar years instead of by tax years, because the state's attorney's records are kept that way:

Year.	Collections.	Year.	Collections.
1914	$5,362,661	1923	75,096
1915	1,616,065	1922	49,394
1916	1,469,218	1920	55,789
1917	1,612,134	1919	105,502
1918	71,956	1918	48,847
1919	96,921	1917	35,563
1920	170,186	1916	33,997
1921	97,610	1915-4	63,055
1922	100,000

Of the $8,621,028 collected by suits in the Circuit court—where all of the longer contested tax bills are collected—Mr. Swanson's office claims credit for $6,121,492.

This year, however, the court has dealt with the taxpayer and his ability to pay rather than insisting sternly upon getting every cent of the tax claimed. Even at that there are a number of instances where the state's attorney appears to have obtained the better of the compromise. To illustrate, he obtained $23,000 from one man the day before it closed.

It is estimated by the state's attorney's office that in 75 per cent of the personal property tax reductions the individual or corporation was pressed for cash and 20 per cent generally represented errors in assessment.

The surface lines did not pay $658, 000 of their personal property assessment before it became delinquent. They contested collection in court and it was reduced to $290,381.99. The state attorney's office explains this as of $365,318 as a duplicate assess-

MILLION CRIMINAL OPERATIONS YEARLY IN U. S., DOCTOR SAYS

New York, July 19.—[Special.]—Doctors of the United States perform 1,000,000 criminal operations annually, according to Dr. Abraham J. Rongy, chairman of the Greater New York committee on health examination, in an article in the July issue of American Medicine.

Dr. Rongy estimates that illegal operations performed annually in this country by others than physicians bring the total up to more than 1,250,000 and that American women pay to doctors each year approximately 100 million dollars for those operations which "maim, cripple, and kill thousands upon thousands."

EXTRACT NAIL SWALLOWED BY MAN 28 YRS. AGO

Elmer, N. J., July 19.—[Special.]—Severe pains in his chest recently startled Edward Snyder, Pennsylvania railroad track foreman living here. Mr. Snyder recalled that twenty-eight years ago, when making tomato crates, he had swallowed a nail and so told his doctor.

The nail, now quite rusty, was located by surgeons and removed in a delicate operation at the Episcopal hospital, Philadelphia. They said it must have penetrated the intestinal wall at some point and gradually worked its way upward through Snyder's body until it lodged between his lungs and ribs.

Snyder is recuperating at his home here.

Scotch Tune by Irish Piper Maddens Bees

Ordinarily the garden of Michael McAndrew in the rear of his home at 3916 West 63d place is a scene of peace. But yesterday at 11 a. m. when Mr. and Mrs. McAndrew and three braw little McAndrews returned from the kirk it was a distressful scene. A swarm of bees had taken possession of the garden.

At least 10,000 had settled about the back doorstep. This was doubly distressing to Mr. McAndrew, for he had taken only the back door key with him. After his first effort to force a way through the outer sentinels of the bees had resulted in considerable pain, the McAndrews all retired to their front yard to ponder.

Calls a Piper.

Then Mr. McAndrew had an inspiration. "In Scotland," he remarked to a neighbor, "I have heard that the music of a bagpipe will cause such beasties to flee. I'll call me a piper if one can be found whose charges are reasonable."

The piper he got was James Sullivan, 6335 South Troy street. Mr. Sullivan arrived shortly. In the meantime the bees had gathered in a squirming mass on Mr. McAndrew's prize apple tree. The piper advanced to the edge of its shade and began his concert.

His first choice was "The Black Rogue." As its Irish strains floated out upon the quiet of the Sabbath morn little children in the throng that had gathered to see how the battle of bees versus McAndrew would turn out began to dance. But the bees were neutral. They didn't leave, and they didn't actively object.

Boiled by Lament.

Mr. Sullivan swung into "The Lochaber Lament." Whatever its other merits may be, this composition, according to Mr. Sullivan, certainly has the power of driving honey bees mad. Before he was half way through the lament, large detachments from the main body had attacked him. He desisted after he had been stung several times on the upper lip.

"It's not that I am afeared for myself," he explained in the front yard, "but 'twould be a pity to have the bag of the bagpipe punctured."

Then came John McGinley, 3720 West 64th street, who claimed to be a bee fancier. He announced he knew methods of tolling the swarm away from the McAndrew apples. But the overalls he wore had a tear in them and the bees found it out and Mr. McGinley went away from there.

Mr. McAndrew called the police of the Chicago Lawn station. Motorcycle Policeman Paul St. Germain, another bee expert, told him what to do.

"One of the bees is the queen. All the rest go where she goes," he said. "All you got to do is to catch the queen and take her away and the rest will follow."

"But they all look alike," objected the bee-bothered Mr. McAndrew, "and if I knew which one was the queen I would not dare to approach her."

So he and the rest of the family sat down on their front porch until 5:30 p. m., when the bees left the apple tree and flew due north.

"They are looking for another piper," said Mr. McAndrew to the three braw little McAndrews.

REVOLT LOOMS AGAINST CZAR OF FILM UNION

Suspect Capone of Part in Racket.

Indications of revolt among members of the Motion Picture Operators' union against their indicted business agent, Thomas E. Maloy, were discerned yesterday by State's Attorney Swanson's office.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles A. Bellows, who procured Maloy's indictment last Wednesday on five charges of racketeering, said he had learned that formidable opposition to Maloy's rule had been mobilized in the last few weeks and that anti-Maloy leaders in the union had called a meeting for tomorrow morning to bring the racket issue to a head.

Discover Hand of Capone.

In connection with this announcement Mr. Bellows disclosed that in the investigation leading up to Maloy's indictment Al Capone, head man among Chicago racketeers, had been definitely linked with the Maloy dictatorship through the association of Maloy with Capone's lieutenant, Danny Stanton.

There was strong suspicion, Mr. Bellows said, that Capone was not only dipping into the tribute Maloy is accused of having extorted from motion picture exhibitors and operators alike but that he had also levied on Maloy's union salary of $50,000 a year.

The tribute, according to grand jury evidence, was exacted by Maloy in collusion with two others—his brother, Joseph Maloy, city examiner of movie operators, and Elmer [Jack] Miller, head of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' association. These two were indicted jointly with Maloy.

The levy on Maloy's salary, according to Mr. Bellows' suspicions, was a personal share demanded by Capone in consideration for lending the prestige of his gang to the business agent.

Rally Foes of Maloy.

As for the anti-Maloy sentiment, Mr. Bellows found evidence of its existence when he discovered that the 570 members of the union received copies yesterday of a two page letter, setting forth 24 specific grievances against Maloy and calling on the membership to meet at 11 a. m. tomorrow in the union hall in the Capitol building to take action.

The writer of the letter and his backers, while declaring themselves union members in good standing, said they "dared not sign their names for fear the officials would term it an act of treason."

"There need be no fear of being hit on the head," the letter asserted, referring to the meeting tomorrow. "Joe Mace and others of his kind have ended their careers as bouncers at our private union meetings and the law enforcing agencies will be on hand to protect honest members."

Union Meeting Stopped.

In this connection it was learned that a regular meeting of the union, called last Thursday, had been dismissed within a few minutes by the president, Thomas J. Reynolds, when he and Maloy discovered seven police squads in the building.

"There's too much law around to hold a meeting now," was the reported explanation of Reynolds, who was indicted along with the Maloy brothers and Miller.

The presence of the police, Mr. Bellows said, had been requested by the law abiding element in the union, who feared that Joe Mace, the "bouncer" mentioned in the letter, might call his slugging squad into action, as he is reported to have done at earlier meetings when Maloy's rule was jeopardized. Mace, Mr. Bellows said, is a police character who was once indicted for robbery and is now carried on the union rolls as a "permit man" with a yearly salary of $9,000.

Cause of Indictment.

It was with reference to "permit men" such as Mace that the principal grievances of the regular union members arose, according to Mr. Bellows, and it was Maloy's employment of the permit system that resulted in his indictment.

As explained by Mr. Bellows, the union has been a closed organization for the last 19 years, no new members being admitted and nonunion operators being permitted to follow their trade only with the stipulation that they pay 10 per cent of their wages into the union treasury.

According to the charges in the letter, Joseph Maloy, as city examiner of the operators, took advantage of the situation for his own profit by issuing more than 500 permits, charging each permit man from $50 to $500. Thomas Maloy, the letter says, reaped a profit by throwing regular union

City Soaked by Storm; 13 Hurt as Stand Falls

Chicago and its suburbs were swept by a torrential rain shortly after 10 o'clock last night. Viaduct underpasses, streets, sewers, and basements were flooded and many trees were felled by a strong wind which accompanied the downpour.

As the storm broke several hundred dancers crowded on a small band stand in the Englewood Celtic athletic field, 74th and Bishop streets. Thirteen persons were injured, one seriously. About the same time Chief Mate Carl Howell and a crew of the central coast guard station towed in a disabled motor cruiser which had drifted fifteen hours and saved four men.

Metropolitan Area Soaked.

The rainfall was unusually heavy and caught thousands of pleasure seekers in the loop and elsewhere unawares. Unlike the rains of the last few weeks, which struck isolated sections, last night's storm covered the metropolitan area. Earlier it had visited more northwesterly sections, especially around Lake Geneva, Wis.

In Chicago hundreds of automobiles were stalled with water-logged coils. Several street car lines were tied up because of impasses under viaducts, where, in some cases, the flood measured more than two feet. Grand avenue service was disrupted seriously. Basements were reported flooded everywhere. In the suburbs like conditions prevailed. The villages of Homewood, Lansing and neighboring communities were thrown into darkness for half an hour when the power station was crippled by the rain. In the open sections several highways were blocked by fallen trees.

Dancers Caught in Storm.

The athletic park accident was the second of its kind in a year at the park. Outdoor dancing was going on when the storm started. About 300 dancers made for the small stand, where an orchestra of seven pieces, known as the Red Racketeers, was playing. The weight was too much and the stand crashed, carrying with it a piano.

Miss Norma Tarpy, 20 years old, 633 Franklin avenue, River Forest, a maid, was the most seriously injured. At St. Bernard's hospital it was said she had suffered a fractured pelvis.

Others injured were Margaret Moore, 5746 May street; Norine Cullinan, 5518 South Halsted street; Jeanette Allen, 7013 Green street; Mildred Zelka, 6631 Union avenue; Ruth Moore, 840 West 63d street; Margaret Rogers, 7607 Lincoln street; Duncan Gannon, 5709 Sangamon street; Joseph Noonan, 1223 West 73th street; Roy Gerard, 1264 West 74th place; James Sullivan, 8622 Bishop street; Edward O'Brien, 6810 Elizabeth street, and Henry Rabous, 6132 Knox avenue. All were taken to the Auburn Park hospital. Noonan and Rabous were severely hurt.

Rescued from Lake.

The lake rescue by Chief Mate Howell ended a day of peril for H. H. Richter, 32 years old, 2240 North Sawyer avenue, owner of the Sandra, motor cruiser; his brother, Emil, 13 years old, of 5513 Jackson boulevard; H. C. Jackson, 4840 Madison street, engineer, and Phil Brooks, 8128 Calumet avenue.

The four started for Saugatuck, Mich., Saturday night. Several hours later their boat developed motor trouble and commenced drifting. Chief Mate Howell was notified. He found the Sandra 35 miles northeast of Chicago, helpless in a rising sea.

RAID SWIMMIN' HOLE, CAPTURE 30 NUDE BATHERS

An oldtime swimming hole, where boys and young men and middle aged men swam without bathing suits in the starlight, was raided last evening by the police.

Two wagons loaded with patrolmen were sent out. They drove down the old wagon road leading to the south end of 12th street island in Lake Michigan, past the sedate supervised beach where everyone wore at least a pair of trunks, and on the wilder part of the isle.

The squads leaped out of the wagon and raced for the shore. The bathers leaped from the water and raced for their clothes. The police won and thirty advocates of nude swimming were captured. Youngest of those arrested was Walter Magala, 15 years old, 2938 South Francisco avenue. The patriarchs of the thirty were Mike Parginski, 54 years old, and John Kowalski, 51 years old, who said he had no home and no place to take a bath but the lake.

Steal 350 Pairs of Hose from South Side Store

Burglars entered the Berland shoe store, 350 East 47th street, early yesterday and carried away 350 pairs of women's hose and six pairs of women's shoes. They entered by smashing a window in the rear.

HEAL ROW OF 60 YEARS BY FACE TO FACE TALKS

Resume Loan Parley in London Today.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 19.—Germany and France tonight reached their first wholehearted agreement on anything since 1914, when both agreed that they wanted to fight.

As Dr. Julius Curtius, German foreign minister, put it to the international press at the close of the second conference of German and French ministers this afternoon:

"We are convinced that it is possible to place Franco-German relations on a new and more solid basis, and we are determined to make a new beginning in the spirit of Chequers."

First Man to Man Talks.

So far that is the only tangible result of the first man to man talks to which the heads of the two countries ever sat down in friendship, but to diplomats who reflected that the two neighbors have been bickering for the last sixty years and have fought two wars without any of their leaders stumbling on to that rather commonplace discovery, it took on considerable significance. To them it boded well for the success of the conference of prime ministers, foreign ministers, and finance ministers of the seven great powers, which begins in London tomorrow night. This conference is expected to work out a plan for the rescue of Germany from financial collapse.

The full basis of the understanding between France and Germany—it cannot be called an accord—is still unrevealed. A communique which was issued following a dinner given by Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, tonight was enthusiastic but nebulous. The most significant thing is that the negotiations are now well under way, with a free track before them, and that the French leaders are going to visit Berlin when the London conference is over.

Issue Joint Communique.

The communique, agreed upon by the French and German leaders during the after dinner liquers, said:

"In a recent message the chancellor of the German reich had expressed a desire to enter into direct contact with the French government with a view to seeking means to work in communion for the amelioration of relations between Germany and France.

"The chief of the French government spontaneously responded that he looked with satisfaction to an interview which was rendered all the more opportune by events which have affected the economic and financial situation of Germany and by the repercussion of this on other states.

"Beginning of Collaboration."

"In consequence, representatives of the two governments met in Paris July 18 and 19, 1931. They agreed in recognizing the importance of these meetings and in affirming that it was the mark of the beginning of a trusting collaboration.

"The chancellor of the reich exposed the aspects of the crisis from which his country is suffering. Representatives of the French government, recognizing the gravity of this crisis, have declared that, under the reserve of certain financial guarantees and measures of political appeasement, the French government would be ready to discuss later the terms of financial coöperation on a basis of international collaboration.

"From now on representatives of both governments insist upon emphasizing their firm intention of creating by common effort as much as possible the conditions favorable to effective collaboration in both the political and economic fields. They have agreed to associate their efforts in order that credit and confidence may be restored in an atmosphere of calm and security."

"No More Franco-German Border."

In the absence of any single thing in the communique, Andre Francois-Poncet—he is slated as the next ambassador to Berlin, by the way—said in paraphrasing the famous remark of Louis XIV, about the Pyrenees:

"There is no more a Franco-German border, and now we can and will go to Berlin. We can call this conversation the 'French Chequers.'"

What tonight's agreement means to the London conference was put this way by Francois-Poncet, who is undersecretary for economy:

"Now that a political understanding has been reached, financial questions will certainly be wiped out at London unless——" his unfinished reference, which he rounded off with a sweep of his left hand, referred to the possibilities of disagreement with British, which might break up the conference. "Regarding the political aspects we are entitled to have optimism."

Overshadows General Conference.

The conversations between the French and German ministers completely overshadowed the general conference this morning, although Dr. Curtius indicated later that ground had been cleared for concerted action to ameliorate not only the peculiar German crisis but the world crisis as well. The conference started at 10 o'clock at the ministry of the interior, with Secretary of State Stimson and Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon of the United States, Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson and Ambassador Lord Tyrrell of Great Britain, Chancellor Bruening and Dr. Curtius of Germany with their aids, and Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy, Foreign Minister Paul Hymans of Belgium, Ambassador Yoshizawa of Japan, Premier Laval, Foreign Minister Briand, Finance Minister Flandin, Francois-Ponset and Francois Pietri of France.

Premier Laval won an important preliminary victory in getting the others to agree that the London conference starting tomorrow will be limited strictly to working out measures for aiding Germany. This nipped the German-English campaign to bring up disarmament and revision of treaties. The British do not want to participate in a long term loan to Germany until the whole European problem is ironed out.

Want to Handle Germans Alone.

The French want to do all their ironing on the mat with the Germans in private, and confine the general conference to technicalities. This will give them a chance to drive a shrewd bargain, since no Henderson or Stimson will be on hand to tell them they are pressing Bruening too hard. At the same time it serves to give a clear understanding that French participation in a loan to Germany depends on reaching political accord.

Meanwhile the British and French are quarreling over a purely financial question. At the instigation of Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, the British are insisting that the French make a loan to the Bank of England, extending long term credits which would protect the British against any more raids on the pound sterling, as their own money would then be tied up in England. It is also stated that the British are raising numerous objections to the financial guarantees for the German loan which are demanded by France.

Mellon Urges Quick Action.

Because of all these disputes it was apparently impossible to make any headway this morning, and the conference decided to let the French and Germans straighten out the political quarrel between themselves. It was learned that Mr. Mellon was the main orator this morning, using all the eloquence at his disposal to convince the bickering French and Britons that they had to get down to brass tacks and help Germany at once.

Asked whether he believed the London conference would be able to proceed on a purely financial basis without touching political considerations, which President Hoover is so anxious to avoid, Secretary Stimson countered pleasantly:

"It will if you think finances have no connection with politics."

He contributed another light touch when somebody asked whether he thought the London conference would last long.

"I don't think so. The Frenchmen couldn't stand English cooking very long and the British couldn't allow the conference to cut into the grouse season too deeply," he said.

Some diplomats interpret tonight's communique as meaning that the French refuse flatly to give Germany any money until political guarantees are arranged and that the Germans have been forced to accept this ultimatum. In consequence, the real object of the London conference—permanent relief for Germany—will have to wait until the French go to Berlin.

The powers assembled in London will be called on only to reach agreement in principle on financial conditions for German relief and then await Franco-German accord before relief can become operative.

Agree to Bury Hatchet.

The understanding between the French and Germans—which is simply that it is believed that it is possible to bury the hatchet and seek ways of doing so—was reached without difficulty in the course of a three and a half hour conference at the ministry of the interior this afternoon.

But they ran into difficulties when the French started discussing political guarantees that must be given to convince the public that the Germans meant what they said.

Chancellor Bruening, with equal firmness and moderation, explained that he would find ways of showing that he meant what he said when the time was ripe, but could not make any gesture which would be interpreted back home as giving in to a French ultimatum. The same thing applied to certain financial guarantees demanded by the French as well as purely political ones.

Laval Insists on "Something."

Premier Laval replied equally moderately, explaining that he did not want to force terms down the Germans' throats, but had to have something tangible to show his parliament or they would think he had given Germany something for nothing. He wondered if, by proper wording, a formula could be found which would look like a guarantee to the French and not like shackles to the Germans. He was bitterly disappointed when Chancellor Bruening explained gently that this was hopeless, that the diplomats of the world could not make black look white. Being French and a politician, Laval was not so sure.

Consequently the conference ended on a note of frustration. Briand came out looking horribly depressed and tired. He said darkly: "Everything is not quite finished."

Bruening and Curtius also looked a bit downcast and hurried off to the German embassy. Despite this, Dr. Curtius showed up for the press conference and although without a great deal of conviction in his voice, he assured the newspaper men that the two bad boys of western Europe had turned over a new leaf.

Germany's Orgy of Post-War Spending Called Key to Present Financial Crisis

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 19.—All the direct benefits which President Hoover's moratorium proposal aimed to confer on Germany through the suspension of reparations payments for one year were more than nullified through the withdrawal of capital from the Reich.

During the seventeen days of Anglo-American negotiations with France over the application of the moratorium, an average of 65,000,000 marks [about $16,222,000] daily fled from Germany. The total was more than 1,100,000,000 marks [about $275,000,000], which was considerably in excess of the unconditional payments Berlin was required to make under the Young plan.

Denies Acting Too Late.

The government's analysis of the withdrawals from the banks reveals that the bulk of the flight of capital was represented in the calling of short term loans and credits.

The Reichsbank asserts that figures prove that less than 25 per cent of the money shipped from the country was handled by private individuals.

This is the reply of Dr. Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, to the criticism that preventative measures against the flight of marks should have been put in operation as soon as the crisis manifested itself.

Loopholes in Decrees.

The newly applied decrees covering the transfer of money abroad and the dabbling in exchange fluctuations effectually seals the domestic market against small operators and private holders, although the big operators and bankers can still export funds through loopholes which it is impossible to close.

A careful investigation into the reasons which actuated the foreign creditors' increased uneasiness over the safety of their interests in Germany shows that the government's continual protest over the reparations payments and the Reich's inability to discharge the obligations imposed, went a long way toward undermining confidence abroad.

Despite glowing accounts of Germany's reorganized industry, the efficient methods which had been introduced and the labor and money saving processes in force, it is an indubitable fact that the nation's reorganization during the five years of the Dawes plan operation, enabling it to compete economically with any nation on the globe, aroused apprehension on the foreign money market and among foreign bankers.

Germans Also Alarmed.

The German people, too, became alarmed over the pessimistic attitude which the government took toward its ability to fulfill its commitments, and although the slogan, "revise the Versailles treaty and cancel all reparations," was sweet music in every German's ear, the fact that the authorities reiterated their incapacity to pay caused misgivings, which were soon reflected in the flight of capital abroad.

The Reich's orgy of spending began as soon as the world war hostilities ceased at the end of 1918, when the new born republic took over the task of running the country.

Embark on Social Program.

The republic was directed in its early years by zealous Socialists, who were flirting with their bolshevik cousins beyond Poland, and who joyfully applied the funds formerly voted for war chests to social improvements and financial safeguards for workers. These expenditures included old age insurance, pensions, doles and other similar schemes.

The more reactionary elements did not attempt seriously to obstruct the Niagara of money which was entailed in fulfilling the Socialistic ideals on the ground that the more money the Reich expended inside the country, the more impossible it would become to make the huge payments which the allies insisted on as reparations.

Germany's failure to discharge any of its reparations obligations during the first years after the war resulted in the Ruhr occupation, and then the Dawes plan fixing the amount of annuities.

Swerves from Socialism.

During the five years of this plan's life, Germany swerved somewhat from socialistic squandering and turned its attention to re-equipping the country economically.

Many cities contracted for large loans abroad for the construction of modern and airy habitations for workers, new schools, swimming pools, gymnasiums, sewer systems and street car lines.

The Reichsbank practically rebuilt all the railroads.

Reorganizes Phone Systems.

The government reorganized its telephone and telegraph systems, installing an automatic service.

Through credits, loans and subsidies the mammoth Westphalian metallurgical and mining industries were modernized and the chemical and dye industries were given aid to fight their way back to the prestige they enjoyed before the war.

The state helped German shipping to reappear on the high seas after the Versailles treaty had confiscated every ton afloat, handing over all craft to the allies as a penalty for Germany's submarine campaign. Within a decade, Germany's mercantile marine approximate its pre-war size. Among its units now are two of the fastest passenger lines afloat.

The budget was never balanced, despite sharp reproofs from Seymour Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparations. The deficits were covered year after year by foreign loans.

FRENCH MINISTER OF WAR INSISTS ON STRONG ARMY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 19.—While Premier Laval and Chancellor Bruening were talking Franco-German peace today, Andre Maginot, French war minister, delivered a bellicose speech to war veterans at Montmedy.

"We are going through hours which we can call decisive," the war minister said. "I could not admit that we should capitulate in front of a nation which has always been known to find necessary credits to satisfy its martial needs. Let us defend our gold. As to our military strength, I am in charge of it."

DAWES DEPARTS FOR CAPITAL ON WAY TO LONDON

Charles G. Dawes ambassador to England and financial chairman of the Century of Progress exposition, left Chicago yesterday on the Capitol limited for Washington, to confer with President Hoover before sailing to London to participate in the international conference on Germany's financial situation. While on his American trip the ambassador turned bond salesman and disposed of $1,000,000 in bonds of the exposition. He pronounced the financial condition of the exposition to be "splendid."

STIMSON ACTING AS MEDIATOR AT FRENCH CAPITAL

Observers See Proof of New Hoover Policy.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 19.—[Special]—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson has entered upon the rôle of mediator between France and Germany, according to the information reaching Washington from Paris today.

This development is widely regarded here as marking another stage in the evolution of the new Hoover policy on American relations with Europe. It is believed to signalize definitely Mr. Hoover's abandonment of the American isolationist policy.

In functioning as a mediator in European affairs, Col. Stimson, it is pointed out, is now doing in an official capacity and with the approval of the administration, exactly what Charles G. Dawes and Owen D. Young did in two reparations conferences in an unofficial capacity and unauthorized by the American government.

Denied Official Status.

Dawes and Young were denied an official status by President Coolidge because of the fear of entangling America in European affairs and recognition a relationship between war debts and reparations. Mr. Hoover does not share his predecessor's fear of entanglements, having enunciated his view last week when he told the International Christian Endeavor Society that "national independence and international understanding are not incompatible."

Secretary Stimson reported on his official efforts as mediator in a talk he had today with Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle Jr., by telephone. President Hoover was able to listen in on the conversation as his telephone at his Rapidan camp where he was spending the week end.

Col. Stimson reported that he had participated this forenoon in a conference between Premier Laval of France and Chancellor Bruening of Germany. He said that considerable progress was made in reconciling the divergent viewpoints of the French and British and that as a result the French officials were going to the London conference of the seven powers which convenes tomorrow.

Secretary Is Optimistic.

The American secretary of state said that he is decidedly optimistic of a satisfactory outcome of the London conference, which will stabilize conditions in Germany.

It is assumed the new rôle of mediator on the part of Secretaries Stimson and Mellon will loom large as a factor in the London conference. The supporters of the traditional American policy of aloofness from the affairs of Europe are apprehensive that the President is venturing upon dangerous ground and that the result will be an entanglement from which the country will have difficulty in extricating itself and in which it will achieve nothing more than incurring the hatred of both parties to the quarrel.

On the other hand, the internationalists are applauding the departure of the President from the policies of his predecessors and dwelling upon the world renown he will achieve if he succeeds in bringing about an accord between France and Germany that not only will make the extension of a large international credit to Germany possible but will eventuate in a reconciliation of the two powers.

Only Economic Questions.

Mr. Hoover maintains that he is taking care to avoid entanglements. He has instructed Secretary Stimson to discuss only economic questions at the London conference. He is not to become involved in the political discussions. The British regard these instructions as issued for home consumption in America. The London Times observes editorially that it is well for Americans to realize that if there is to be genuine and enduring readjustment and recovery, the forces whose interplay has precipitated a crisis without precedent in financial history must be recognized as not only economic but political."

The Times, which has been particularly impatient with America's isolationist policy, was advising the President during the London arms conference to ignore senate opposition to American participation in an European consultative pact.

The Democratic national committee is extremely vocal in lauding Mr. Hoover for abandoning isolation and returning to Wilsonian doctrine.

Confer at Rapidan Camp.

The financial aspect of the problem of aiding Germany was discussed on the Rapidan today by Mr. Hoover and Eugene Meyer, governor of the federal reserve board. It is understood that neither the President nor Mr. Meyer is disturbed by the assertions of Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], one of the authors of the federal reserve act, that the federal reserve banks will exceed their power if they participate in a loan to Germany.

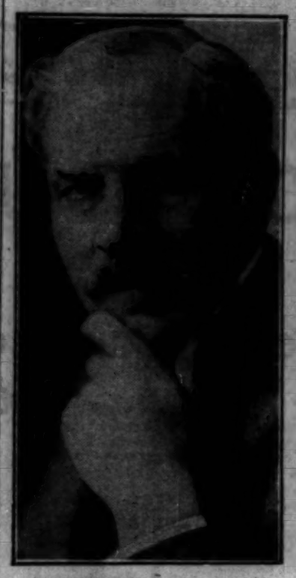
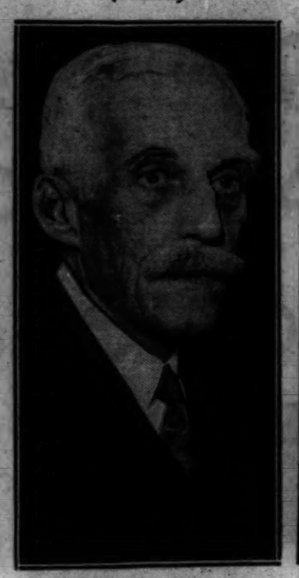
SECRETARY STIMSON. (United States.)



PREMIER MACDONALD. (England.)



SECRETARY MELLON. (United States.)

READY FOR LONDON PARLEY

LONDON, July 19.—(AP)—Col. Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state, and Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of treasury, ranking members of the cabinet of the United States, arrived from Paris tonight at 11:05 and the scene of the international negotiations by means of which it is hoped to lift Germany out of its economic difficulties shifted from Paris to London.

Secretaries Stimson and Mellon will speak for America at the international conference which is to begin here tomorrow evening and which may determine the trend of the future history of Europe and the world. The conferees will include prime ministers, foreign ministers and finance ministers of the greatest nations of the earth.

The secretaries were met at the stations by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, Hugh Gibson, American ambassador at Brussels, and Ray Atherton, American chargé d'affaires in London. Both Secretary Mellon and Secretary Stimson greeted the British prime minister, whispered a few words in his ear and were whisked away to their hotels.

Premier Confers with Henderson.

Prime Minister MacDonald, gray and somewhat stooped, got into a car with Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary, who also had come on the train from Paris, and they were driven immediately to 10 Downing street, where they held a long conference on the negotiations at Paris.

Prime Minister MacDonald will report to the British cabinet tomorrow morning on what he learned from Foreign Secretary Henderson, and afterward decisions will be made as to what Great Britain's stand is to be in the conference which begins tomorrow evening.

Americans in Genial Mood.

Both of the American secretaries were in a genial mood. Secretary Mellon was first off the train and stepped right into the arms of Prime Minister MacDonald. He tipped his hat and introduced his daughter, Mrs. Bruce, who was with him.

Mr. MacDonald greeted Stimson with "Hello, Mr. Stimson." The secretary then whispered something into the prime minister's ear, at which both laughed.

In a typewritten statement, Foreign Secretary Henderson said he had gone to Paris a week ago fully conscious that a serious situation was developing, but scarcely expecting the "rapid changes witnessed in so short a period."

BY EGBERT SWENSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 19.—Chancellor Bruening, devout Catholic that he is, opened his day with an hour of prayer for peace, at the little church of Notre Dame des Victoires, not so far from the ministry of the interior, where he later this morning was to present the cause of his distressed country before the assembled representatives of world powers, in a final effort to persuade them to help the fatherland.

Welcomed at Church.

At 7:15 a. m. a big embassy car manned by two raw boned, blond German chauffeurs, carried him off to the church correctly attired, as usual, in derby, frock coat and wing collar. Sartorial criticism of Chancellor Bruening is that he is always attired correctly for church. On arriving at "Our Lady of Victories," he was welcomed at the front stoop by Champetier de Ribes, minister of pensions. He was ushered up to the very front row, where Abbé Jourdan, whose monthly mass for peace had attracted Bruening's presence, had saved two specially upholstered pews for Chancellor Bruening and his derby.

He paid closest attention to the sermon of Father Dassonville on "Peace," apparently understanding every word, for among Bruening's accomplishments is an excellent command of French, as well as English. He nodded perceptibly when Father Dassonville declared:

"This day is eminently suitable for speaking of peace, since it is a day which will count in human history. We must believe in peace, since it is the will of God, which can be realized if men submit to His inspiration in practicing justice, patience, and prudence.

"'Thou shalt not hate. Thou shalt not kill,' saith the Lord. Jesus desired peace; it was men who wanted war."

Diplomat Not Recognized.

Again the chancellor humbly kneeled with the remainder of the congregation, none of whom was aware of his identity. Only a few sleepy newspaper men and camera men outside the door betrayed the presence of the governmental head of a people who have been regarded as the arch enemy of the French, in a church which was built by Louis XIII. in fulfillment of a vow to do something for God if the deity vouchsafed him victory over the Protestants at La Rochelle.

The service ended, the German chancellor walked hastily down the aisle and hurried off to a 10 o'clock meeting with Premier Pierre Laval, Secretary of State Stimson, Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson, Dino Grandi of Italy, Paul Hymans of Belgium, and others.

7TH VICTIM DIES AS OIL FIRE IN MICHIGAN RAGES

Young Expectant Mother Succumbs to Burns.

Mount Pleasant, Mich., July 19.—[Special.]—The fatality toll of the spectacular fire which swept the oil field 14 miles east of here yesterday, rose to seven tonight with the death of Mrs. R. C. Guy, 17 years old, an expectant mother.

Physicians at the Brondstetter hospital made a last minute effort to save the life of her unborn baby when it was evident that Mrs. Guy could not survive. An unsuccessful Caesarean operation was performed.

Others Who Died.

The earlier death victims of the fire were Mrs. Guy's mother-in-law, Mrs. Lola Guy, 45 years old, wife of E. J. Guy, superintendent of the Roosevelt Oil refinery; Mrs. Mary McClanahan, wife of Walter McClanahan, well operator; A. E. Gorham, wealthy cabinet manufacturer, and Ruby Melvin, 13 years old, daughter of John Melvin, oil field superintendent; Marion Fugate, 38, brother-in-law of McClanahan; Mrs. Anna D. Lamb, 35, Mt. Pleasant, wife of Thomas D. Lamb.

Nearly forty persons were burned or injured in the conflagration. Twenty-three were taken to the hospital here. Three are expected to die.

Tonight oil was still burning, and oil well fire fighting experts were being rushed to the field. No estimate of the property damage is available, but it is expected to be high.

Equipment Destroyed.

Valuable well rigging was destroyed, and advanced work on the field was crippled. In addition, considerable timber was burned.

The fire started from an undetermined cause while more than 200 persons were gathered around a new well, one of the largest yet located. There was a sudden flash of flame which scattered fiery oil over the spectators. The heroism of Buck Hewitt, a tool dresser, who capped the new gusher, prevented a more disastrous fire. He was burned.

GLACIER PRIEST FLIES OVER FIERY VOLCANO CRATER

SEWARD, Alaska, July 19.—(AP)—Father Bernard Hubbard, the "glacier priest," has achieved the object of his summer explorations with a 10,000 foot airplane flight across the "crater of the moons" of Aniakchak volcano.

The plane was piloted by Harry Blunt, who was at the controls of the same ship several weeks ago when the downward air currents almost pulled it into the cauldron.

Father Hubbard yesterday returned to Seward with the story of the flight across the world's largest active crater.

WORLD COURT TO OPEN AUSTRO-GERMAN PACT CASE HEARING TODAY

THE HAGUE, July 19.—(AP)—In the vast quiet of the peace palace here, fifteen black-robed judges tomorrow will hear one of the most important cases the world court has been asked to decide in its nearly ten years of existence.

Oral arguments on the proposed Austro-German customs union are scheduled to start before the permanent court of international justice. Written briefs already have been filed and at least three nations will present oral arguments. The court has until the September meeting of the league of nations assembly in which to make its decision.

For France, which vigorously opposes the pact, Jules Basdevant, professor of law in Paris, is agent, and Paul Boncour, deputy and foreign minister, is counsel.

Dr. Viktor Bruns, professor of law at the University of Berlin, will state Germany's case. Dr. Erich Kaufmann, professor of law at the universities of Bonn and Berlin, will speak for Austria.

Italy and Czecho-Slovakia have filed written briefs and may present written arguments.

Court procedure, broadly speaking, resembles that of any high American court. Cases are referred to it by the league of nations. The president of the court, corresponding to a chief justice, is the Japanese representative Mineitciro Adatci.

MAN LEAPS OFF PLANE 1,200 FEET UP TO END LIFE

Jamestown, N. Y., July 19.—[Special.]—On his 28th birthday today, George Wallace, partner with his brother, Lawrence, in the operation of the Chautauqua Dahlia fields at Phillips Mills on Chautauqua lake, hired an airplane pilot to take him for a ride and then leaped from a height of 1,200 feet to his death in Lakeview cemetery.

No motive for the suicide has been determined.

"This will be some trip," Wallace remarked as he made himself comfortable in the front seat of the ship. When the plane was over the cemetery the pilot felt the ship tip toward the right. Wallace had crawled up on the right wing and was standing up, holding on to the wire struts to keep his balance.

The pilot was dumbfounded. Before he could say anything Wallace shouted, "Happy landings, buddy," and plunged off the wing.

Panama Radio Suspends Ship-to-Shore Service

PANAMA CITY, July 19.—(AP)—The tropical Radio company today decided to suspend ship to shore service in Panama waters and to close its branch at Balboa, Cahal Zone, because, it alleged, the United States naval station claimed control of all messages to and from ships. The company was also expected to close its high power station at Almirante, Panama. It indicated it would appeal to the congress of the United States.

FATHER'S SABER RIPS A SECRET FROM HIS PAST

His Sons Learn Story Kept from Them for Years.

Albert Temple, 62 years old, sat in a cell at the Woodlawn police station last night, charged with having used his Spanish-American war saber against a policeman who sought to arrest him. But the charge of assault with a deadly weapon standing against him worried Temple less than the fact that through his arrest his sons learned something withheld from them for more than twenty years.

Some neighborhood trouble—what policemen refer to as a clothesline scrap—led, indirectly, to the disclosure. Mrs. Francis Hackett, 6613 Ellis avenue, obtained warrants charging Temple and his wife, Mabel, with disorderly conduct. They live next door to her, at 6611 Ellis avenue.

A Difference of Opinion.

Detectives Anton Danielson and Fred Crowley went to the Temple flat to serve the warrants. Mrs. Temple charges that trouble started when the policemen handled her roughly and she screamed to her husband and sons for aid. The policemen say the fight started because she and her husband refused to be arrested.

The disturbance caused neighbors to send a second call for police. When a squad arrived Detective Crowley was struggling with Mrs. Temple and her younger son, Richard, 19 years old, while Detective Danielson had a cut on his face inflicted by the elder Temple with the saber.

The parents, together with Richard and another son, Robert, 22 years old, were arrested. The father and two sons were sent to the detective bureau for a routine examination at the bureau of identification.

Father Tells His Story.

At the door of that department Temple stopped.

"Wait a minute," he said. "I know what you're going to find out about me when you look up those records. I want to tell my boys about it first."

There were tears in his eyes, policemen said, and his voice quavered as he spoke to his sons.

"I got into some trouble when I was a young man," he told them. "I served two terms in the prison down at Joliet. I've tried to be a good father to you and your mother and I decided that we would never tell you that your father had been a convict."

The records in a dusty old file confirmed his statement. He was sentenced for forgery in 1893, serving two years. He went back to the prison in 1906, after he had broken into a vacant house and stolen some lead pipe. That sentence was for possessing burglar's tools.

So far as the police records show, Temple's record since these senences has been clear.

The saber, he explained, he got when he served during the war with Spain as a member of the old 1st Illinois cavalry. He went to the Philippines later with the regulars.

100 PERSONS HURT WHEN COMMUNISTS ATTACK MINE BODY

Canonsburg, Pa., July 19. — (AP) — More than 100 persons were injured, five so severely as to require hospital treatment, when a crowd of men described by police as members and sympathizers of the National Miners' union, a communist organization, invaded and broke up a meeting of the United Mine Workers of America at the Curry baseball field here late today.

Among those hurt in 20 minutes of rioting, during which 750 persons fought wildly with chairs, bottles, stones and clubs was P. T. Fagan, president of district No. 5, United Mine Workers of America. Miss Mercedes Murray, 22, daughter of Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers, fainted on the grounds during the thick of the fighting.

The clash was the climax of weeks of bitter rivalry between the United Mine Workers and its young left wing opponent, the National Miners' union.

State police arrested six persons, including a girl. County officials said that charges of inciting to riot probably would be placed against the six.

More than 500 Negroes caused a disturbance in the 12th street station of the Illinois Central railroad yesterday when they boarded a train for Champaign, Ill., and for their fares presented tickets to the "Fifth Annual I. C. Railroad Employés Picnic" there.

The tickets had been sold them for 75 cents each by three men who assured them that they were good for the ride to Champaign, they said. Police had to be called to eject the crowd from the train, and when they left the station the members of the throng went to the detective bureau and stood outside there, demanding that police recover their money for them.

A similar disturbance was quelled at the 43d street station when police found three men who had been selling the picnic tickets there, and forced them to make restitution.

FALL RESTS AT RANCH ON TRIP TO PRISON CELL

Makes Trip from El Paso in Ambulance.

Three Rivers, N. M., July 19.—(AP)—Headed toward the New Mexico state penitentiary at Santa Fé to begin serving a sentence of a year and a day for accepting a bribe, Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, rested today at his Tres Rios ranch near here.

After a trip in an ambulance from his El Paso, Tex., home, Fall arrived at the ranch late last night accompanied by his physician, Dr. J. H. Gambrell, who deemed it advisable for him to rest before proceeding to the prison.

Dr. Gambrell said Fall stood the 125 mile trip fairly well, but was very tired and weak and in need of the quiet of the ranch. The physician disclosed he recommended the sudden departure from El Paso yesterday because of Fall's agitation over the presence of photographers at his Texas home.

Ranch at Foot of Mountains.

The Tres Rios ranch lies at the foot of the Sierra Blanca range, some peaks of which rise to an altitude of 9,000 feet. Situated about 200 miles south of Santa Fé, it frequently has been used by the former secretary of the interior to rest when the pressure of business or politics became heavy.

Mrs. Fall and her granddaughter, Martha Fall, also accompanied Fall to the ranch, the former riding in an automobile and the latter in the ambulance. Dr. Gambrell said Mrs. Fall would continue the journey to Santa Fé, but probably no other member of the family would go.

Stands Strain Well.

Dr. Gambrell said he was pleased with the way Fall bore up under the strain of the drive from El Paso. He said he felt the next leg to Santa Fé would be no great hazard to Fall, especially if it were broken at night at some town between the ranch and Santa Fé, although that would be governed by Fall's condition.

Congressman Rutherford Has Emergency Operation

Macon, Ga., July 19.—(AP)—Congressman Sam Rutherford of the Sixth Georgia district underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis tonight. Physicians said his condition was serious.

YOUTH INJURED IN AUTO CRASH DIES IN HOSPITAL

Arthur Johnson, 18 years old, 4631 Homer street, died yesterday in the Keystone hospital of injuries suffered on Wednesday, when the automobile in which he was riding crashed with another driven by Jacob Solomon, 1310 North Springfield avenue, at Palmer and Larrabee streets.

This death increased the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 629.

James Cliffe, 10 years old, son of a farmer living on the Town Line road south of Libertyville, was struck by an automobile and fatally injured near his home yesterday afternoon. He died last evening at the Elizabeth Condell hospital in Libertyville.

START 40 MILE AUTO SPEED ON DUNES HIGHWAY

Slow Drivers Warned Not to Hold Up Traffic.

BY HAL FOUST.

The Indiana state police yesterday began enforcement of a forty mile an hour minimum speed limit on the Dunes highway between Michigan City and Gary. At the same time, the police were attempting to prohibit drivers from pulling to the left of the white line to cut around cars ahead. There were no arrests for slow driving on the first day of the traffic experiment. One or two week ends will be devoted to educating the motoring public to the new regulation, and then prosecutions will follow, according to Lieut. W. J. Wilson, who is in command of the five state police who patrol the twenty-five miles of pavement around the lower end of Lake Michigan.

Shortly before noon THE TRIBUNE reporter was in the stream of motorists that makes the Dunes highway one of the busiest two lane roads in the world. Traffic was moving between forty and forty-five miles an hour.

Traffic Is Blocked.

About five miles east of Gary the cars ahead slowed down to twenty-five miles an hour. There was a string of 50 automobiles ahead crawling at this slow rate. West bound traffic was so heavy to cut around the blockade without risking an accident. An Illinois driver tried to swing around the line and a head-on collision was narrowly averted as he had difficulty swerving back to his own side of the pavement.

As the parade continued, more automobiles joined the string behind THE TRIBUNE car, making a couple of miles solid to the twenty-five mile an hour pace set by the leader. Then there was the "put put" of a motorcycle exhaust approaching from the rear. A white motorcycle passed, ridden by a khaki uniformed state policeman. He rode to the head of the blockade and pulled the car leading the parade off the pavement on to the dirt shoulder of the road.

The driver was a young fellow from Chicago's south side, with open shirt collar, white duck trousers and a sailor hat. He was accompanied by a girl.

Warned by Policeman.

"You're blocking traffic," said the policeman. "Do you know how fast you were going?"

"I know I wasn't speeding," the youth replied, smiling. "I don't know how fast I was going; I was talking to my girl friend."

"This is nothing to smile about," said the policeman. "You were holding back a couple of dozen automobile owners who have a right to use this highway at a reasonable speed. We've had thirteen fatal accidents between Gary and Michigan City since the first of the year, most of them caused directly by thoughtless driving like you were doing, forcing others to cut around. Now get back on the pavement and keep up with the machine ahead of you."

Driving on to Michigan City, it was noticed that there were not nearly as many as usual of those blockades behind slow drivers on the 25 mile stretch.

One Accident During Day.

There have been 151 persons injured in Dunes highway traffic since Memorial day. Yesterday only one accident was reported. It occurred 6 miles west of Michigan City when an unidentified motorist swung out of the traffic line in front of the machine of F. W. Kreger, 6720 Cottage Grove avenue, Chicago, forcing Kreger's car off the road. A car following, driven by Ariand Dariangeer of St. Joseph, Mich., skidded and crashed into Kreger's machine, killing Mrs. Amanda Wilcox, 76 years old, of Florida, who was riding in Dariangeer's car, and injuring Kreger.

Signs are being erected, warning of arrests for cutting out of line, and police are being stationed in Michigan City and at the Dunes State park entrance telling drivers to maintain a forty mile an hour pace.

"We don't want to make any wholesales arrests," said Lieut. Wilson. "Most of the drivers on this highway are residents of other states, three-fourths of them from Illinois. They are guests of Indiana.

"We'll make only enough arrests to educate the public to this safety measure. Those who drive much faster and those who drive much slower than the average speed of traffic are a menace to the motoring public and Indiana statutes provide for their prosecution."

"It shall be unlawful," reads part of section 43 of the Indiana motor vehicle act, "for any person to drive on any of the public highways of this state in the reckless of dangerous manner."

Mackay and Bride Attend Church

Plan Honeymoon

Roslyn, N. Y., July 19.—(AP)—After attending mass today in the little red church in which they were married yesterday, Clarence H. Mackay, telegraph magnate, and Anna Case, former Metropolitan Opera star, prepared to leave tonight for an unannounced destination.

It was believed they would motor to Gardiner's island, near Montauk. The Machenoch, Mackay's yacht, with steam up, is anchored nearby.

TEST AUTOS THIS WEEK IN SEVEN SAFETY LANES

Mayor Urges Motorists to Take Part.

Motorists of city have chance to get cars tested free this week at seven safety lanes.

Beginning today and lasting throughout the week all automobile owners in Chicago have an opportunity to have their cars tested free of charge for faulty brakes and other mechanical defects. In seven sections of the city safety lanes where the tests will be made were established yesterday.

In these lanes a motorist tests his brakes by driving at a given speed and suddenly applying his brakes. The resistance of the wheels to the floor is recorded on gauges. The headlights, horn, rear view mirror, windshield wiper, steering wheel play and wheel alignment also are tested.

Defects to Be Listed.

The cars which pass the inspection will be given "O. K." stickers, and those which have defective equipment which might contribute to an automobile accident will be given lists of such defects so that they can be corrected.

If the motorists who do not obtain "O. K." stickers wish to return to a safety lane for a second inspection, their cars will be put through the tests again without any charge and the approval sticker issued if all equipment is found in safe condition.

The safety lanes were established jointly by the city council committee on traffic and public safety and the Chicago safety council.

Mayor Urges Tests.

Mayor Cermak has urged automobile owners to take advantage of the safety lanes which are located at the following points:

Fair Oaks street between Broadway and Sheridan.

Ashland avenue between 68th and 69th streets.

VOLIVA SILENT ON SUCCESSOR AS RITES END

The feast of the tabernacle at Zion ended yesterday without the announcement by Wilbur Glenn Voliva, leader of the religious colony there, of his successor as head of the Christian Catholic Apostolic church.

His announcement that at the termination of the feast he would name his successor and give out the terms of his will, disposing of a personal fortune reputed to consist of several millions of dollars, was made two weeks ago, but was rescinded on Saturday.

Voliva recently has had trouble with C. F. Caldwell and David Grainey, former apostles in the church who seceded several years ago, over the sale of a tract of land within the city limits to a real estate company.

It is reported that Voliva's change of plan and refusal to name his successor is due to the trouble over the real estate deal, which has resulted in several lawsuits. When that is straightened out, members of his sect believe, he will name Apostle M. J. Minturn, his right hand man at present, as his successor.

PLAN WORK CURE FOR OKLAHOMA HUNGER PARADE

Henryetta to Start Local Improvements.

Henryetta, Okla., July 19.—(AP)—Henryetta civic leaders today decided to inaugurate a building and improvement campaign to aid an unemployment situation which yesterday resulted in a hunger march of 500 persons on grocery stores.

Each jobless family head will be given enough aid to provide the necessities of life and an ironclad rule of "no work, no eat" will be adopted. The plan will be inaugurated Tuesday.

State aid also is expected to develop from interest of Gov. W. H. Murray in the plight of unemployed. Mayor Barclay Morgan will go to Oklahoma City tomorrow to confer with the governor.

Distribute Food.

Local charity organizations today continued to distribute food in addition to that given 550 persons by merchants yesterday. Virtually all store managements contributed merchandise after being visited by the marchers, who carried an American flag and were led by Charles Holmes, a country preacher.

Under the relief plan adopted today, nine civic and county projects were outlined in a building and improvement program.

The civic leaders, determined to care only for the deserving, decided upon a "weeding out" plan to eliminate any persons not sincerely seeking work. Mayor Morgan announced there would be no more assembling of unemployed at the city hall or at the courthouse.

Road Is Planned.

Establishment of a municipal commissary may be decided upon. A finance committee was appointed to raise money for carrying out the projects. The outstanding project approved at the meeting was the building of a road to the municipal lake three miles from town.

It also was decided to clean the streets and alleys, and to clear vacant lots for gardens.

HOOVER'S PHYSICIAN AIDS INJURED WOMAN ON WAY TO RAPIDAN

Luray, Va., July 19.—(AP)—President Hoover today enjoyed complete relaxation in the restful quiet in his mountain camp.

CAPT. J. T. BOONE. [Harris & Ewing.]

During the day the President directed his physician, Capt. Joel T. Boone, to make inquiries about the condition of the wife of Commander William F. Newton of Washington, who was injured yesterday in an automobile accident just before the President's party arrived on the scene en route to the camp.

The President stopped and had Capt. Boone attend her. Suffering from cuts and shocks she was taken to Warrenton, Va., for further treatment.

A week before a newspaper correspondent and his wife, riding in an automobile behind the President, were injured when a bus cut in ahead of them.

It was then suggested that a motorcycle escort be provided for the 90 mile trip to and from Washington. The run yesterday, however, was made without escort.

SCHOOL BOARD PREPARES TO PAY OUT MORE SCRIP

Clerks Work on Sunday to Get Ready.

A dozen special clerks, supervised by Charles E. Gilbert, secretary of the board of education, worked all day yesterday and last night, sorting, listing, and examining applications for scrip which will be handed out again this week to school employés who will take it in lieu of overdue salaries.

Employés who applied last Tuesday may obtain their certificates today while those who applied on Wednesday should not appear until Thursday, Mr. Gilbert said. He explained that hereafter six days will be required for clerical work between the day of application and issuance of the scrip.

Some Can Use It, Some Can't.

About 500 persons called for certificates on Saturday. Of these only 20 were teachers. A large part of the others were janitors.

"Some of those taking scrip seem to be able to cash or use it and some can't," Mr. Gilbert said. "We had several cases Saturday night in which uninformed janitors came back with their scrip and tried to get us to cash it. They didn't know what to do with it. Of course, they went away disappointed."

Members of the Chicago Teachers' federation are to meet in the Capitol building tomorrow morning to discuss plans for the relief of teachers in distress. Letters were sent to 500 members calling attention to legal opinions attacking the validity of the scrip. Suggestions have been made that the teachers sue the school board for their salaries and use the judgments secured as evidence of indebtedness in paying bills.

Teachers Cold to Scrip.

The teachers' organizations from the first have been cold to the scrip payments with the result that few of the teachers have taken them despite the pressure of rent, grocery and clothing bills.

Members of the school board yesterday were scattered at various places on week-end trips. The board is to meet again on Wednesday, when it is expected to discuss the investigation by members of Gov. Emmerson's revenue commission into waste and extravagance in school operations.

Meanwhile the governor's commission will continue its hearings tomorrow night. It has invited members of the city council finance committee, which makes the city budgets, to appear before it at the Union League club. The commission members are expected to demand complete reports on city hall pay rolls and expenditures with a view to determining where economies can be effected.

Riots in India Result in Eleven Deaths; 200 Hurt

BOMBAY, July 19.—(AP)—News of grave riots in several parts of India was contained in reports reaching here today. At Bangalore yesterday police fired on groups of demonstrators at the Binny mills, killing five and wounding more than 100. At Veraval, in the state of Junagarh, six Hindus were killed in factional disturbances. One native was shot at Cawnport during a revolutionary riot.

BOGAN FAVORS BETTER TRAINING IN CITIZENSHIP

Citizenship training in the public schools should be made more practical and extended over the whole school life of each pupil, Superintendent William J. Bogan declared in the first chapter of his annual report to the board of education made public yesterday.

A compulsory course in civics for high school seniors constitutes the only definite citizenship instruction in most of the high schools of the United States, Mr. Bogan pointed out.

"Even the salute to the flag, with its pledge of allegiance to the republic, is meaningless until that abstract "Republic," sometimes regarded as a golden matron located in world fairs or in Washington, is made real," he said. "The children should be taught that the republic means father, mother, brothers, sisters and neighborhoods, and that the unpatriotic citizen is a menace."

The report called attention to the survey of citizenship training being made in the Chicago schools by a committee of educators and to a similar study by the Chicago Principals' club.

SO DR. STEELE'S OBITUARY IS USED AFTER 14 YEARS

Written by Himself While Dean of College.

On May 25, 1917, THE TRIBUNE received from Dr. Daniel A. K. Steele a communication stating that he was inclosing his latest photograph, taken while he was senior dean of the college of medicine of the University of Illinois, and data pertaining to his activities as a physician and a citizen.

"Please put these in your obituary box," Dr. Steele requested, "and keep them there as long as you can. I know it may be some years before you may find it necessary to use them for the purpose for which I am sending them."

Writes Own Obituary.

His obituary, as written by himself, read as follows:

"Dr. D. A. K. Steele was born in Elba, O., March 29, 1852, and spent his early years on a farm in southern Illinois, attending the district schools and afterwards the Oakdale academy. He graduated from the Chicago Medical college in 1873 and served as an interne in Cook county hospital for sixteen months, entering active practice in Chicago in the spring of 1875.

"In 1881 he was one of the founders and incorporators of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Chicago and was its secretary for a number of years, occupying the chair of surgery from the foundation to the present time.

"From 1894 to 1913 he was president of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, and in 1897 took an active part in securing a lease of the college to the University of Illinois. He served as dean of the college until 1912, when he was appointed chairman of a committee that secured all the stock of the college as a gift to the trustees of the University of Illinois, and on March 4, 1913, presented the college to the university as its permanent medical department.

Dean of Medical College.

"Since 1913 Dr. Steele has been dean of the college of medicine of the University of Illinois.

"He was one of the founders of the Medico-Legal society of Chicago and of the Chicago Biological society. He was president of the Chicago Medical society in 1894. From 1887 to 1890 he was president of the medical staff of the Cook county hospital and is now a member of the consulting staff. He was one of the founders and president of the Chicago hospital and the West Side hospital.

"In 1906 Dr. Steele was granted the honorary degree of LL. D. by the University of Illinois for distinguished service as a medical teacher. At present he is president of the Municipal tuberculosis sanitarium consulting staff, president of the Illinois board committee on medical service for the army and navy, is a major of the Medical Reserve corps; president of the Illinois division, Medical Reserve corps, and director of Base Hospital unit No. 14, Chicago."

Death Occurs in Florida.

Dr. Steele resigned as dean of the medical college of the university in July, 1917. Yesterday he died at Sarasota, Fla., where he had made his home since his retirement from practice about ten years ago. The obituary he wrote is being used fourteen years and fifty-six days after it was received.

His widow, Mrs. Alice Tomlinson Steele, survives. Funeral services probably will be held in Chicago.

LOTUS FLOWERS BEGIN TO BLOOM

Flock to Lake

Within the next five days the lotus flowers on Grass lake, in the chain of lakes northwest of Chicago, should be in full bloom, a visit to the lake revealed yesterday. The first of the blossoms, rare in this part of the world, opened their petals yesterday, with indications that there will be more and larger flowers in the present crop than ever before. Ray Preganzer, sportsman of the district, declared the full blooming should be reached this week and that nature lovers would soon be flocking to view the sight.

PENNSYLVANIA'S DEMOCRATS MAY BACK ROOSEVELT

New York, July 19.—[Special.]—The Pennsylvania delegation to the Democratic national convention in 1932 will support almost solidly the presidential candidacy of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, according to a prediction made today by Joseph F. Guffey, former Democratic national committeeman from the Keystone state and a power in the party organization of his state.

It was the first pledge of this character to come from a recognized party leader, and friends of Gov. Roosevelt naturally hailed it with great satisfaction. Owing to the position taken by the governor—that he is not a candidate for the nomination—however, they refrained from making any comment. They expect Guffey's statement will be followed by similar assurances from party leaders in other states, now that the ice has been broken.

POISON GAS USED BY RUM RUNNER TO HALT PURSUIT

Vineyard Haven, Mass., July 19.—(AP)—A story of poisonous gas laid on the sea by a fleeing rum boat to engulf a pursuing coast guard craft and incapacitate its crew, was revealed today when two coast guardsmen were released from a hospital after a month's treatment.

Commander Roderick S. Petch of the Woods Hole coast guard base said rum runners had used a gaseous smoke screen on June 26 to effect their escape. Stanley Zylinski and Arthur Zeliars were discharged from the Marine hospital today where they had been treated for gas poisoning.

The coast guard boat was chasing the rum runner off Nantucket and fired a shot across the fleeing boat's bow when it swung into the wind and laid down the gas.

QUEEN HELEN IN LONDON; CLAIMS SHE WILL RETURN

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 20.—An emigre from the country where once she was queen, Helen of Rumania arrived in London tonight, accompanied by her brother, George, former king of Greeece, and was received with tearful greetings by a crowd of exiled relatives, headed by a short little figure in black, her mother, the former dowager Queen Sophie of Greece.

QUEEN HELEN.
[A. & P. Photo.]

Helen, who is now a princess by permission or compulsion of King Carol, traveled from Bucharest with former King George of Greece for a visit which, it was asserted in a little communique given out at her hotel, she will end next October. She was very emphatic in this, her first utterance since a long siege of rumor and gossip was set up around her by the coup d'etat with which her wandering and disinherited husband regained the throne.

Court Predicts Fate.

It was also her first appearance in the light of day outside Rumania since Carol's return. Court speculators had variously predicted that her fate would be imprisonment in a convent, exile on a mean allowance aboard or, as result of wild and uncredited talk in London three weeks ago, death by poisoning.

"I have come abroad for a holiday, to pay a visit to my family and to take a cure," Helen's statement reads. "This journey has been taken in mutual understanding with the king, and I will be returning to Rumania at the end of October, to be back for my son's birthday.

"This, I hope, will definitely end the annoying and harmful press campaign of these last few months, as it is most unpleasant to me. I always have and always will disapprove of being used as a subject of sensational press comment."

Greeted by Relatives.

Besides her mother, former Queen Sophie, other exiled royalty making up Helen's scattered and disowned family present at the station included Princesses Irene, Catherine and Theodora, Prince Paul, Princess Aspasia, with her eleven year old daughter, and Princess Alexandra, all of Greece.

Despite denials to the rumor, which is now stronger than ever, that Helen has left Rumania for good, except for occasional trips to see her nine year old son Michael, who has already held and lost the throne. A close friend who was with the party told THE TRIBUNE that Helen means to remain in England for a long period.

"By a long period," she added, "I mean years. It is very probable that she will make England her home."

EVANSTON LIFTS 15 MIN. PARKING RULE AT BEACHES

Evanston yesterday abandoned the 15 minute parking rules near its bathing beaches, adopted with the object of confining the use of the beaches to Evanston residents. Mayor Charles H. Bartlett ordered the police on Saturday night to permit parking on one side of streets in the restricted area. Yesterday was the first week end during which admission was charged to bathers on four of the suburb's seven beaches. Admission was by tickets, those admitting a family for the season selling for $1, while single swims cost 50 cents at the restricted beaches.

FASTER SEWAGE PROCESS GOES INTO USE TODAY

The first battery of heat digestion sewage tanks to be installed in the United States and the second on the American continent will be placed in operation this morning by the Sanitary district. If successful they will cut the time needed for sewage disposal by about 50 per cent.

The digestion tanks have been in the process of installation at the west side sewage treatment plant since Feb. 1 and cost approximately $200,000. They will serve largely as experimental units at the present time, because the battery of three Imhoff tanks, of which two are now in use, will care for 1,300,000 people.

At the present time a similar plant is in operation in Toronto and another under construction at Peoria.

The Calumet disposal plant, which when completed will care for the domestic sewage of a population of 450,000, will be entirely equipped with the new type of tank if experiments are satisfactory, officials said.

RENEW ATTACK ON PRAECIPE AS BLACKMAIL AID

Judges and Lawyers Score Archaic Document.

A flood of mysterious damage suits filed during the last month in the Superior and Circuit courts yesterday caused judges and lawyers of high standing to renew an attack upon the praecipe, an archaic document obsolete in most states, which permits legal process to be started in Illinois with no explanation of the cause of action.

Suits for damages ranging from $10,000 to $1,000,000 have been filed by lawyers who refused to reveal the basis of the action. The most reputable citizen may be named as defendant in these suits and be subjected to all sorts of conjectures, it was pointed out. The suit may never be pressed, but the defendant has no redress.

Praecipe Simple Document.

The praecipe is a small document containing the simple statement that A is suing B for a certain amount. The name of A's lawyer is attached. That is all.

No hint of the cause of action is included. Under the Illinois law the plaintiff is not required to substantiate the righteousness of his claim until several months have passed. Then a declaration must be filed.

It is this period before a declaration is filed in which the opportunities are rich for unscrupulous lawyers to intimidate defendants into settlements out of court for fear of publicity, according to critics of the praecipe.

Abolition Is Considered.

Judge Denis E. Sullivan, head of the chancery division of the Superior court and vice chairman of the judicial advisory council, who is now on his way to Europe, announced some ago that the abolition of the praecipe was being considered by the council.

"There are three classes of suits especially where the praecipe should be barred," Judge Joseph Sabath declared. "They are alienation of affection and breach of promise actions, and suits in which physicians are named as defendants."

A survey of the court records revealed that in the three classes of suits named by Judge Sabath, many cases are dismissed without a declaration ever being filed.

Likened to Blackmail.

"Reputable lawyers should pledge themselves not to file damage suits unless a full statement of the case is filed with the praecipe," Attorney Nicholas A. Socrates declared. "Otherwise, the action savors of blackmail."

"The law should be such that a complainant should state his case to a judge before being given permission to file a suit which may blacken a character or reputation," asserted Attorney Otto Baer.

John Stone, well known legal historian, related the origin of the praecipe, revealing why it had been done away with in many states.

"Blackstone says that the praecipe was originally a mandatory letter from the king (of England) in parchment, sealed with his great seal," he said. "It was directed to the sheriff of the county wherein the supposed injury was committed, requiring him to command the accused party either to do justice to the complainant or appear in court and answer to the accusation against him.

"It was a maxim, according to Blackstone, introduced by the Normans that there be no proceedings before the king's justices without his original writ. They thought it unfit that these justices, being only substitutes of the crown, should take cognizance of anything except what the king referred to their attention."

No Penalty for Fake.

In these ancient times, if a complainant failed in the prosecution of a case after filing a praecipe, he was liable to a fine or other penalty from the king. Illinois, having no king, does not penalize the fake praecipe filer.

Court attaches, familiar with the system, recalled many suits which were filed for large sums, amidst an attendant blare of publicity and which were never prosecuted.

They recalled the suit for $250,000 against a prominent real estate man filed by another man. The attorney in the case said the suit was for alienation of the affections of his client's wife, but refused to give any more details. The case was quietly dropped a few weeks later.

Again, a number of breach of promise suits for sums ranging from $100,000 to $500,000 have been filed by jilted maidens against prominent men. Only a praecipe was filed in each of these cases and none of them was brought to trial.

REVOLT LOOMS AGAINST CZAR OF FILM UNION

operators out of jobs altogether or assigning them places with minimum wages, thus making room for the permit men in the high salaried jobs and appropriating their 10 per cent union commissions to himself.

Mr. Bellows cited charges made by a Cicero theater owner.

"According to the grand jury testimony, this owner was employing a permit man, who had refused tribute to Maloy," Prosecutor Bellows said. "Maloy ordered the owner to discharge him and, when he refused, slugged the owner and chased him with a pistol.

"The owner remained obdurate until, upon discovering an unexploded dynamite bomb in the theater basement, he capitulated. Maloy then recanted and told the owner that his operator might retain the job if he paid $2,000.

How Maloy, an undersized man with a retreating chin and timid disposition, was able to terrorize owners and operators was something of a mystery to the state's attorney's office, Mr. Bellows said, until the association between him and Stanton was discovered.

"Stanton admitted to me personally that he saw Maloy regularly three times a week," the prosecutor said. "Knowing that Stanton had been Capone's muscle man in his attempt to capture the plumbers' union, it was simple to explain his association with Maloy and deduce the source of Maloy's bravado."

The Stanton-Maloy association also offered an explanation of the disposal of much of Maloy's income, in Mr. Bellow's view.

SHEED IN JUNKMAN'S MURDER.

Andrew Liminsky, 2849 North Halsted street, was arrested last night by Policeman Thomas Murray of the Shefield avenue station, in connection with the murder on May 5 of John Carlson, 940 West Harrison street, a junkman.

POLICEMAN NABS FLEEING MAN IN AUTO HOLDUP

Policeman William C. Schroll took after a man who ran past him in North Wells street yesterday, and after a chase captured Oscar Olsen, 37 years old, 4719 West Jackson boulevard. Olsen denied ownership of a revolver found in an alley into which Schroll said he saw him toss a shiny object during the chase.

As Schroll led his prisoner into the Chicago avenue station they were met by Earl C. Duncan of Brookville, O., who was entering the station to report that three men had robbed him. He identified Olsen as one of the bandits.

Duncan stopped his automobile in La Salle street near Oak street to ask directions of the men, who drew revolvers and held him up. They took $3 and a $30 watch from him, he said, but overlooked $350 which he carried in another pocket.

This is the year VALUE Counts

THIS YEAR differs from all former years in motor car buying. Sweeping changes in engineering, originated by Studebaker, are revising the whole motoring picture. The public, alert to economy and value as never before, is turning its back on old ideas and practices—searching the whole motor car field for cars that give more and cost less.

Free Wheeling, pioneered by Studebaker, is an example. This epochal achievement fits right in with the needs of the moment for increased thrift in car operation.

Free Wheeling, plus the surplus of dollar value built into every Studebaker, undoubtedly accounts for the swing-over of so many owners of other makes to Studebaker cars.

What Comparison Shows

STUDEBAKER was first in its industry to solve the problem of large-scale production of quality Eights at moderate prices. Indeed, long before Studebaker originated and announced Free Wheeling a year ago, the seasoned Studebaker Eights were writing motoring history for speed and stamina—and they still hold more stock car championships than all other American makes combined.

Today, nine other makers have adopted or adapted Free Wheeling, but Studebaker goes marching on to new triumphs—offering Free Wheeling in its finest form with positive gear control plus unprecedented silence of engine, body and chassis.

Comparison of all other cars at all prices with the Studebaker cars plainly shows that Studebakers cost less to own. Studebaker Free Wheeling establishes 15% to 20% savings in gas and oil—substantially decreases chassis wear and the costs of repair.

More Car for the Money

STUDEBAKER experience in effecting manufacturing economies is working for you in these new times with vigor and earnestness. More is being put into Studebaker cars but no premium is being added. The prices are the lowest and the cars are the finest in Studebaker history.

People who could pay a good deal more are buying the large, luxurious Presidents and Commanders because they offer value in tune with the times—value that is similarly evident in the lower priced Studebakers.

To get the most in a new car get a Free Wheeling Studebaker.

Free Wheeling Studebaker Models and Prices

The President Eight	$1850 to $2550	The Dictator Eight	$1095 to $1225
The Commander Eight	1585 to 1685	The Studebaker Six	845 to 970

Prices at the factory

Free Wheeling with positive gear control is standard equipment on all Studebaker models at no extra charge. Five wire wheels are optional on all models at no extra charge. Duplex carburetor, carburetor silencer, full power muffler and center arm rest in rear seat are standard equipment on all Eights. Roller bearing steering gear, ball bearing spring shackles and safety glass windshields are standard equipment on all President and Commander Eights.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE YEAR OF THE BIG SMASH.

The federal bureau of census in one of its surveys analyzes revenue and expenses in the group of Chicago governments for 3929. The composite is about what would constitute a municipal corporation in a more simply organized city and may be accepted as the city of Chicago, including parks, schools, the city proper, some of the county, part of the sanitary district and forest preserve, etc. It is a picture for the city taxpayer looking at administrations within the city limits.

The census survey finds that the revenue in this composite for the year ending Dec. 31, 1929, was $146,525,990 less than the costs of government, permanent improvements included. The spenders were able to collect only $161,260,961 while they were expending $344,849,951. The bureau does not take account why it was so, merely showing that the public corporations were spending this much more than they were able to find in their normal sources of revenue. We know there was suspension of tax payments and frantic borrowing, but nevertheless the summation, even unexplained, is a picture of collapse. Political government was degraded to unbelievable levels of incompetence and rascality to produce such a situation in which there is a failure to meet costs by nearly a hundred and fifty million dollars.

The explanations, familiar to most citizens, merely in the end explain that the whole political system at last ran itself on the rocks and there it's stuck.

A LAW TO PROMOTE UNEMPLOYMENT.

An act passed by the last legislature required that all governments in Illinois, in awarding contracts, provide that the wages paid by the contractor be those current in the community in which the construction is to be done. This law was put forward in the name of union labor, with a view to maintaining wage levels, particularly in the building trades.

The possible consequences of the law were probably not carefully explored. It is difficult to believe that the proponents of the legislation foresaw the results which have already become evident. Because of the law, bids for paving which were received before July 1 have been returned unopened. New bids must be advertised for. The state director of highways, Mr. Cleaveland, is of the opinion that there is but a slim chance of undertaking some $17,000,000 in paving which was on the program for this year. The officials of the Chicago Motor club estimate that 3,000 men who might have been employed in paving state highways this year will remain unemployed because of the new law.

It is well to maintain wage scales if possible, but to attempt to do so at such a cost is little short of criminal at a time of general unemployment. There have been few clearer instances of ill considered legislation.

MR. WITHALL TESTIFIES.

The members of the governor's committee showed a certain naïveté in their questioning of the business manager of the school board. They persisted in asking Mr. Withall about matters of business administration and seemed astonished when he was unable to reply accurately and promptly. The members of the committee continued their line of questioning even after Mr. Withall had listed his previous employments.

The board of education budget this year approximates $95,000,000. Mr. Withall, when asked what his duties were, replied "practically everything." By way of preparation for having "practically everything" to do with the spending of $95,000,000, he said he had served some fourteen years ago in the state department of mediation. Then, under Gov. Small, he was chairman of the state industrial commission. At length he rose to the rank of secretary to State's Attorney Crowe.

Mr. Withall is a politician, as this record makes plain. The members of the committee should not, therefore, have asked him about possible economies. They should have asked him what precincts various school board employés control and how those precincts came through in the last election. These and related subjects the ex-mediator, ex-commissioner and ex-secretary might have been expected to have at his fingers' tips.

Though the questioning of Mr. Withall did not bring much specific information to light, the time spent in examining him was by no means wasted. It is relatively easier, now, to see why the school administration, though unable to pay the teachers, has been reluctant to undertake economies. A political faction which formerly disposed of most of the patronage and most of the public contracts of Chicago has been driven from every important stronghold save the schools. The normal inclination of politicians to waste the taxpayers' money is exaggerated in the minds of the gentlemen of this faction who control school affairs because it is virtually their only remaining means of advancing their political fortunes.

AMENITIES AT YORKTOWN.

Representative Sol Bloom of New York has been informed that some one in the state department advised the Yorktown celebration committee to omit the surrender scene from the pageantry to avoid possible offense to British susceptibilities in a time of peace and grace. Mr. Bloom took the trail with an ax. The first report was that the department had censored the show, but it appears that the question arose in the committee and the department was consulted. The remainder of the episode is vague, but it seems to have been decided that the surrender scene was unnecessary.

It is proposed to do a great deal ceremonially with the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the—the—visit—of Lord Cornwallis to the Yorktown peninsula in 1781, the nativity, as it may be regarded, of the English Speaking union. Preparations have been afoot for many months. The present view of the affair would seem to be that of Lord Cornwallis himself at the time. He made very little of the surrender then. It was an incident that could be overdone and personally he pleaded an indisposition and sent his second in command.

The committee, however, ignores the fact that the British now are pleased with the outcome and would not have had it otherwise. This is made plain at every Fourth of July dinner in London, and Americans have the assurance of nearly every important personage in British public affairs that the Yorktown surrender is equal to Magna Charta in its influence upon the English speaking peoples. It would be unworthy of Americans to think these assurances insincere. Great Britain is much more likely to be hurt by an omission of the delivery of the sword to Gen. Lincoln than by an inclusion of this scene in the pageant.

The omission would delete from the ceremonies one of the several most important events in British history and, furthermore, the Nelson family will not know how to explain the cannon ball hole in the stately old Nelson house unless it is found that Washington threw the ball there as a way of burying the hatchet or was pitching the weight in the games to celebrate the founding of the English Speaking union. With such a view of the affair Yorktown becomes merely the place where McClellan wasted a month in the march on Richmond. Virginia will be willing to celebrate that twice a year. Or should it better be regarded as a prolonged social call?

AIR COOLING NEXT.

Not long ago, as time is counted in human progress, homes were not very well defended from cold. We need not go back to medieval times, although they are not far off measured by our descent from the cave man, to realize the comfort of the modern dwelling. The few windows of the castles had no glass and glazed paper took its place in the houses of the well-to-do. Heat came from fireplaces and they were the chief device for heating until the arrival of the stove. American ingenuity created central heating, which is little known in sophisticated Europe today. But the problem of keeping warm in winter is pretty well solved and notably so in the United States. We are now, at least in America, beginning to learn how to keep cool.

The American movie theater is a pioneer in this advance in human comfort, and other theaters, hotels, restaurants and even offices in the large cities are using air cooling devices which defy the worst heat waves. The economic factor is the most difficult to deal with. Applied science already has provided efficient means of air cooling, but since intensely and even uncomfortably hot weather lasts but a comparatively short time in the regions where the demand for improvements in living is most general and persistent and where there is enough general prosperity to support it, the problem is so to cheapen the process of air cooling as to justify its general adoption in dwellings. In the recent experimentation of the Pullman company means of cooling passenger cars were found and satisfactorily applied. But the cost was very high. Few home owners can afford to maintain air cooling devices, especially as hot weather does not last long.

Nevertheless, experiment and invention are not balked continually by obstacles, at least where, as with the American people, there is a strong and persistent demand for better living conditions. In due time methods of air cooling in dwellings, in trains and in offices will be brought within our means. This, we are convinced, is going to be one of the improvements of the near future and will be one of the new fields in which money may be invested and labor employed.

It is by invention and the active exploitation of the possibilities of improvements in the common life, in transport, commerce and industry that we shall help in great measure to bring ourselves out of depression. In spite of our financial difficulties we are working gradually toward a condition in which both the ability and the will to take advantage of new improvements in living and working will reassert itself with increasing force. In spite of many misfortunes and difficulties and dark forebodings depressing our spirit at this moment, our way is forward, not back, and our greatest need is faith in that assurance.

SHORT SELLING.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

When southwestern farmers are clamoring for government relief from low prices it is a friendly gesture on the President's part to slap the short sellers on the wrist, to threaten even to publish their names.

But the President knows the price of wheat is not dictated by those offending short sellers. He knows it is a result of huge production this year, combined with a heavy carry-over, for which the farm board is largely responsible, and discontinuation six weeks ago of its stabilization program which held the price of American wheat temporarily above world levels.

The President, it is feared, is weakening and could easily be persuaded that stabilization operations by the board should be resumed. If he is in the process of coming to that decision, the alleged abuses of a few short sellers might offer the desired justification.

But before short selling is condemned out of hand it would be well to recall what persons high in administration circles said about it in the autumn of 1929 when the stock market broke. The trouble, they asserted, was that there was no short interest, that every one believed prices were going up indefinitely. They were right.

If the traders who are now going short of wheat are wrong in their judgment, as the President intimates, the losses they will be obliged to take when they cover their commitments will be their fair and just punishment.

A CHANCE FOR THE ELDERLY

SEVERAL years ago somewhat careful estimates indicated that the average age at death was 56, and that it would be 60 by this year. With this as what is commonly called the average span of life there must be a very large number of people living at ages beyond 70, in order that there be some compensation for the many deaths of babies and young people generally.

Dr. A. Epstein is quoted as saying that in the states there are over five and a half million people who are beyond 65 years of age, and that the number of old people now living in all the states is in excess of the total population at the time of the revolution. There are 3 million between 65 and 70; a million and a half between 70 and 75, a million between 75 and 80, and three-quarters of a million over 80. Of these old people 2 million are dependent and cared for in public and private institutions at a yearly cost of half a billion dollars. If the present trend continues for a quarter of a century, as it probably will, the numbers will be increased much out of proportion to the increase in population, and the cost of care of dependent aged will be much higher than a billion dollars yearly.

In certain regions, for instance upper New England and parts of the south, the proportion of the aged in the total population dominates more than one phase of life.

The cost of care, when added to the cost of care of the mentally sick, probably exceeds that of maintenance of the federal government, and exceeds the cost of most other forms of government after elimination of the costs of schools.

The official age at which employability ceases in several arms of the government is around 65. Few businesses will continue the employment of persons much beyond that age. None will take on new employés of that age. The tendency of old fashioned homes to disappear adds greatly to the problem. The situation is a grave one and, plainly, it will be a threat to every one within a few years. And what are we doing about it?

There are several pension systems of one sort and another, and a considerable number of homes. These care for incapacity attendant on old age. A much more important question is, What is being done by way of preventing poverty, incapacity, and discomfort among old people?

The federal government has a safety bank department for the encouragement of thrift. Possibly a few other efforts at prevention could be cited. However, the list would be a short one. There is need for a systematized plan to readjust jobs so that the elderly could make their own living doing work for which they are fitted. Physicians need to know about cancer, heart disease, Bright's disease, cataract, glaucoma, deafness, and the other diseases of old age. They need to know how to prevent them as well as how to cure them. They need to know more than they do about methods of maintaining comfort, as well as efficiency, among the aged.

LACK OF TRAINING.

N. A. E. writes: Why does a 21 year old girl suck her thumb at every possible opportunity, when she thinks there is no one looking at her? She has been doing it since childhood.

REPLY.

This is probably only one manifestation of infantile habits and reactions which this lady has. Many people carry over some of these baby habits into adult life. It is a sign of a lack of mental strength, but not one of great importance. In fact, there are certain social relations for which babyishness is a qualification.

It is of more significance as an evidence of lack of character. Most of all, it indicates lack of training.

NUMB HANDS AND FEET.

M. B. F. writes: My hands and feet become numb. What is the cause and a probable cure?

REPLY.

The probable cause is pressure on a nerve. Among the causes of such pressure are sitting on a hard chair, sleeping on the hands or arms, wearing tight clothing, or tight bands.

PERMANENT WAVES.

Mrs. F. writes: Does permanent waving turn the hair gray?

REPLY.

LEVY AGAINST FARM.

Chicago, July 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I own a farm in Michigan. Last summer I bought lumber for $45 paying $30 of the amount but am unable to pay any more.

1. Can the lumber company collect from the farm?
2. The debt is over a year old.
3. What means would they use?

O. Y.

1. They could take a judgment against you and file it as a lien against the real estate.
2. This would not bar it.
3. We are not in a position to say what they will do.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SUPPORT OF PARENTS.

Chicago, July 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is a daughter bound in any way for the board and room rent of her father?

How much, if any, when there are two sons and another daughter?

M. E. B.

Our pauper act requires near relatives to contribute according to their means to the support of destitute persons except that married women are not required to contribute unless they have independent means. Apply to the bureau of public welfare in the county building.

PRETTY POLLY.

Chicago, July 14. — [Friend of the People.]—I live on Fulton avenue and one of my neighbors has a parrot, which she keeps on the back porch, that annoys every one with its holloing. It is interfering with my sleep, and can't something be done to keep this bird quiet?

G. R.

The captain commanding 28th district had the above complaint investigated and the owner of the parrot stated she was sorry the parrot had caused annoyance to the people in the neighborhood, and she would see in the future that it would not happen again.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

AH, OUI, OUI! A BERLIN! ALLONSI! ALLONSI!

The French demands on Germany, in return for the money that France may lend her, are, as far as we can make out, about as follows:

A stone wall not less than forty feet high to be erected around Germany.

All gates in the wall to be guarded by the French army with fourteen inch navy guns, machine guns, high explosive mustard gas and tear gas bombs.

All Germans over the age of five to wear a ball and chain.

Every German to stand on his head at the approach of any French official and sing the "Marseillaise" in a loud voice.

Germans to keep their pockets turned inside out at all times to prove they have no money.

All German military officers, civil officials, members of the Reichstag and all those having a "von" in their names to be kept in cages in the principal towns in custody of French soldiers.

Geheimraths to wear a muzzle during the summer months, and only allowed out on the streets when kept on a leash and accompanied by a French keeper.

Burgomasters must wear bells on their necks and be kept in wire enclosures.

PASTORAL FOR JULY.

Not for the clover crushed beside the stile
At the lane's ending, redolent and sweet,
Nor for the long swaths bent among the wheat
Do I go running on this moonlit mile.
I dropped my book, I fled the lighted room,
The even lawns, the hedge's furthest mark,
Until I found the way across the dark,
Lined with the citizens of fur and plume.
I could not stop. Beyond the stile, the lane,
Into the woods I went, and waiting here,
Drawn even against my will and struck with fear
I hear the sound above the brook's again,
The pipes that I must follow while I can.
Before the moon goes down I will know Pan.

NANCY SHORES BURCHAM.

THERE'S ONLY one fly in the ointment of those happy souls who are going away on vacation this year. They may be mistaken for visitors when they come back and be slapped on the back by Greeter Gaw and told about the kiddies. O, how perfectly dreadful!

MARY HASTINGS BRADLEY, THE W. K. explorer, says that a cannibal family in Africa always dines off poor old dad when he cashes in. But, at any rate, while he is alive he doesn't have to endure a Father's Day and smoke a lot of cheap cigars that his loving relatives give him.

PARIS, MISSOURI.

Sir: Do you know Paris? Not that Paris where they say "Oui, Oui!" when you propose a drink, nor Paris, Illinois, where they say "O, Hell!" if you don't; but Paris, Missouri, where they argue with St. Paul to "Take a little wine for thy stomach's sake," and you'd think everybody was alling. What, Chicago? You don't know the location of Paris, Missouri! It is in Monroe county, hard by Salt River, and it had a noble culture when Chicago was but a collection of huts sticking up out of the mud flats of Lake Michigan with trading Yankees bartering tinware for lodging in the cheap boarding houses that once decorated Michigan Boul. For Paris, Missouri, was plotted by gentlemen from Virginia and Kentucky, who brought baying hounds, swift horses and lovely women, and whose slaves loved them so much that they lived and died on their masters' farms in Monroe county, scorning the salvation overtures of New England spinster school teachers, who would bring them the culture of dour Connecticut. In Paris, Missouri, it is still believed that Lee, with twenty thousand more troops, would have kept Grant out of Richmond as long as Al Capone will stay out of prison; that Jo Shelby was a finer cavalryman than "Jeb" Stuart; that "Pap" Price was a greater raider than Stonewall Jackson, and that if Abraham Lincoln had lived the Civil War profiteers in the North would have asked Jeff Davis to start another rebellion. But the town is going to fly the Stars and Stripes in August during the county's centennial celebration, and the seven remaining Confederate colonels have agreed to salute if the brass band will play "Dixie."

ABORIGINE.

"LINKED TO VAUSE SCANDAL."—New York Times. We knew that some day it would come to this. They couldn't keep on pronouncing it that way down in New York without finally spelling it like that. But out here in the hinterland, by heck, we'll still call it a vase.

AFTERGLOW.

When the earth's sun has set
There comes the afterglow,
Orchid and violet—
When the earth's sun has set.
When lovers part, regret
Embitters them so!
When the heart's sun has set
There is no afterglow.

MARJORIE F. W.

SPEAKING OF CAPTURING the G. O. P. national convention for Chicago, we are met by the fact that with Secretary Stimson, Uncle Andy Mellon, Charley Dawes and a lot more eminent Republicans rushing to London to attend the debt parley why not simplify matters by having the G. O. P. convention right now in London and ending the suspense?

SOMEHOW PEOPLE seem to have lost interest in the German crisis. The trouble is there's too many of them. If they were held down to three days a week, say Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, public interest would probably pick up a good deal.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 20, 1915.

LONDON.—The following German official report on the drive against the Russians has been received here: "The Germans have occupied Tukum and Windau in the province of Courland. Between the Vistula and the Bug the battle continues with unabated violence. The Austro-Hungarians have forced a crossing of the Wolicza river in the neighborhood of Grabovetz and advanced across the Bug to the north of Sokal, the Russians having during the night retreated along the whole front between the Vistula and the Bug. The Germans, from July 16 to July 18, captured 16,000 prisoners and twenty-three machine guns."

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Wilson, who returned from his vacation today, intends to take the following steps in defense of American rights on the high seas: He will send to Berlin a note rejecting the German conditions of immunity for Americans in the submarine war zone and declaring the intention of the United States to protect its citizens in the legitimate exercise of privileges guaranteed by international law covering warfare on peaceful commerce. Shortly thereafter he will dispatch to London a note asserting that the United States cannot longer tolerate the disruption of its commerce by operations which illegally blockade neutral European ports, invade American sovereignty over American ships, and cause unlawful detentions and other interference with the shipment of legitimate cargoes.

JULY 20, 1901.

PITTSBURGH.—All hope of compromise in the steel strike seemingly is gone. J. Pierpont Morgan, in an interview in New York City, declared there would be no concessions to the men, and that the combine was right in its stand. Tonight the state board of arbitration gave up its attempt at mediation. President Shaffer, in discussing the situation, admitted he had no expectation of arbitration, but declared a finish fight would result in a victory for the men.

CHICAGO.—"Evanston will be consumed by the unquenchable fires of the altar of Elijah," declared John Alexander Dowie during services in Shiloh park at Zion city. "The city of much water will be no match for the hosts of Zion. The devils in that town will be driven out and the truth carried to all." Elijah II. was greeted with frantic cheers on the part of the faithful who are encamped at Zion City. Dowie was forced to stop speaking until the applause died out. "Will you go to Evanston?" he cried out. "We will!" hundreds of his followers shouted. "Will you carry the banner of God and Zion to that wicked place?" Dowie demanded. Again shouts of "We will! We will!"

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 20, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—At 1:30 o'clock this morning it was said that President Garfield was passing the best night he has had since July 2. He was allowed for a short time yesterday to assume a sitting posture in his bed. The record for twenty-four hours is one of steady improvement.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Charles J. Guiteau, who shot President Garfield, has been placed in solitary confinement in the jail by order of District Attorney Corkhill. He is to receive neither visitors nor communications and guards are not to talk with him. He will thus be held to await the result of the President's wound.

LAS VEGAS, N. M.—It is confirmed that William Bonney, alias "Billy the Kid," 20 years old, the noted desperado, was killed at Fort Sumner on July 14 by Pat Garrett, sheriff of Lincoln county. Bonney was notorious as a bold thief and a cold blooded murderer, having perhaps killed more men than any person of his age in the world. His career commenced four years ago at Camp Apache, where he shot and killed James J. Young. From that time on his numerous cold blooded murders came in rapid succession.

CHICAGO.—Illinois Press association begins its summer meeting here today with President Charles Holt of the Kankakee Gazette presiding. M. B. Castle of the Sandwich Argus will speak on pleasures of summer excursions.

POLITICAL JOBS.

Chicago, July 15.—I have been a civil service employé of the city of Chicago for over 13 years. I have seen three administrations come and go, and now a fourth is in power. I am writing this to tell the public not to be fooled by this administration's so-called retrenchment plan, such as docking employés a day a week, cutting appropriations to the bone, and the biggest laugh of all, getting rid of unnecessary employés.

The administration is not cutting off unnecessary employés. True, they are cutting off ward heelers of the former administration, but they are supplanting them with their own.

I had to pass a competitive examination for my job, had to be within a specified age limit, had to start on probationary pay, and as the years passed, work my way to almost a living wage. In the last seven weeks I had to break in 2 ward heelers, or pay rollers, on my job; there is no actual position open for one, much less two. Neither of these men have had any experience in this line, both are well over the age limit (one draws a pension from some place), neither knows what the job is all about, and furthermore, they don't care to know. Their whole conversation is about how their precinct ran, or about this aldgrman or that ward committeeman; but they draw the same amount of pay as I do, and I do the work.

I have made inquiries of friends of mine, in other departments and bureaus, and find that this condition is the same all through the city hall; each department or bureau has from 5 to 30 pay rollers working or supposed to be working, who have been put on since this new administration has been in power.

You will say the last administration did the same thing; true, they did, but they did not ballyhoo about cutting of unnecessary employés, or cutting expenditures to the bone. There are just as many pay rollers now as there were before, and I think it is very poor economy to dock salaries of some employés while there is money at hand to put pay rollers on the pay rolls.

A CITY CIVIL SERVANT.

FROM COL. SPRAGUE.

Chicago, July 14.—We note an article in the Voice of the People column under the heading, "Too Many Bosses," and quoting thereunder a letter dated July 6, signed by M. Sorenson, advising the readers of your column that he is a taxpayer in the 37th ward, and asking for the dismissal of a number of employés of the bureau of streets in the 37th ward. He says there are a dozen foremen employed, and that for every two or three laborers there are five or six foremen. Of course, this is a ridiculous statement, not based on the facts.

For the benefit of your readers, may we be permitted to submit the facts on this subject? According to the government census, as appearing in THE TRIBUNE of June 12, 1930, the population of the 37th ward is 105,264 people, the population having increased 45,000 since the 1921 census. There is only one other city in the state of Illinois having a population in excess of 100,000—that is Peoria, with a population of 104,788 people, which is less than the population of the 37th ward. In this ward there are 134 miles of paved streets, 90 miles of paved alleys and 17 miles of unpaved streets and 14 miles of traction lines. To serve this large ward with its 105,000 people, there are 81 laborers cleaning streets, removing ashes and garbage, cutting weeds and keeping the ward in a generally clean condition. These laborers receive from $5.50 to $5.60 per day and, at present, are employed four days a week, giving them a salary of $22 a week. There are 16 teams with drivers receiving $11.75 per day, as the city rents the services of a team of horses and a driver on a day rate basis. These men are also employed four days a week. To supervise this work there is one district superintendent at $4,000 per year, with an additional allowance of $60 per month for the use of his personally owned automobile, and he is not provided with a chauffeur.

In this particular ward there are seven section foremen; the size of the ward and the population governs the number of section foremen employed, and for these 105,000 people we believe seven section foremen are necessary, especially in the winter months. However, we are now on a summer schedule, and this number will, of course, be reduced.

For the first six months of this year $61,397 was expended by this ward for the removal of ashes, garbage and miscellaneous waste, the sweeping of streets, cutting of weeds and the removal of snow, and for the hauling of the same to disposal points. Reduced to a per capita per month basis, this figure shows that the services received from the bureau of streets was ten cents per month per person.

It does not help the morale of municipal employés to have letters quoted in the newspaper containing misstatements as to the labor being performed by them. Therefore, I trust that this answer will appear in the column Voice of the People, to correct the erroneous and unjustified statements by Mr. M. Sorenson.

A. A. SPRAGUE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

NOT SUPERFLUOUS.

Chicago, July 15.—On Sunday, July 12, there appeared in this section of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE a letter headed "A Superfluous School" and suggesting that inasmuch as there are over seven hundred graduates of the last three years from Chicago Teachers' college awaiting placement, the school be discontinued.

The writer evidently had in mind the Chicago Normal Teachers' college, the public normal training school.

Chicago Teachers' college is a private, nonprofit institution, specializing in the training of kindergarten and primary teachers. As we have for the last three years a record of 95 per cent placement of our graduates, we vigorously consider any suggestion that we are in any degree superfluous.

ELLEN L. JOHNSTONE,

SOLVING THE WHEAT PROBLEM.

Chicago, July 13.—I do not see why there should be any wheat surplus problem. Why not dump the wheat in Russia and give the Russians, who had to give up wheat so that it could be dumped here, a chance for a square meal? Of course it is very probable that when the Russians get through eating our wheat they will turn around and bite us, but when we are being hated by experts, so to speak, a few more will not make much difference.

In any case, it will clear the board and make the farm senators feel free to think up some other type of help for farmers—at the farmers and the government's expense.

POPE PRAYS FOR MIRACLE TO MAKE 'BLIND' FOES SEE

Calls Fascists Ignorant in Fatherly Address.

ROME, July 19.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI. today prayed for a miracle to "make the blindest of the blind see." He mentioned no names, but he talked at length of those who caused his "hour of tribulation" in an address celebrating the virtues of the venerable Benedict Laboure.

These unnamed people were also advised by the pontiff not to speak of "that which they do not know," and not to pronounce judgment upon that of which they are ignorant.

There was no doubt that the pontiff referred to the Fascists, and it was considered significant here that his tone had changed from one of a reproving scolding to that of a compassionate father. The address was interpreted as indicating he will rely as a prevential change of Fascism instead of drastic measures such as a severance of diplomatic relations or a dissolution of the treaties.

No Change of Tactics.

He more quiet tone Premier Mussolini adopted recently also contributes to the theory that the church and state controversy will be settled peacefully, if it is settled at all, or else will drag on for generations, as did the previous strained relations between the Vatican and the government.

The pope continued to play upon the theme of Fascist "blindness" throughout his address. He led up to the subject of blindness, which, he said, are usually needed "in a moment when the whole church suffers when its head suffers, which sorrows when its head sorrows, which is struck when one of its most precious parts is struck.

"The whole world knows this now," he added, "and has shown that it shares the common father's grief with universal spontaneity and true filial affection."

Chides Fascists as "Blind."

Expressing grief for the "blow struck at the church through its youth," the pontiff launched into the need for a miracle. "The first one we should have," he said, "is that which the Bible places first in enumerating the miracles of our Lord—a miracle that the blind may see, and that those may see who do not hear, do not understand and do not comprehend. This is a word of great compassion, because perhaps no one has taught them that of which they are ignorant. Perhaps they are not like us in having the opportunity of knowing, studying, and appreciating the truth that we know.

"Therefore there should be impressed upon them the moral necessity of not speaking of that of which they do not know of, and not pronouncing judgment on that of which they are ignorant."

Dwelling on the greatness of the restoration of sight to the blind man by Christ, the pontiff said the miracle he prayed for is a particularly great one.

Wants Particular Miracle.

"It is that the blind who do not wish to see may see, the blind afflicted, if one may say so, by the most kind of blindness. To see would be difficult, even impossible, for them, but it is always possible for the omnipotence of divine goodness to make them see. This we ought to ask in faith; this we ought to obtain, that those may see who do not see and those may see who do not wish to see."

POLICEMAN IN QUIZ CONFESSES ROBBERY PLOT

James Ketcham, 28 years old, a policeman assigned to the Fillmore street station, confessed to Capt. Daniel Gilbert yesterday at the Woodlawn station that he and three men, arrested with him in the early morning, had been waiting to rob a storekeeper.

Ketcham and his companions were sitting in an automobile at 67th street and Oglesby avenue when they were arrested by Sergt. Barney Corcoran and a squad from the Woodlawn station. The squad members found three revolvers in the car.

The other prisoners gave their names as Carl Sell, 25 years old, 3812 North Albany avenue; Joseph Brownrigg, 38 years old, 21 South Leavitt street; and Michael Pontone, 28 years old, 200 West Ohio street. They asserted that all three guns belonged to Ketcham, and denied that they were parties to any holdup plot.

When he found who his prisoner was, Capt. Gilbert summoned Capt. Patrick Collins, Ketcham's commanding officer. To them Ketcham confessed that the car in which he and his companions were sitting was stolen. He found it in front of the Fillmore street station last March, and drove it away, he said. It belonged to Samuel Brichart, 1128 Potomac avenue, records showed.

"I had heard that a confectioner at 67th and Oglesby kept a lot of money in his store. I got the other fellows, and we were waiting to grab him when he closed his store for the night," the policeman confessed.

He has a wife and two children at 121 South Lotus avenue. He joined the police force three years ago, and had a good service record, his superiors said. They questioned him further, however, to learn if the venture yesterday morning was his first robbery.

MICHIGAN PILOT BREAKS WORLD ALTITUDE MARK

Niles, Mich., July 19.—[Special.]—The world's altitude record for planes weighing 440 pounds or less, was unofficially broken here last evening by Merrill Lambert, test pilot for the Heath Aircraft corporation.

Lambert reached an altitude of approximately 19,050 feet. The old record is 17,037 feet, established by a French army plane. The ship was a Heath Parasol, equipped with a three-cylinder Poyer motor.

The barograph, from which the official altitude reached will be determined, will be sent to Washington.

Rongetti Faces Trial Today on Drug Violation Charge

Dr. Amanto Rongetti, who is now under sentence of from one to fourteen years for manslaughter, will go to trial today before Federal Judge John P. Barnes on the charge of violating the Harrison anti-narcotics law. He is charged with having made thirty-two sales of drugs to undercover agents. Once sentenced to death for murder because of the death of a girl on whom he was charged with performing an illegal operation, he won two new trials and eventually was convicted of manslaughter in the case.

NEW YORK CHAIN DANCE HALLS HIT IN VICE REPORT

Called Chief Sources of City's Crime.

New York, July 19.—[Special.]—The worst dance halls in this city, from a moral standpoint, are operated by a syndicate which is "rumored" to have secured protection from license department inspectors, plain clothes patrolmen, and policewomen, and from a former city magistrate who resigned "because of illness" when the Seabury investigation into the magistrates' courts was about to ask pointed questions regarding control of the dance palaces, the committee of fourteen asserts in its twenty-sixth annual report, made public today.

Public apology is made in the report for the committee's past commendation of John C. Weston, former prosecutor in Women's court, who has confessed to receiving fees from lawyers in vice cases. The committee states it deeply regrets its mistake in believing Weston to have been an honest prosecutor.

Vice Is Increasing.

The report, covering the year 1930 and the first two months of 1931, declares that commercialized vice is "now greater in volume and more brazenly open" in this city than at any time in the last fifteen years. Pessimistically, it predicts conditions will get worse before they improve.

The bulk of the lengthy report is devoted to a survey of the dance hall situation. For years the committee has contended that loosely regulated dance halls provide an entering wedge for vice. Some of the halls, the committee charges, are thinly veiled houses of assignation.

"The worst halls were found to belong to a syndicate and are popularly known as chain dance halls," the report states.

"This chain is rumored to have the protection of certain license inspectors and other employés of that department, certain plain clothes policemen and women, and a city magistrate. The magistrate was rumored to have an indirect financial interest.

Magistrate Frees Defendants.

"He has had a consistent record of discharging defendants in dance hall cases prosecuted by the police. In one instance the police carefully prepared evidence against one of the chain dance halls and arrested those in charge for operating a disorderly house. No hostesses were arrested and there could be no claim of 'framed girls.' To insure his handling of the matter, the magistrate took the case with him into another district on adjournment. Though the case was energetically prosecuted, the magistrate discharged the defendants without comment."

The report then traces the committee's futile efforts to prove the magistrate's connection with the dance hall syndicate. A special fund was raised and secret service methods adopted in a penetrating inquiry into the affairs of the syndicate.

GANG ARSENAL FOUND; ARREST 8 OF "LEGS" FOES

Troops and Police Raid Coll Stronghold.

Catskill, N. Y., July 19.—[Special.]—Eight New York gangsters, members of the Vincent Coll gang, who are enemies of Dutch Schultz in the Bronx, were seized by state troopers and New York detectives in Cairo and Coxsackie early this morning with two machine guns, seven sawed off shotguns, ten revolvers, and several thousand rounds of pistol and machine gun ammunition.

Two of the gangsters attempted to fight it out with the raiding party and were battered around after their "killer type" .38 long pistols had been knocked from their hands.

Five stolen automobiles, one with a bloodstained front seat on which was a bloodstained hat, were confiscated by the troopers. The New York detectives were disappointed because they had not caught Coll with the rest of the gang. They had a tip that he would be there.

"Biggest Haul Ever."

"It is the biggest haul we ever made in this part of the state," said Lieut. Francis McGarvey of the raiding party. "No arsenal we ever uncovered comes anywhere near this one. All the prisoners have long police records."

McGarvey could not verify the report that the Coll gang had come into the resort district to wipe out the Diamond gang and take over Legs Diamond's beer and rum monopoly, which has extended north into Rensselaer and Albany counties and into Ulster county, according to local gossip, but the place where the largest part of the Coll gang was rounded up is within a few miles of Diamond's home at Acra.

Women Released.

Six prisoners were taken at White's farm, a large frame dwelling a mile off the main road north of Cairo proper. Three women also were in the house when the troopers broke in. They were from New York City, but since they possessed no weapons and said they were just casual acquaintances of the gangsters, they were released.

Two more men were captured in a handsome residence in Coxsackie, not far from Cairo, and a woman said to be a sister of Vincent Coll, found in the house, was questioned but not detained.

The six men arrested on White's farm said they were Vincent Palombo, Michael Bastle, Philip Gussow, Louis Pisano, John De Rosa, John Burnet. The two taken in Coxsackie said they were William King and Joseph Redden.

BANNER OF 1812 RAISED AT NEW FORT DEARBORN

Paleface and redskin stood at attention yesterday in the compound of the rebuilt Fort Dearborn on the lake shore, while a bugle sounded "To The Colors", and the Stars and Stripes of 1812 rose slowly up the flagstaff. There are only fifteen stars in the banner which was presented to the fort by Commander Ray G. Kent of the Indian Boundary post of the American Legion, Col. John Stephen Sewell, assistant manager of the 1933 World's Fair, accepted the flag. Forty members of the post, were grouped about the flagstaff. Two men in the Continental blue, with bearskin shakos, raised the flag.

37 PHONE GRANT AMENDMENTS TO COUNCIL TODAY

Franchise Opponents to Insist on Safeguards.

Seven members of the city council yesterday marshaled an array of 37 amendments to the proposed franchise grant to the Illinois Bell Telephone company. These amendments will be submitted to the council today as safeguards against the loss of rights by the city under the new franchise that it had under the old ordinance.

One of the major attacks on the ordinance will be directed against the inclusion of authority for the company to use its property for communication by television. Several aldermen see in this provision the granting by the city to the company of a monopoly in television which, with its future development, might produce serious consequences.

Ald. Oscar Nelson [46th] has an amendment which he will introduce to strike out the television provision and confine the purposes to which the company can use its property to the uses set forth in the old ordinance of 1907.

The old ordinance expired in January, 1929, and since that time the company has made no compensation payments to the city. Under the compensation clause of the proposed ordinance, according to figures of City Controller Szymczak, the city would receive $42,000 less a year than if the compensation for that year was based on the old ordinance.

The result of this would be that if the proposed ordinance is passed, according to the aldermen, the stockholders of the company would profit by $84,000 which the city would lose for two years, 1929 and 1930. The aldermen contend that during those two years the company's rates were based upon the collecting from the telephone users the full amount of payments required by the old franchise.

It is also contended by the aldermen that the company considered in its reports to the interstate and Illinois commerce commissions the full amount that it would have been required to pay the city under the old franchise, and used the full amount, no doubt, as an expense for income tax purposes for the two years.

Another contention is that the company in its reports and also for income tax purposes considered that the old franchise tax was a legal operating expense. The company, however, has withheld payment of compensation for 1929 and 1930 on the grounds that it could not legally pay.

Another point of major attack will be on the section relating to the payment of the cost of relocating the telephone company's equipment when subways are constructed.

Police Department to Get 20 New Squad Cars Soon

Twenty new medium priced squad cars will be delivered to the police department within the next few days, Deputy Chief of Detectives Lawrence Rafferty was notified yesterday. Purchase of the cars was authorized by the city council three weeks ago. Several will be used to replace old cars at the detective bureau and the others will be assigned to district stations. Each of the new machines is of sedan type and carries shotguns and radio equipment.

Treat Girl for Lockjaw After She Steps on Nail

Virginia Smith, 6 years old, 10236 South Elizabeth street, was taken to the county hospital yesterday for treatment for tetanus, which developed after she stepped on a nail.

WANTS GOTHAM TO DEMAND I. R. T. REPAY MILLION

New York, July 19.—[Special.]—Prompt action by the transit commission to compel the Interborough Rapid Transit to pay into the city's treasury about $1,200,000 "unlawfully diverted" to meet the company's expenses in its vain fight for higher fares on its subway and elevated lines, is demanded by Samuel Untermyer, former special counsel, in a letter made public today.

Mr. Untermyer also calls upon the commission to look into the recent agreement between the board of transportation and the B. M. T., under which the city is paying the company for operating a score of the city's new steel cars under actual traffic conditions.

The demand for action against the Interborough applies to the entire period of fare litigation, beginning Feb. 1, 1928, when the company filed its original seven cent fare schedules with the transit commission, and running to July 15 last, when the Court of Appeals held the five cent fare contract to be beyond the commission's regulatory power.

EXPLOSION DAMAGES STORE.

An explosion, believed to have been the result of spontaneous combustion in paints and oils stored in the place, caused damage estimated at $100 to the hardware store of Bernard J. Gramm at 8045 South Ashland avenue yesterday.

Seven?

PLANE CRASHES; PASSENGER AND PILOT UNHURT

A student pilot and a passenger escaped uninjured yesterday in an airplane crash at 79th street and Harlem avenue, near Willow Springs. The ancient craft in which they had started on their flight from a nearby private airport was demolished.

Bruno Dzietan, 23 years old, was the pilot and Anthony Para, owner of the plane, the passenger. Both live in the vicinity of 56th street and Marshfield avenue. They had taken off and risen to a height of about 70 feet when Dzietan lost control of the plane and the right wing struck a tree. In the downward plunge the engine was buried in the earth.

The craft was licensed for flight, but Dzietan had only fifty hours of flying to his credit.

THREE BALLOONS OF SIX IN RACE FORCED TO LAND

Those Aloft Threatened by Wind and Rain.

Municipal Airport, Akron, O., July 20.—Three of six free balloons entered in the annual national elimination floated northeastward tonight through threatening skies which had kept the descent of two of the contestants.

The U. S. army balloon No. 2, heaviest of the six gas bags competitors, were up to the combination of bad gas and rain after sailing about 12 miles in 35 minutes. About half an hour later the Del-Mar-Va ran into a heavy rainstorm about four miles north of Ravenna and about 20 miles from Akron airport where the race started late today, and came to earth. None of the crew members of either craft was hurt in the descents of the Army No. 2 and the Del-Mar-Va, they reported to race headquarters.

Army balloon No. 1, piloted by Capt. Charles Altstatter and Lieut. M. H. Crosh, landed at Custard, Pa., 16 miles west of Meadville, Pa., tonight. Capt. Altstatter said they encountered storms.

Voice Another Threat.

As the three other balloons and their frightened crews battled through gusty and rainy atmosphere on the 25 mile an hour wind prevailing in their path, they faced the double threat of being forced down by water weighting their gas or by lightning striking them. Thunderstorms occurred intermittently over northeastern Ohio late today and tonight and were predicted for the probable flight route up the St. Lawrence river valley for tonight and tomorrow.

The three balloons believed still in the air had not been reported sighted since they disappeared in the haze circling over this area at takeoff time.

The gas activated bags took off in order, starting shortly after 5 p. m., eastern standard time, not far from the spot where, fifty-eight years ago, John Johnson mortgaged his cow and farm for a home made bag and started Akron with its first balloon ascension.

75,000 See Takeoffs.

A crowd estimated at nearly 75,000 was on hand when the army's No. 2 entry was cut loose at 5:06 p. m.

In taking off the army No. 2 was followed at about ten minute intervals by the United States Navy, the WJR of Detroit, the Del-Mar-Va Civic Association of Salisbury, Md., the Goodyear VIII. of Akron, and the army No. 1.

But where Farmer Johnson and the army No. 1 came to grief or early fellow and Capt. Altstatter was forced down, three other pilots and their ale knight were contesting for the F. W. Litchfield trophy and the right to represent the United States in the coming Gordon Bennett international met.

Ten places are to be filled in the United States entry list, as Ward T. Van Orman of Akron automatically clinched the third place by virtue of his victory in the 1930 international met.

Four Planes in Oklahoma.

Ponca City, Okla., July 19.—(AP)—Well into the second half of their 1,000 mile trip, the ten remaining ships in the national air tour dropped down at the airport here today for a night stop.

Harry L. Russell, Dearborn, Mich., piloting a Wright powered Ford, still held first position in the standings. Jesse E. Smart, Pine Bluff, Ark., in a Wasp powered Ford, was second, and Lowell E. Bayles, Springfield, Mass., using a Gee Bee sportster, was third.

Prof. H. Hendrich, German Artist, Is Killed by Train

KREIBERHAU, Germany, July 19.—(AP)—Prof. Hermann Hendrich, 74, a artist and painter well known in art circles of the United States, was killed when struck yesterday by a railroad train as he was crossing the tracks on foot. Prof. Hendrich had exhibited many of his works in America. He painted "Nelbelungen Spring" for Richard Wagner's Memorial hall at Lenzgwinter.

Brother of Harold Lloyd May Lose Eye; Hurt in Blast

Hollywood, Cal., July 19.—[Special.]—A consultation will be held tomorrow by eye specialists to determine if the left eye of Gaylord Lloyd, brother of Harold Lloyd, film comedian, can be saved. He was injured last Thursday in a premature explosion of dynamite cartridges during filming of a movie story. A piece of copper was blown into his eye.

11 TRAPPED BY WATER IN TUNNEL RESCUED UNHURT

Victims Find Refuge in Air Locks.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 19.—[Special.]—Eleven men, trapped for five hours tonight in air locks at either end of a flooded underground tunnel at McKinley avenue and Fifth street, were rescued and brought up unharmed shortly before midnight.

The rescued men, employés of the Wensel & Hensch company, contractors installing a long range heating system for the new courthouse, had just descended a 37 foot shaft to the bottom of the tunnel at 4 p. m. when a geiserm burst.

Flood Pours Into Shaft.

Two "rivers" of water poured into the shaft, converging from the hillsides formed by 5th street and McKinley avenue. The operator of the donkey hoist in the shaft became alarmed.

Lowering the hoist, he rode down on the elevator platform to a point within a few feet of the bottom. He stayed but a moment for a survey, and shot up with the grim intelligence that the water was rising at a swift rate and that he "saw two bodies" by the faint gleam of the electric light in the swirling pool at the bottom of the shaft.

An alarm was sent the fire department and hoses of two pumpers were lowered and soon began spouting streams of muddy water into a nearby sewer.

Call for More Pumps.

The pumping went on for nearly an hour with no appreciable lowering of the flood. Deputy Chief Tremain ordered additional pumpers to the scene.

With additional pumpers now at work, the flood depth began to show signs of lowering. When an exploration crew dropped down the shaft at 11 p. m. they found less than three feet of water at the bottom.

The crew sloshed back towards the east air lock. They swung hammers on the iron doors, tapping three times. From the other side of the lock came a faint response.

Fearing that the 20 pound pressure within the locks might expose the imprisoned men to a convulsion upon their emergence into normal atmosphere, the crew foreman ordered the pressure on the air pumps above gradually lessened, a process known as decompression.

Walk Out Smiling.

At 11:50 p. m., their condition being considered safe, the rescue crew signaled the imprisoned men to come out. They emerged smiling, grasped hands with those awaiting them and walked to the shaft unassisted.

A restrained cheer broke from the crowd above as the hoist brought them to the surface. Fellow workers reached out to assist the men to waiting ambulances but the rescued ones, for the most part, sheepishly rejected assistance and shrugged in doubt over going to the hospital.

Relating their adventure afterwards, the men said they had seen the crest of the advancing flood and sprinted down the tunnel to the air locks, where they were certain safety lay. During the hours of imprisonment none felt any fear that eventual rescue would come, they declared.

200 HURT WHEN AFRICAN CHURCH GALLERY CRASHES

LOANDA, Portuguese West Africa, July 19.—(AP)—Two hundred persons were injured, twenty of whom are not expected to live, in the collapse of the choir gallery during high mass in the Church of Nossa Senhora de Carmo today. Eighty members of the congregation were taken to hospitals.

The collapse of the gallery, which was attributed to worm eaten woodwork, threw the entire choir down among the worshipers, causing a panic in which a number of persons were trampled.

A fire brigade and an ambulance crew worked energetically to extricate the people who were pinned beneath the heavy timbers of the gallery, and there were frantic scenes as those who had escaped sought relatives among the victims.

U. S. READY TO ACT AGAINST ALLEGED HERB CURE QUACK

The federal government is ready for action against Walter L. Klinger, 5529 Dakin street, who is alleged to have used the mails in distributing a fake cure to hundreds of diabetic sufferers. Klinger has been under investigation for some months by the postal inspectors and the United States attorney's office is expected to present the case to the grand jury this week.

Klinger is alleged to have operated first under the name of the Flowering Herb company, until the postoffice department issued a fraud order which stopped the sending and receiving of his mail, and then to have changed the name to the W. L. K. Herb company. Another fraud order followed and the business which, it is reported, netted him more than $5,000 a year, was wrecked.

Klinger's advertisements, carried in cheap magazines, described his "bitter herb tea" as "Nature's Own Remedy" and "the recent and most important discovery in pharmaceutics."

Indiana Man Is Killed in Auto Crash with Illinoisian

South Bend, Ind., July 19.—(AP)—Howard Rogers, 20, of South Bend was killed and several companions were injured when the automobile in which they were riding collided with another driven by John Deimmer, Evanston, Ill., attorney, nine miles west of here this afternoon. Rogers died in a hospital after the accident. The others, all baseball players, received treatment for their injuries. A coroner's investigation has been instituted.

BRIDGE DESIGNED HERE WILL SPAN THE GOLDEN GATE

Chicago engineering skill has been utilized for the building of the world's largest and longest suspension bridge across the Golden Gate at San Francisco. Joseph B. Strauss, 307 North Michigan avenue, bridge authority, drew the plans and is chief engineer for the $23,000,000 structure, which will connect San Francisco with Marin county, California.

J. B. STRAUSS. [Wallace Photo.]

An announcement of the bridge plans yesterday shows that the structure will be 9,200 feet long, including a 4,200 foot main span, two 1,100 foot end spans, and two 1,400 foot approaches. Construction will begin later in the summer and will continue for four years.

More than 174,000 miles of wire, enough to girdle the earth seven times at the equator, will be used to spin the two 10,937 ton main cables and suspender ropes that will swing the bridge, according to the announcement.

Deserted Mother of Six Hangs Herself in Attic

Mrs. Pauline Formon, 40 years old, 6152 West 55th street, hanged herself yesterday in the attic of her home. The police were told she had been despondent because her husband disappeared a month ago, leaving her to support six children.

STOP POLITICS IN POSTOFFICE; END DEFICIT IS CLAIM

Civil Service League and Postal Head Clash.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 19.—[Special.]—Postmasters throughout the country are being encouraged to get busy politically in support of the Hoover administration, according to the National Civil Service Reform league.

There has been it appears, a heated correspondence between the league and the department over this matter of the political activities of postmasters. The league officers pricked up their ears when they read a speech by Arch Coleman, first assistant postmaster general, to the tri-state postmasters' convention at Ashland, Ky., June 18 last in which he said:

"I have never had much use for a mugwump or a man without political convictions. . . . Presidential postmasters have ever right to show their loyalty to the administration of which they are a part by presenting to their friends and neighbors the truth relative to the activities of the administration. . . . When you leave your office you have the same rights as any other citizen to participate in civic and political affairs, and if you believe in the wisdom and leadership of the present administratio there is no ethical reason why you cannot say so and tell the reasons why."

League Registers Protest.

Thereupon H. Eliot Kaplan, secretary of the league, wrote Mr. Coleman:

"It is very well for you to point out to postmasters that they may engage in political activity only outside their office hours, but you know as well as I do that unfortunately postmasters will encroach on the government's time to more than a little degree. In fact, experience has proved that more of their time playing politics is spent on government's time than on their own time. It may be that many of them would have little to do if they were prohibited from engaging in political activity during government hours."

Mr. Kaplan suggested that "in fairness to the administration the postoffice department ought to make it plain that its desire to have postmasters engage in political activity is the wish of the present heads of the postoffice department and not of the administration as a whole."

To this suggestion Coleman responded:

"I am not authorized to announce new policies relative to this matter and nothing in my remarks can be so interpreted. My remarks merely stated the facts as they now exist."

Defends Political Appointments.

In answer to the league's complaint that presidential postmasters are chosen on the recommendations of politicians and its contention that "a great part of the deficiency in the operation of the postal service would be eliminated if it were required that every postmaster were a trained, competent person and not merely one useful to the political organization," Coleman said in a letter of July 13.

"In my opinion the present method of selecting presidential postmasters gives us a very much higher grade of officials than we could get if the selections were left to a large group of people permanently domiciled in Washington. The civil service commission . . . has performed a splendid and very necessary service, but at the same time, many theories advanced by civil service reformers would fall to accomplish the desired end."

The league, in its final letter, directed attention to the dismissal by President Cleveland in 1896 of several officials of the department of justice "because of their offensive political activity while holding office."

Export Trade of Central States Drops 286 Million

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 19.—[Special.]—As a result of the world economic depression the export trade of the central states declined more than 283 millions of dollars in 1930 compared with 1929, according to census bureau reports made public today.

Michigan was the hardest hit, its exports being cut nearly in half. The value of merchandise exported in 1929 compared with 1930 follows:

Illinois	$368,702,822	$209,609,613
Indiana	72,746,468	55,606,025
Iowa	27,401,276	20,758,750
Michigan	353,906,030	194,353,941
Wisconsin	194,977,497	79,470,980

Illinois Ranks Fifth.

Illinois ranked fifth among all states in the value of exports for 1930, being preceded by New York, Texas, California, and Pennsylvania.

Wheel tractors ranked first in value among Illinois' exports during 1930, amounting to $30,702,824 compared with $35,694,433 during 1929, and was followed in order by lard [including neutral lard], $15,691,300 and $23,554,952; track laying tractors and parts, $13,306,102, no figures for 1929 being available; and "other industrial machinery and parts," $6,824,037 and $7,192,008.

Other leading exports, with comparative values for 1930 and 1929, were: Wheat, $6,671,901 and $1,780,965; hams and shoulders, $5,703,542 and $5,533,788; "other electrical machinery and parts," $4,749,154 and $7,298,287; metal-working machinery, $4,018,956 and $3,403,513; corn starch, $3,923,730 and $6,902,499.

Figures for Indiana.

Passenger automobiles ranked first in value among Indiana's exports during 1930, amounting to $8,214,290 compared with $15,976,207 during 1929, and was followed in order by iron and steel plates, sheets, skelps and strips, $4,012,295 and $3,224,763; lard [including neutral lard], $3,644,952 and $5,406,691; and automobile parts, $3,-121,014 and $4,977,078.

Other leading exports were: "Other industrial machinery and parts," $2,971,930 and $3,437,918; motor trucks, busses and chassis, except electric, $2,179,541 and $3,696,796; hams and shoulders, $3,124,894 and $2,710,647; horse and power plows, $1,905,481 and $1,321,136; and gasoline, $1,741,466.

Lard was the leading Iowa export, amounting to $10,118,636 compared with $12,693,801 during 1929, and was followed in order by cured hams and shoulders, $3,235,533 and $3,759,006; bacon, $3,769,935 and $4,296,253, and tractors, $2,109,964 and $4,485,630.

Michigan Exports Autos.

Other leading exports, with comparative values for 1919, when available were: Oatmeal and rolled oats, $1,142,539 and $647,876; "other industrial machinery," $818,060 and $974,803; glucose, $838,023 and $1,346,408; electrical machinery and apparatus, $738,142 and $761,971; and cornstarch and corn flour, $502,993 and $483,782.

Michigan, seventh in foreign trade rank, exported primarily passenger automobiles amounting to $61,721,028, compared with $143,763,275 during 1929; automobile parts [except tires], $35,001,077 and $70,688,129; motor trucks, busses and chassis, $24,028,719 and $63,370,530; and "other office appliances," $4,071,747 and $1,440,858.

Other leading exports with comparative values for 1929 were: "Other electrical apparatus," $2,586,019 and $1,272,177; medicinal and pharmaceutical preparations, $2,581,816 and $3,192,880; metal working machinery, $2,563,161 and $2,096,643; and rubber tires, $2,237,419 and $851,946.

Wisconsin Shows Decline.

Tractors and parts ranked first in value among Wisconsin's exports in 1930, amounting to $15,461,078, compared with $20,682,694 during 1929, followed in order by passenger automobiles and chassis [except electric], $8,154,144 and $14,290,093; wheat, $5,-897,909 and $19,597,987; and construction and conveying machinery, $4,-831,245 and $4,860,929.

Other leading exports, with comparative values for 1929, were: "Other industrial machinery and parts," $4,-029,235 and $6,930,076; cured hams and shoulders, $3,893,340 and $3,166,794; lard [including neutral lard], $3,508,-975 and $4,563,445; "other machinery and parts," $2,060,368 and $2,416,052, and combines [reaper-threshers], $1,-863,368 and $3,931,146.

IDENTIFY MURDER VICTIM FOUND IN FOREST PRESERVE

The body of a youth, with a bullet hole through the head, which was found in the forest preserve near the Izaak Walton league gun range on 22d street, was identified last night as that of Frank Kutin, 18 years old, 2026 West 22d place.

In the opinion of investigators, Kutin was kidnaped and killed by robbers early yesterday morning. He was employed as an attendant in a garage at 2226 South Leavitt street and patrons of the place reported that he was on duty as late of 3:30 p. m. He was missing several hours later.

William Puccini, proprietor of the garage, found that the contents of his cash register were missing and that an automobile belonging to William Lucchesi, 2251 West 24th street, was missing. The theory accepted by the police was that robbers who took the car and the money killed Kutin to prevent the possibility of his identifying them.

Heavy Rainfall Breaks Heat Wave in Cedar Rapids Area

Cedar Rapids, Ia., July 19.—[Special.]—The drought and the July heat wave was broken this afternoon by a drenching rain which fell for almost an hour, the precipitation amounting to almost an inch. Farmers said it virtually saved the corn crop, which was being fired. Farmers referred to it as a "two billion dollar" rain.

INTERRUPTS SHOP HOLDUP; SHOOTS AND NABS BANDIT

Walter Odessa, 22 years old, 4954 North Kilbourn avenue, carrying a pistol, walked into the Fannie May candy store at 22 North Wells street last night and addressed the clerk, Miss Mary Kaszmarich of 5216 Kenwood avenue.

"Give me the money in the cash drawer," he ordered. "If you don't I'll have to kill you."

While Miss Kaszmarich was fumbling with the money Policeman James Keating walked in. Sensing the situation, he drew his own pistol and commanded Odessa to surrender. The robber turned with his own weapon ready for use, but before he could use it Keating fired. Odessa was struck in the left wrist and submitted to arrest. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital.

Girl Fatally Stabbed in Quarrel with Brother

Miss Rose Fermalia, 21 years old, was fatally stabbed yesterday during a quarrel with her brother, Frank, 25 years old, in the family home at 1209 North Clark street. She was taken to the county hospital, where she died several hours later. Frank was held by the Hudson avenue police.

MAN DROWNED IN MICHIGAN LAKE.

Hillsdale, Mich., July 19.—[Special.]—August Engelhardt, 28, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Engelhardt, Hillsdale, was drowned this afternoon while swimming in Moon lake, near here. August plunged into the waters from a diving board and failed to return to the surface.

FIND FAMILY OF 4 DEAD OF GAS; HINT FOUL PLAY

Detroit, Mich., July 19.—(AP)—A family of four was found dead from illuminating gas aspyxiation today in a home in suburban Royal Oak. G. Dewey Kimball, Oakland county coroner, said some features of the case indicated the four had been killed by a fifth person who escaped.

The dead are Michael Komi, 45, his wife, Myrtle, and their two children, George, 12, and Dorothy, 10.

A plug in the kitchen range had been removed. Officials who investigated said the plug could not have been loosened by hand, yet no wrench was found.

CHARGES SHORT WEIGHT ON COAL FOR POOR FAMILY

City Sealer Joe Grein has filed a complaint against John Haley, a wagon driver for the Public Coal company, 1900 West 18th street, charging that he delivered only 330 pounds of fuel to a destitute family for whom a half ton had been ordered. The coal was to be paid for by the United Charities.

Mr. Grein asserted that he had learned that the Public Coal company was using a public weighmaster's seal without authorization, and this alleged use was made the basis of a second suit filed by the sealer's office.

Scotch Doctor Wins Success in First Novel

Sour Villain in Dramatic Fashion.

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

"HATTER'S CASTLE," by A. J. Cronin (Little, Brown) just published in this country, is said to have bowled over England's reading public. The author is a Scotch doctor, who, finding the strain of practice in the west end of London was wearing him out, decided to try fiction. Accordingly, he gave up his work, went off to a place in Scotland where he could be alone and undisturbed and wrote this novel.

A. J. CRONIN.

It is remarkable that this first book was accepted by the first publisher to whom it was submitted and became at the first level to be adopted by the whole book society. That is, it is remarkable until you read "Hatter's Castle." Then, although you see blemishes and defects, you must admit that it is a gigantic undertaking for a novice, and one that is, on the whole, tremendously successful.

Dr. Cronin has been immediately compared to Ibsen, Hardy, Charlotte Brontë and George Douglas, and his novel is anything but light reading, yet it is so rugged and powerful, so full of action, that one reads till one's eyes are nearly out of one's head. There are 355 pages to this book.

First, as to its merits. Mr. Cronin writes as though he had been at it all his life. He traces the development of his characters with the utmost detail and his method is, naturally, aided by his doctor's observant eye and scientific mind which are occupied with objects often entirely unnoticed by the layman. He not only gives a graphic pictorial portrait of each person in the title, he supplies such an accurate emotional description that one feels distinctly nothing has escaped his pen. The very hairs of his head are numbered.

Dr. Cronin must be given credit for creating a character that is certainly as real as any of Hardy's or Charlotte Brontë's. His John Brodie is one of the most unforgettable villains I have ever come across. He towers above all the other figures in the book, for even Brownie and Mary, Brodie's victims, and Maggie, who finds the sins of a parent crush, Brodie is a giant, embodying all the bad qualities possible to mankind. It is as though the author stored his past in vitriol and then cast a living man.

For you feel such a person must have lived. He is not a creation of the printed page. There is just one small thing about him, and that is that he never has a kind thought or a noble action. Can pure, unadulterated evil exist? "Lives there a man with soul so dead?" Perhaps so, yet it is hard to conceive.

The constant dwelling on the miseries of Brodie needs to be offset by some other theme in the book, some mood of lightness or happiness. Yet, it is not. His children lead tragic, frustrated lives. His wife dies miserably of cancer. His house, "awful" as his neighbors call it, never sees a happy moment.

There's too much emphasis on the tragic in this novel. A little contrast would serve to deepen the author's purpose, but none is used. It is like a symphony that continually harps on the same motif. The very insistence gradually deafens one to the effect. There is little or no relief from the scene of tragedy and suffering, from the continual depicting of cruelty. And after all, enough is enough.

Dr. Cronin uses natural scenery to heighten the emotional action of his characters. His storm and the struggle through it of Mary when she is turned out of her home, are high points in the book, filled with terrific force and power. And the cold and mist toward the end of the novel, when little Nessie can never keep warm anything, seem to epitomize the unrelenting desolation of Brodie. Always the action is accentuated and underlined by the events of nature.

One of the many fine points about "Hatter's Castle" is its honesty, its forthrightness. The author writes with absolute candor and sincerity. It is this quality that tides one over the sentimental situations of the innocent girl betrayed, the daughter being turned out into the night by the [illegible], etc. Perhaps no one but a Scotsman would have dared use [illegible]. But he dashes in without fear to tread and accomplishes his purpose simply because of honesty and the force of his pen.

Perhaps the situations are old and hackneyed, but you are so interested in the characters, in what is going to happen to them, that you forget the pill and read on. Let an Englishman try it and the whole fabric of the book would fall to pieces.

"Hatter's Castle" is a grand work, strong and all. It's something you ought not to miss.

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

This political melodrama is no stranger in our midst. It appeared on the stage as "The Woman" with Mary Nash in the title rôle. Under the name of "The Telephone Girl" it was screened as a "silent," and Madge Bellamy was the heroine. Now, modernized by sound, and dialogue brought up to date, we have "The Secret Call."

Though well enough acted, the piece drags and doesn't sport much suspense.

The tale has to do with the contemplated revenge of a Miss Kelly, whose suicide father had been "framed" by Jim Blake, double-dealing politician, and father of the youth she loves.

She is about to realise her ambition of getting even with Blake when innate decency and sympathy for another woman stay her tongue.

Peggy Shannon is an able little actress with a pleasing voice and not much personality. Others in the cast will impress you favorably.

Lighthearted and amusing patter, scattered here and there through the action, helps the picture along. Direction is pretty good in spots and sound and photography pass muster.

"The Secret Call" is one of those "don't mind" movies. You don't mind if you see it and you don't mind if you don't.

Hawaiian Church Session O.K.'s Dances After Debate

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, July 19.—Hawaii, too, has felt the force of the movement for liberalism in the churches and the necessity of doing something to keep the young people interested. At the annual meeting of the Hawaiian Evangelical association here it was decided, after a brisk debate, to open the churches of Hawaii to dances and other entertainments. Delegates from all the islands participated in the discussion. The older members contended it was "wicked," and that Sunday should be kept free from "such evil doings." Judge Stephen Desha declared, however, that the young people will do whatever they please, and that it was better to have the amusements they crave provided by the church than for them to go elsewhere.

LUCREZIA BORI IS STAR OF STRIKING RAVINIA PROGRAMS

Week end music at Ravinia became little short of exciting because of an astounding double bill performance by Lucrezia Bori singing the women's roles in "The Secret of Suzanne." Here was widely contrasted comedy and tragedy, as far apart as the blond and black wigs she wore in them, as her tiny, toddling walk in the one and her lithe, swaying stride in the other.

Each is a musical gem of its kind, and in each she was deft, persuasive, utterly charming, and heart touching with the way that in song and demeanor she portrayed humanity. Mario Chamlee was her associate in the first work, making his first appearance in the week and doing it with the polished, mannerly comedy that she herself displayed.

In the second piece Marek Windheim, who had been the pantomimic butler in the comedy, became the romantic lover of the Spanish piece. This was another first performance and another success. Ruth Page and Blake Scott with the assistance of the ballet squad put on a flaming Spanish dance that was one of the hits of the performance.

Sunday afternoon was Bohemian day, therefore the program was drawn from Bohemian composers. Eric De LaMarter and the Chicago Symphony orchestra played the "New World" symphony and some shorter pieces. John Weicher played a group of violin solos with piano, and Vaclav Jiskra, leader of the double bass section, was another soloist with a fantasia drawn from "The Bartered Bride" for his special instrument. Here was the unwieldy becoming surprisingly agile and flexible, a bass able to sing, if not soprano, at least a good contralto, with highly interesting musical results.

Time pressed, so "The Moldau" announced, as the final number could not be played. "Aïda" was presented in the evening with a cast of Elisabeth Rethberg, Ina Bourskaya, Giovanni Hartinelli, Giuseppe Danise, and others.

The second concert by the Chicago Philharmonic orchestra at Loyola university was conducted by Adolphe Dumont. The program was semi-classical in character. Hortense Drummond, contralto, and Florence Trumbull, pianist, were the announced soloists.

Shaw, Lord, Lady Astor on Their Way to Moscow

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, July 19.—George Bernard Shaw, accompanied by Lord and Lady Astor and party, spent a quiet Sunday in Berlin en route to Moscow. He went into hiding soon after his arrival, called the British embassy, and then joined the Astors at the station, where the party boarded the Warsaw-Moscow night express.

Free Ice Fund Helps a Family Back to Health

And Tony, the Baby, Is Comfortable Again.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Tony wasn't very handsome, but his life was certainly worth saving, a worker for the United Charities decided as she gazed on the frail, thin baby, six months old. The tiny child's body was covered with a rash that had not been treated because his father had no money.

It was only the other day, one of those stifling hot afternoons, that the United Charities' visitor turned wearily into the alleyway that led to the rear of a tumbledown three flat tenament. She had been on her way back to the district office when a dark haired Italian woman in broken English informed her that the family in the rear needed aid, and ice especially, or "the little one won't live."

The worker made her call, and back at her office wrote among her records the following account of her visit:

"A tired, brown-eyed woman entered the shabby front room from a dark kitchen. She carried a tiny six-months old baby, thin and covered with a heavy rash. Hanging to the mother's skirts were two more children, Rocco, 2 years old, and Angelo, 5, who whined continually.

"A young girl, 16 years old, was ironing a pile of ragged clothes, stopping every few minutes to rest her arms from her endless task. Finally she stopped and began to talk to her visitor in a tired voice, stating the family's history in short, abrupt sentences.

"'Papa worked as a laborer for many years but was laid off,' the girl said. 'The nine of us children were fed from $7 a week I earned in a factory. I was glad for this job to feed big machines. The hours were long, but my family didn't starve.

"'Last spring the factory closed. I had no job. The six children of school age couldn't go to school. There wasn't clothing to go around. The baby has been sick. You see the rash. But papa still owes for when he was born. The other children aren't strong. They don't get enough to eat. Even when there is food and milk for Tony it spoils. We can't get ice.'"

That visit resulted in aid for this Italian family. And now that ice comes regularly from THE TRIBUNE free ice fund the health of the whole family is improving. Tony for the first time knows what it is to be comfortable.

Gifts to THE TRIBUNE free ice fund will send ice into such homes as Tony's. A few dollars for a summer's supply of ice tickets may save a life.

Checks for both the ice and the Camp Algonquin funds should be directed to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE.

N. Y. BANKER'S WIFE ARRANGES CHOPIN AIR FOR AN ORCHESTRA

New York, July 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Elizabeth Rend Mitchell, wife of Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City bank of New York, will be represented on the program of the Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra concert at the Lewisohn stadium on Wednesday night, when Willem Van Hoogstraten will conduct her orchestration of the Chopin Polonaise, opus 26, No. 1, in C-sharp minor.

Speaking on the telephone from her summer home in Southampton, Mrs. Mitchell said:

"I am just a music lover, studying music for its own sake. I have never viewed music for myself from a professional aspect, and from that point of view, I am an obscure personality in music."

Mrs. Mitchell was born in Chicago. There she studied the piano for a number of years with Adolph Weidig. After her marriage she continued her work in New York, studying with Rubin Goldmark.

Explaining how her composition came to be chosen for the stadium program, Mrs. Mitchell said some of her friends, musicians themselves, had looked over the orchestration of the Chopin Polonaise and had pronounced it good. Mr. Goldmark had also liked it. Mr. Van Hoogstraten looked at it some days ago and decided to put it on one of his programs.

HAVRE VOTERS SPLIT ABOUT HAVING PEACE STATUE IN HARBOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LE HAVRE, July 19.—A miniature war over a statue of "Peace Enlighting the World" has broken out in Le Havre.

This statue, costing $20,000, is to be placed in the harbor of this great French seaport. It is to be of majestic dimensions and resembling Liberty in New York harbor, according to M. Leon Meyer, mayor of Le Havre.

But, some of his electors believe that Le Havre needs other improvements and can get along without this statue. So, they have pasted lurid posters on the walls of Le Havre, criticizing M. Meyer and his project for this statue, and asserting that the taxpayers' money should be spent in more useful fashion.

College Built by Queen's Gift Will Be Saved

Jubilee Near Peoria to Be Used for Boy Scouts.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Jubilee college, near Peoria, built in 1839 with funds donated by Queen Victoria, has been saved from oblivion. This was announced yesterday at the diocesan headquarters of the Episcopal church. The college was discovered recently being used as a barn in the middle of a pig sty, and the historic old chapel a cow barn.

The property has been purchased by Dr. George A. Zeller of Peoria. He has announced that it will be used under Episcopal auspices as a church and Boy Scout center. He has stated that the property will be conveyed to the two organizations which will use it in the future. The old chapel with its windows and altar imported from England will be restored, and other buildings of the campus will be rebuilt.

The college came into public notice recently when heirs of Bishop Philander Chase, first head of the Illinois diocese, and founder of the college, brought civil action to acquire the land and buildings. Bishop Chase's heirs contended that the bishop's will provided the property should revert to them, if the property should cease being used for religious purposes.

Bishop Chase, who also was the founder of Kenyon college, Gambier, O., intended Jubilee college to be a training center for candidates for the Episcopal ministry. The college closed many years ago, but the chapel continued to be used for religious services after the institution closed.

Suit was brought by Lloyd Lewis, a grandson of Bishop Chase. The court sustained the heir's claim and ordered the property sold. It decreed, however, that the old cemetery which surrounds the chapel should be perpetually maintained as such. Bishop Chase donated the 160 acres of land which comprises the campus and aided personally in supporting the college with funds from his private estate.

Bishop Chase obtained an audience with Queen Victoria, and the chapel represents her particular gift. Bishop Chase is buried in the churchyard. He believed the time would come when Jubilee college, like Kenyon, would be one of the influential educational centers of America.

FRENCH DEPUTIES TO VOTE ELECTRICALLY, STARTING IN OCTOBER

PARIS, July 19.—When French deputies come back from their four month summer vacation in October, they will find a couple of funny looking buttons on top of their desks. These are part of an electric voting apparatus which is being installed in the French parliament.

Before Premier Laval read them the text of the decree sending them on vacation, French deputies found time to consider the project of installing the new voting apparatus and after many oratorical skirmishes between various parties they adopted it with a big majority. Only the communists abstained.

The apparatus, invented by M. Langlois, consists of buttons on the desk of each deputy in the chamber. Each one may register his "yea" or "nay" by pressing the proper button. Docilely, electricity sets in action a central meter which a few seconds later indicates accurately how the cabinet stands as to parliamentary support. But, the most curious feature of this machine is that each vote, for or against the government or the project of law, is represented by a small coin. As soon as the meter has registered all the votes the coins fall in the balance of a scale operating a hand turning on a dial which indicates exactly the feelings of the assembly.

The device greatly will reduce the amount of time taken to tabulate votes and will speed up business.

THE STAGE

THE first premiere of the new theatrical season is definitely in sight; in fact, it appears upon the horizon in the form of a black cloud. "Rhapsody in Black" is its title; it is an all-colored revue staged by Lew Leslie, and it will begin an engagement at the Grand Opera house Thursday night, July 30.

Ethel Waters is its first singing girl, and a dancer named Valaida, considered an eminent practitioner of the rumba, is also prominent in the troupe. The program is rich with spiritual chanting, tap dancing, and illustrations of the folklore and customs of that much advertised region called Harlem, N. Y. The name of George Gershwin leads the list of composers and authors.

"Rhapsody in Black" was staged at the Sam H. Harris theater, New York, May 4, and had a nine weeks' run. It was rated on Broadway as a worthy successor to Mr. Leslie's well-remembered "Blackbirds."

The Playhouse also has a title to add to the stage calendar. Arrangements have been completed for the staging there of "Salt Water," a comedy by Frank Craven, on Saturday night, Aug. 22. Taylor Holmes and Fiske O'Hara will have the leading rôles.

Hermann Lieb, an actor of Chicago background, is negotiating with the owners of the Majestic theater [the Lehman estate] for an engagement there of a play of his authorship called "In the Vise." Mr. Lieb is prepared for an opening any time after Aug. 15, and the problem to be solved is: Will the theater management cooperate with him in financing the production?

William Faversham appeared as Metternich in Rostand's "L'Aiglon" at the University of Minnesota last Thursday and Friday nights. The production, made under university auspices, was received with enthusiasm. Edward Fielding and Ernest Lawford, actors of national reputation, were also in the cast. The rôle of the Duke of Reichstadt, associated with the careers of Sarah Bernhardt and Maude Adams, was played by Robert Percival, a Minneapolis high school graduate.

The Theater Guild "scouted" the performances to study the effectiveness of the drama with a youth instead of a woman in the rôle of the Eaglet. The guild has ambitions to revive "L'Aiglon." Eva Le Gallienne and Katharine Cornell are also said to be eager to follow the Bernhardt-Adams tradition.

Mr. Faversham came to Chicago after disposing of the rôle of the crafty Metternich. He will establish residence here and prepare for his rôles in the approaching season of the Chicago Civic Shakespeare Society's company.

Display of Jewelry, Music Will Mark Fete at Canterbury

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 19.—An extensive program of special services, lectures, music, and treasure displays has been arranged for Commemoration week of Canterbury cathedral, July 22 to 25.

Among the features of the week's commemoration of the historic cathedral will be an address July 24 by the archbishop of Canterbury which will be broadcast to America.

A series of lectures has been arranged to acquaint visitors with every part of the cathedral, including its tombs and treasures, as well as its tradition and history. Among the subjects to be discussed are "Music and Architecture," "Life in Medieval England," "The Stained Glass of Canterbury Cathedral," "Westminster and Canterbury," "Henry of Eastry, the Great Prior of the 13th and 14th Centuries."

Two of the musical features will be a serenade in the cloisters on July 22 by the British Broadcasting corporation chamber orchestra of 45 and a recital in the cathedral the following day by Miss Astra Desmond, Miss Jelly d'Aranyi, and Dr. C. C. Palmer.

More than 200 exhibits of treasures will be held during the week. Included in the displays will be the Canterbury Psalter written about 1150 in the cathedral cloisters, which has been loaned by Trinity college, as well as a large number of medieval papers concerned with the cathedral and the clergy.

On July 25 a festival of the friends of the cathedral and a festival service will be held at the reopening of the chapel of Edward the Confessor. The bishop of Rochester will deliver the sermon.

Bradleys Hope to Bring Pygmy Town to Fair

Explorer and Family Are Home from Africa.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Some really nice people direct from the African jungle may yet augment the cosmopolitan atmosphere of Chicago. Chances are even, Herbert Bradley and party announced yesterday on their arrival back home after another of their numerous expeditions into the dar continent, that an entire tribe of pygmy folk may be persuaded to journey hither for the world's fair of 1933.

"It will have to be by private enterprise, I think, for there's no money available for the purpose from the fair itself," qualified the explorer and attorney from the depths of a comfortable divan strewn with lion and tiger pelts, in the trophy room topping the Bradley apartment at 5444 Hyde Park boulevard.

"We found that it wouldn't be possible to bring over only a few of the natives, for the loneliness and the strange atmosphere would probably be too much for them.

"I shall discuss with the fair officials some time soon the matter of bringing over not only an entire pygmy tribe, which we visited there, but also their whole village, little huts, and even cooking utensils. If they could have a settlement to themselves and be comparatively isolated, I believe it would be a wonderful exhibit for the fair. These primitive people, you know, are among the finest in the world."

"There aren't any finer people anywhere," echoed Mrs. Mary Hastings Bradley. Mrs. Bradley, who with their 15 year old daughter, Alice, and Prof. Harry A. Bigelow, dean of the law school at the University of Chicago, made up the party, has written numerous books on her experiences in living for months among cannibal tribes. Even Alice has made two journeys through Africa.

"We were perfectly enchanted with the Mangbatoos, the people through whom we met the pygmies," Mrs. Bradley went on. "The Mangbatoos are an enormous tribe in the Belgian Congo, who have the custom of binding their babies' heads with banana fiber until they get tremendously elongated.

"We took movies of the mothers binding up their infants that way, but we couldn't ever have done it if we hadn't got to know their big chief, Niapu. He's the biggest sultan left in French equatorial Africa."

"Niapu himself is feeling the world wide financial depression. He has only about 400 wives now, and we got pictures of him with about 250 of them. They were grand to us, and couldn't do enough for us.

"Yes, the depression has hit Africa. Of course, the pygmies and other primitives don't know anything about it—they're living in that millenium where neither money nor time nor meals bother them. But on the west coast, where we entered, following a route not used by other parties, we found that the price of palm oil was down 50 per cent; that native shops were not doing well, and that travel companies handling big game hunting parties hadn't done anything in months.

"Other things have changed somewhat in Africa, too. In Nairobi we found we could buy as chic clothes as one could purchase on the Rue de la Paix, and brought right from there. The shops that have opened up in the last few years are astonishingly up to date.

"And then, speaking of fashion, there were the tribes in the grasslands. There the men wear the most flamboyant and numerous garments, while the good old-fashioned women wear nothing at all.

"Coming out toward the Sudanese coast we found the British Imperial Airways were just inaugurating a regular service, so we flew 2,000 miles across the desert, being among the first passengers to make the trip. It's an amazing thing, how the planes descend a couple of times a day to stock up on petrol at filling stations, each station tended by one man, outthere in the midst of all that desolation. We flew at about 5,000 feet and found it awfully cold.

"You can't imagine, after being away for six months without a scrap of news, what an adventure it becomes to be able to telephone a friend. We're thrilled to be back."

Famous Welsh Orchestra Lacking Cash; to Disband

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 19.—The National Orchestra of Wales, which has been under the control of the British Broadcasting corporation for the last three years, has to disband. This is regarded as the biggest blow to cultural progress in Wales in recent years. The orchestra was founded in 1928 to meet the new demand for instrumental music in Wales. Under an Australian conductor, Warwick Braithwaite, it developed into one of the leading institutions of Wales. The cost of its upkeep was $60,000 a year, most of which came in the form of a subsidy from the broadcasting company. However, the directors announced a year ago that unless contributions from Wales were received that would cover half the cost of upkeep they would be forced to disband the orchestra. Only $15,000 was subscribed.

Movie Gossip Fresh from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 19.—[Special.]—Horace Liveright, New York publisher and play producer, is on his last six weeks of a strange tug of war with the powers at Pathé studio. Brought west to write for and assist in the producing of films, he had the unusual experience of drawing a salary but losing his fight to get something to do, both at the Paramount and Pathé studios. When at the latter place the studio heads several months ago besought him to accept 50 per cent of the promised salary, up to expiration of his contract time in September, and begone, Liveright became stubborn and insisted the studio live up to the contract.

In alluding to his experience, high spots of which were being shunted from a front office to a cubbyhole on the back lot, Liveright says: "It is my conviction Mr. Charles Rogers, the head of Pathé, hired me because he thought it a good idea—in case story conferences ran over the luncheon hour—to have somebody around who knew how to use a knife and fork."

Liveright had been brought west from New York by Paramount ostensibly to have a hand in production of Theodore Dreiser's "An American Tragedy."

A dispatch to "La Opinion," a Spanish language daily in Los Angeles, says a tragedy during filming of a scene in Gergei Eisenstein's talking picture in Rual Hidalgo, Mexico, put a temporary stop to that picture. The dispatch from Mexico City says Julio Balderan, Mexican Indian, fired a gun in a scene in which blank cartridges were called for, and killed his own sister. The dispatch says "Eisenstein was directing the scene when the regretful accident occurred, after which the Mexican authorites intervened, putting a temporary stop to the production while they make a thorough investigation. To complicate matters further with the production of the film, Eisenstein suddenly became seriously ill and was brought to Mexico City for medical attention."

Surgeons declare Evalyn Knapp, who injured her spine in a fall off a Hollywood cliff, will be able to leave Hollywood hospital in three weeks and forecast she can resume her film career in September.

Rudolph Sieber, Marlene Dietrich's husband, rejoined the actress and their five year old baby, Maria, here today. Josef von Sternberg, Marlene's director, discoverer and stanch Hollywood escort, made a fourth member of the family party which greeted Sieber at the Pasadena railroad station. Sieber's first kiss was for his baby, the second for Marlene. He'll stay here four weeks in the Beverly Hills home Marlene leased from Charlie Mack, then will return to Europe, working in the Paramount Paris plant, where he has been made a director. Marlene will complete two more pictures here and then go to Berlin to join him.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, July 19.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Willard Vinton King gave a dinner last night in the roof garden of the St. Regis for Mr. and Mrs. C. Shelby Carter, Mrs. Oliver Doty, Miss Elsma Doty, Miss Betty Schroeder, Blanchard Smith, and Gordon Van B. King.

Miss Dorothy D. Pratt has returned to Kllenworth, Glen Cove, L. I., after a visit to Mrs. Geraldyn L. Redmond at the Pierre.

Mrs. Romulus R. Colgate has left for Filston, her summer home, in Sharon, Conn.

Knitted Sports Suits Have Gone Bi-Colored

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—This bi-colored business in fashions is getting to be an epidemic that is spreading to all branches of women's clothes. The one colored ensemble for any occasion is the exception. If the waist of a dress is any given shade, then the skirt just naturally is another, and the same thing is true of the suit, or of the coat and dress.

The last one color stronghold to give in to the two shads invasion is the knitted sports frock, and now that is surrendered, and the newest knitted dresses of the mid season in Paris are just as two color minded as every other sort of costume.

Schiaparelli, who really invented knitted styles, so far as Paris is concerned, is responsible for the bi-color vogue in such clothes, and the ensemble, sketched today, shows her tricot golf dress, which is also being worn by such tennis celebrities as Señorita Lili d'Alvarez.

As you see it has the trouser skirt that Schiaparelli dotes on, knitted into tucks at the hipline, and with a simple sweater stitch below. These trousers are a bright henna red, while the surpliced blouse is brown. This blouse is held on by a brown leather belt, made like a whip, and the surpliced ends are allowed to hang in points below the belt, or they may be folded under at the sides of the waistline.

Señorita Alvarez has this outfit with white knitted trousers and a white sleeveless sweater, over white she wears the surpliced sweater shown, made of henna red wool.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

E. C.: CORRECTING UNDERweight is largely a matter of proper digestion and assimilation — not a question of food cramming. Take three meals a day, but let them be eaten unhurriedly and consist of well balanced food items. I have a booklet giving full instructions. Send a stamped, addressed envelope for it.

A. W.: OLIVE OIL IS ONE OF the best foodstuffs for the thin and nervous. It is highly assimilable and nourishing. It is lubricating. Take it straight if you can. It will bring quicker results. Use it in salad dressing.

R. S.: PERSONS WHO CAN'T drink milk have a deficiency in gastric juice, as a rule. Add a few drops of lemon or orange juice to the milk and it will be more digestible.

Here's One of Most Inexpensive Beauty Recipes on Record

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Can you bear a talk of water-drinking this morning?

I don't know why I always get into an apologetic frame when the subject of water is approached in this column. It isn't because I think I should be presenting you "something better"—because there isn't any such drink. Not in a beauty editor's cellar, anyway.

But here we go on, day after day, talking about methods of making the complexions more and more beautiful, of making the hair more and more vibrantly lovely, of putting vim, vigor, and vitality into the run-down frame. And always there is the water tank close at hand into which more cup dipping could be advocated.

We have the word of every physician who ever won a place in his profession that you can't beat the good old stuff for complexion improving and for body improving, inside and out. Yet, some women would just as soon undergo a major operation as consume six sturdy glasses of water a day.

If you can afford it, it wouldn't be a bad idea to buy a supply of one of the good mineral springs water, and have it handy enough to participate in frequently during the course of the day. This is recommended for the kind of women who will only do and believe in what she has to pay for. Or, rather is more likely to indulge in the recommendation that has a money value attached to it.

In fact, this is the great drawback of water as a cosmetic seller. It ought to be the best seller, but because it's cheap and it doesn't come in a fancy bottle, it is just neglected.

I mention it now because it is now that you can get the habit most easily. Only I would plead that you don't go in too heavily for ice water. An occasional glass doesn't do any harm, or we'd all be tucked under the sod by this time, surely. But six or eight glasses of ice water a day wouldn't meet with approval at all.

But do drink water for your beauty's sake, even if your stomach has to be trained to take it without "regretting."

Food Talk.

Mothers everywhere are wracking their brains in an attempt to find some foods that their children will enjoy eating in this hot weather. Children's appetites are fickle at best, and during the summer many seem to lose all desire to eat. Since it is not possible for them to get along without sufficient nourishment, we must plan the meals and the foods so that they will appeal to the imagination of the child. Intriguing dishes, delightfully served, will do more to encourage the appetite of the child than any number of pleadings or scoldings.

Any departure from the humdrum menus of every day life will provide a stimulus to the child. Impromptu picnics and beach parties are always occasions of rejoicing. Even here, however, thoughtfully planned menus must take the place of hasty "pick-ups." Tasty sandwiches of cold sliced meat or chicken, cheese or vegetables, such as lettuce and tomato, or cucumbers may be used to furnish a large and satisfying part of the meal.

Sandwiches should be made just as dainty as time and material will permit, and they should be wrapped in waxed paper to keep them fresh and sweet. Either plain white paper or the fancy patterned paper that most children think is so beautiful may be used. Whenever possible it is advisable to let the children help wrap the sandwiches. The actual participation in the preparation whets the appetite.

Fresh fruit should always be taken on a picnic, and it, too, should be wrapped in waxed paper to prevent other foods from absorbing its aroma. Plain cookies or cake will make an adequate dessert.

A cold drink that can be carried in a thermos bottle is always welcomed. Milk should be the principal ingredient of this drink. If the flavor of milk alone is not pleasing to the child, any combination of milk—fruit juice, chocolate or cereal beverage—may be used. Straws should always be provided, for they lend a party air to the beverage.

Another type of menu that appeals to the child is a porch luncheon, or, if you are fortunate enough to have a garden, a garden picnic. Here we can have a different type of menu, as the food need not be packed up and carried for any distance. A cold meat or fish salad, accompanied by bread and butter sandwiches of several different kinds of bread, furnishes the main course of the meal. For dessert one may serve a round ball of ice cream covered with nuts or cocoanut and a cooky or two.

Any number of interesting and attractive menus that will interest the child in his food may be planned by the ingenious housewife. It is well, however, to bear in mind that foods that the child likes should be used.

PICNIC MENU.

Assorted Sandwiches of Green Vegetables, Chicken and Cheese
[Cut in rounds, triangles and fingers]
Cold Sautéd Fresh Corn or Potato Salad
Celery Ripe Olives
Oranges or Plums or Bananas
Chocolate Malted Milk
Fruit Cookies

FRUIT COOKIES.

1¼ cups pastry flour
½ tsp. salt
1½ tsp. baking powder
½ cup butter
¾ cup brown sugar
2 small eggs, well beaten
4 tbsp. milk
¾ cup dates, chopped
½ cup English walnuts
1 tsp. maple flavoring
½ tsp. vanilla

Sift the flour, then measure. Resift with the salt and baking powder. Cream the butter and sugar thoroughly, add the well beaten eggs and continue creaming until smooth and fluffy. To this add the dry ingredients and the milk alternately, beginning and ending with the dry ingredients. Add the dates, nuts and flavoring with the last few stirs. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a slightly oiled baking sheet.

Yield: 20 cookies.

SUNBURN RELIEVED INSTANTLY —or no cost!

"After giving many different sunburn remedies a fair trial here at Asbury Park, we have found that Noxzema Cream beats them all," says Chief Newberry.

"Every sunburn patient that we use says practically the same thing—it takes the fire and pain out the moment you put it on and heals the burned skin quickly."

No need to suffer from painful sunburn this summer. Spread Noxzema on promptly—it soothes—cools—ends pain instantly. And if applied before exposure, it prevents sunburn and allows the skin to tan in an even, healthy tan. It's greaseless and cannot stain clothes. Get a jar now at any good drug or department store.

FLOWER OF THORNS

By Marie Conway Oemler

SYNOPSIS.

Sally Rutherford, the last of a proud old southern family, following the ruin and death of her grandfather, determines to keep the heavily mortgaged Oakleigh plantation for her grandmother. A porter's lodge, facing the Dixie highway, gives her the idea of running a hot dog stand. She arranges with a milkman, who says he is Mr. Forman, owner of the Winstead dairies, to deliver milk. He is really Samuel Forman Winstead, son of Henry Winstead, town banker and holder of the Oakleigh mortgage. The latter notes "didn't know" the Winsteads, of carpetbagging stock, whose estate adjoins Oakleigh. Sally's milkman helps her to make the Shack a success before she learns his identity. By that time she is receiving the court of Lowndes Jennings.

INSTALLMENT XIII.

THE MORTGAGE CHANGES HANDS.

"I, Sally Rutherford, belong to you, Lowndes Jennings, forever and ever, and without end, until you yourself make me go," said she.

"I wish to God I could marry you right now!" said he truthfully. For as one loving and lovely and he was a spoiled young man.

"And live at Oakleigh. I wish I could give you Oakleigh along with me, Lowndes," said she sorrowfully. "But so long as I have you, dear, I can't be real rich. But I wish, O I wish, Lowndes, that Oakleigh came with me. I would make grandpapa so happy to know that such a master ruled over his dear old place!"

"So long as we have each other——" said he nobly. Even at that moment he wondered how he was going to manage, what was to come next. In his wished with all his heart that Oakleigh came along with her, that his poor old colonel hadn't been such an unmitigated old fool.

"Now we must run back," said she. "Moses doesn't like to be left so long by himself. And you've an important dinner engagement."

"I wish you could go, too, darling. What a wonderful evening we'd have."

"I'll be thinking of you every minute, Lowndes. It has been a wonderful evening," said she quickly.

"When you put it like that, it's been the most wonderful evening of my life," said he, turning the car toward the shop.

He leaned down at every dark space under the trees to kiss her. He asked to live her as often as he could while he had the chance. He told her, insistently, that he loved her, that no matter what fate had in store, she loved him now; he had held her in his arms, he had kissed her.

When Mr. Jennings escorted Miss Rutherford back to the shop, a tall figure rose unsteadily out of a chair and greeted them. A quick glance at Lowndes and a keener and more searching glance at the girl's face revealed something of the secret she had meant to keep from all. She was usually pale, but tonight she scintillated. Her eyes were starry wells of young happiness, her soft lips curved into a girl's joyous smile. He saw, too, the hat she gave Lowndes Jennings; if he felt a stab of pain he concealed it.

"Moses has been ministering to me," he told Sally, and he smiled to Lowndes casually, his keen blue eyes on the other's handsome face. "Good evening, Mr. Winstead," said Sally, politely.

"Dad," blurted the boy, "I—we—you don't want Oakleigh."

"Aren't you due at the Preston dinner, Winstead? If so, you'd better be, hadn't you? I'm flying now," said Lowndes pleasantly.

"Eh? O, yes," said Sam Winstead.

"How did they get you? Grappling hooks? I'm told you're harder to snare than Prester John," said Lowndes.

"Hadn't I pestered to stay home to a dairy lunch? That's Maud Lucas's party," said Sam calmly. "However, if you want to know how the Prestons got me, they sent me a regular invitation and I returned a regular acceptance, the Yes and the minus." He nodded. "See you later."

"So Lowndes Jennings, little Sally!" he said to himself grimly as he dashed into his car. "Maybe somebody else, little girl, if it has to be!"

While the week of his meeting with Lowndes Jennings at Sally's, Sam had to dine out in the living room after dinner. Henry's one personal extravagance was fine cigars, which he bought wholesale, and for which he paid a prohibitive price. The odor of fine tobacco hung in the air, mingled with the smell of burning cedar wood from the open fireplace. Sam was not smoking, but sat forward staring at the fire, one brown hand hanging idly.

"Well?" asked Henry.

"Dad——"

"Haven't been working too hard, dad."

"Not worried about something?" This diffidently. Sam turned his head. "Didn't you notice?" he asked curiously.

"O, I just noticed, that's all," said Henry apologetically. "I asked—because I wondered if I could—ah—help in any way." So the boy was worried. The father's heart tightened.

"I'm wondering if you would?" said Sam, after a pause.

Henry asked no more questions; just held himself in readiness.

Presently Sam faced him, body bent forward, hands clasped between his knees. Henry noted how the knuckles showed white.

"Dad," blurted the boy. "I—we—you don't want Oakleigh." As Henry sat still, nothing being astonished, Sam asked steadily: "Will you let me buy Oakleigh of your hands, dad? Let me take up those mortgages?"

"I don't think I understand," said Henry. "You just said you didn't want it."

"No. But I want you to turn the mortgages over to me, nevertheless. Let me pay you the full amount."

"Forty thousand dollars is a large sum." Henry reminded him mildly.

"Nevertheless, dad, I am asking you to let me take over the mortgages, and pay in full, out of my own money. I have to have it." He smiled wryly.

"But what for?" asked Henry.

"For a wedding present. If you must know," said Sam, after another pause. He spoke almost defiantly, and his face flushed.

"O! You—you are—in love, son?" Very diffidently.

"Yes, dad. I'm in love," he answered truthfully. "Do I get the mortgages?"

"Are you engaged to the young lady?"

"No, dad. I'm not. Not yet. But I have an idea that I shall marry her after a while. So I want Oakleigh for a wedding present. Do I get the mortgages, dad?"

For a space Henry was silent. He smoked thoughtfully.

"You are my only son," he said presently. "Your mother——" he paused.

"Are you more frightfully in love with my mother, weren't you, dad?"

"I am," said Henry, using the present tense. "She—you look very much like her, Sam. She—told me she wouldn't be altogether gone, so long as you remained. Sometimes I—get you both—you and your mother—confused in my mind——"

"I gathered that—between the lines of her letter," said Sam.

"You know things that other people never seem to catch a glimpse of," Henry simply. "You're not altogether like her in that respect—nobody else—but you have flashes, I've noticed."

"That is why I believe you are going to turn Oakleigh over to me."

"Very well, son. You have asked for it, and you shall have it," said Henry simply. "And you shall pay for it. You would prefer that?"

"No. I want to pay for it myself," said Sam eagerly. "I think I have to pay more than that, before the—affair is settled."

"You are right in thinking that—that the girl—is Col. Rutherford's granddaughter, am I not?"

"Yes, sir, the girl—is Col. Rutherford's granddaughter."

"And she is in love with you, Sam?" Henry asked eagerly.

"No. She doesn't like the Winsteads. But I am in love with her. As I have with my mother. We take it hard, we Winstead men, don't we?" he added all our life through," said Henry soberly. "Naturally we take it hard. And you think the young lady doesn't like the Winsteads? But she doesn't know us."

"She told me: 'We don't know them.' It was a bit funny. Grandfather have given a lot of people the gripes in his time."

"The country was in a most ruinous state," said Henry, sedately. "Everything was gone—or going." He spread out his hands expressively.

"I see. And granddad made some of it come his way?"

"He made plenty of it come his way. Why not? Always in a most businesslike manner, remember. He bought some of the Oakleigh land. Paid the money cash for it, too."

"I'm sure you've practically bought Oakleigh, haven't you? Paid the money cash for it, too?"

"I wished to oblige him. I hoped he could pay off the indebtedness. I never have pushed him," protested Henry.

"But that day the Oakleigh mortgages changed hands. Oakleigh was now to be dealt with altogether by Sam himself. Of this, naturally, Henry said nothing. After she had discovered his identity the girl's pride seemed to allow her to show any change of manner to Mr. Sam Winstead, perhaps, in a greater degree of formal politeness. She was more not less friendly. He had been very kind—and for that she thanked him. The fireman she had been a fellow worker, a girl who kept a stand on the public road. She was Miss Rutherford to Mr. Winstead!

Though she was bitterly angry, she really had no time to think over the matter of Sam Winstead just then, all her thoughts being occupied with Lowndes Jennings, who spent as much time at Sally's as he possibly could without making it too noticeable.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Chance to Give Pleasure.

I am a woman, 72 years old and blind. I cannot go out much alone to work around flowers. I have window boxes, bulbs or plants myself, and I wondered if you could get me through your column, some grass

You don't know how happy it would make me. MRS. N. K."

This elderly woman could spend many happy hours in her garden were she supplied with the materials. Those of you who grow flowers may have an extra plant or a few seeds to send her.

Leiters Again to Make Home as Chicagoans

IT IS interesting to learn that Joseph Leiter and his family again are to be residents of the city where the Leiter fortune was founded. While the Leiters never have quite relinquished their status as Chicagoans, their brief and infrequent visits here during the last few years have been of a business rather than a social nature.

They now have decided, however, to remain in Chicago at least for the winter, and their son, Thomas Leiter, has gone into business here. Just as soon as they choose between two houses they are considering as residences, they will sign a lease for the winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. Leiter came to Chicago in June to race their horses at Washington Park, and when Arlington opened moved into the David Dangler house in Lake Forest for the summer. Their nephew and niece, Colin, and Audry Campbell, are residing with them.

Fort Sheridan Officers Play Weekly Polo Game.

A lot of people, it seems, are not aware of the fact that the Fort Sheridan officers' polo team plays every Sunday afternoon at the fort. So the officer who handles publicity asks us to announce that these weekly games start at 3 o'clock and that parking space may be had on the side lines.

The military team is coached by Maj. C. C. Smith, who did such brilliant playing last Wednesday when he substituted for Stewart Iglehart on the Old Aiken team. Ontwentsia, North Shore, and the Broadlea club of Milwaukee are among the teams who visit the fort for the games. The Fort Sheridan horse show, by the way, will be held on Sept. 11 and 12.

Mrs. Allan M. Clement and Mrs. George M. Reynolds will depart on Monday for their annual visit with Mrs. Joseph De Frees at Camden, Me. After a three weeks' stay with Mrs. De Frees they will go to New York for a few days before returning to Chicago. Later in August they will be the guests of Mrs. Albert Evans at Penn Lake, Wis.

Miss Barbara Bullard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bullard of Boston and Windsor, Vt., whose engagement to Schuyler Van Ingen Colt was announced in June, will arrive in mid-August for a visit with her fiancé and his mother, Mrs. William Edward Colt Jr. of 15 East Division street.

Have You Also Been Told These Same Things?

We've been told that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Brown (Bertha Alling) are back from their wedding trip and residing at 908 Lake avenue, Wilmette . . . that Mr. and Mrs. Albert D. Farwell and their two children departed last week for a month's holiday in Montana . . . that Richard S. Neff and his sisters, Miss Barbara and Miss Louise Neff, have opened their summer residence at Franconia, N. H. [it is one of the loveliest old colonial houses in the vicinity and is filled with priceless antiques] . . . Eleanor and Patty McCormick and William McCormick Blair Jr. are again winning honors in the boat races at Bar Harbor . . . that Walter Ayer has been made a member of the board of directors of the Bar Harbor Yacht club.

James Keeley arrived home on Saturday from a month's visit with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cabot Brown, at Pebble Beach, Cal. Mr. and Mrs. Luther S. Hammond Jr. [Ruth Keeley] departed last night to visit the Browns.

A lot of fathers must be planning to attend the children's swimming carnival at the Winter club on Wednesday, because there is to be a fathers and sons baseball game after the swimming contests.

The South Shore Country club entertainment committee has issued bright colored announcements of its midsummer frolics, "a most unusual diversion to counteract the doldrums of the dog days," to be held on Saturday evening, Aug. 1.

Half Loaf Better than None When It Comes to Knowing Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

If you write a column on child training [or anything else for that matter], you've got to be able to laugh at a joke on yourself.

The other day a friend of mine who has no children took great delight in saying to me:

"You know Jim Vanderpool? Well, I went uptown with him in the train the other night and what do you think I found that dashing clubman reading? Your article! He let slip the fact that he reads them every day." A pause. "But he only applies them every Wednesday afternoon from four-thirty to seven!"

I laughed.

"I suppose the stupendous combined wisdom contained in six dailies and a Sunday is barely enough to put into a three hour nutshell!" I hazarded.

"Something like that!" was the answer, intended to pester further. Then the facts came out.

"No, it's like this. You know the Vanderpools have a baby, and to everybody's surprise Barbara, that playgirl, has turned out to be a devoted mother. But she does like to go to the Smith's for tea on Wednesdays, and she won't leave the baby with the maid. So finally Jim, the undomestic animal, volunteered to come home early every Wednesday and take care of the babe until dinner time.

"The result is that he got interested in managing the offspring, so now he soaks up child training in theory all the week and applies it on Wednesday afternoons! He actually began to relate incidents to me of what the baby did and then of what he did when the baby did that, and then what happened after that! Can't you see the immaculate Jim playing nurse on Wednesday afternoons?"

I laughed again, but rather smugly this time. If Jim was that much intrigued as the result of a few hours one day a week with his baby, I knew what was bound to happen. He was going to find increasing pleasure and interest in his small daughter.

WILL BE AUGUST BRIDE

[Du Bois Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Royal T. Barton of Danville, Ill., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mildred Barton, of 200 E. Chestnut street, to Frederic J. Vogt, son of Mrs. E. J. Vogt of Grand Rapids, Mich. The wedding will take place the latter part of August.

Finland Will Study American Schools by Sending Experts

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, July 19.—A number of the best known educators in Finland will be sent to America shortly to study American educational methods, according to Mr. Antti Kukkonen, minister of education.

"Like Estonia and some other European countries Finland today has a surplus of well educated people who find it difficult to find employment in the country," said the minister. "At present emmigration to both North and South America is closed down. Our universities contain 5,500 students and every year more are seeking admission. We have not yet decided to change the curriculum of some middle schools, so as to make it impossible for their graduates to enter university, as Estonia has done, and we are not compelling students to pass a severe examination before being enrolled, as Latvia and some other countries have been forced to do.

"At present boys and girls at seven years of age must take a two year course either at summer or winter schools, depending upon what parts of the country in which they live, before they are admitted to the four year course of compulsory education. Children who wish to continue their studies can next enter a college for a course of eight or nine years, the first five years of which correspond to the American high school. Many students leave after this course and, while they have a good general education, still they are not fitted to earn a living. Here we hope to remedy this by adopting some American ideas.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., July 19.—[Special.]—Miss Katherine Lowman, daughter of the assistant secretary of the treasury, and Mrs. Seymour Lowman, and Miss Mildred Huston, daughter of the former chairman of the Republican national committee, Claudius N. Huston, went to New York to meet Miss Marion Jardine, daughter of the American minister to Egypt. He formerly was secretary of agriculture. Miss Jardine arrived yesterday from Egypt, accompanied by Miss Phyllis Hight, daughter of Frank S. Hight. Miss Hight has been her guest in Cairo for many months. The girls were all debutantes together several years ago. She will come to Washington tomorrow to visit old friends and will later go to New Canaan, Conn., to visit Miss Hight in her summer home, and to Elmira, N. Y., to visit Miss Lowman. Miss Lowman went to Cairo with the Jardines when they went there, as the fiancée of William Jardine, son of the minister, and while she was there the engagement was broken.

The secretary of labor and Mrs. Doak had as week-end guests in their country home on the Fairfax road in Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Whitney of Cleveland, and W. F. McNeiniman of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Campbell Graef have gone to Chicago to visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ballard Moore. Their home in Georgetown, which is one of the historic old places there, is closed for a month.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics of the navy department and former head of the Great Lakes training station, has purchased the Dickson farm, 3 miles from Leesburg, Va. He will improve the place and make it his home for the year around. It has 35 acres and a Potomac river view.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Failed to Claim Car.

Disregarding advice from friends, I bought a second hand automobile. It was a beautiful car to look at, and I felt proud to own it.

But on my second trip on the highway the motor stopped, and nothing that I or others could do would even get a wheeze out of it. Telephoning the garage where I had bought the car, I had it towed in.

The following morning, on my way to work in company with a girl friend, I was surprised to see my car in front of a repair shop and a mechanic working on it. Wishing to impress my girl friend by letting her know that I owned this car, I took her over to it, where I said to the mechanic, who, of course, didn't know that I was the owner of the car:

"Gee, that's a dandy car, isn't it?"

The young mechanic glared up from his work and growled: "Dandy car, my eye! That's as nice a piece of junk as was ever sold to any one."

Did my face get red? Well, needless to say I didn't brag to the mechanic or my girl friend that I was the owner of that car. H. B.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

This lovely chiffon dress is smart for every formal daytime occasion. It's quite perfect for evenings at a country club, and nothing could be smarter for dining and dancing at any one of the fashionable restaurants in town. The clever seaming creates a charming slenderness through the hips, and the pointed peplum contributes further to its slimness. The flared sleeves and cowl draped bodice complete it.

The pattern, 3171, comes in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36 and 38 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 4¾ yards 39 inch material.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Little Phil, while running, stumbled and fell, tearing a large hole in the knee of his stocking. Dismayed at the discovery, he commenced a diligent search. A man passing by asked what he was looking for. Pointing to his knee, he replied: "I'm looking for the piece that fell out of there."

Holland and Belgium Seem Nearer Accord

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, July 19.—Two kingdoms are heading toward reconciliation—Belgium, under King Albert, and Holland, under Queen Wilhelmina.

Queen Wilhelmina didn't go as far as to pay a friendly call to King Albert, but she did go twice to see the Belgian pavilion at the Paris Colonial exposition. That endeared her to Belgium to some degree. Crown Prince Leopold of Belgium, in turn, paid a visit to the Dutch pavilion at the same Paris show, just before the Dutch building burned down overnight.

There has been a century's chill between Belgium and Holland because Belgium belonged to Holland until 1830, but revolted at that date with the aid of the French and became independent. Holland could not forget it; nor did Belgium forget that a few bits of Holland "ought to" have been handed over to Belgium in the bargain. Even after the world war, some leading Belgians did not fail to claim the Dutch province of Limbourg for their own country.

Every trouble might have been smoothed out and forgotten in the course of a hundred long years, had there not been the Scheldt river. Most inopportunely this river took it into its head to run through Belgian territory down to Holland and join the North sea in purely Dutch territory. All traffic to and from the only Belgian seaport, Antwerp [one of the biggest in Europe], is passing through a strip of Holland's grounds. The Dutch, say the Belgians, hampered that traffic by mean little tricks and regulations and tried to turn it off toward Rotterdam, their own great North sea harbor.

Dutch and Belgian diplomats contended for the right to the Scheldt river mouth. At one time it looked as though the two countries were just going to split it and take half of the famous "pass of Wielingen," the deepest stretch in the river mouth and the only one where ocean-going vessels can ply. The Dutch claimed historical rights to the Scheldt river mouth, and particularly the "Wielingen pass." The Belgians contended that if that pass were given to the Dutch, it would interfere with their "territorial waters" of three miles off the coast.

This squabble may have far reaching results in war days. Belgium believes that the Wielingen pass would be a danger if declared neutral by Holland during the next war. That way, Belgium's allies—in case they are the same as in the world war—would be unable to reach Belgium via the shallow waters close to the Belgian coast.

At present, Belgian and Dutch diplomats once more are trying to find a solution. They are discussing the problem in Paris. There the French government exerts a bit of pressure on both parties and acts as a conciliating intermediary. France is greatly interested in having Belgium and Holland be friends, and Belgium an efficient ally in the next European war.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

DON'T PRUNE GRAPES NOW.

Summer pruning of grapes will delay maturing of the fruit and tend to reduce the sugar content of the grapes, according to experiments which have been conducted by horticulturists. As a result, amateur and commercial vineyard growers are being advised to delay pruning until winter months or early spring, when the vines are in a dormant condition.

In years past, many have held the belief that summer pruning was desirable to open up the vines so that sunlight could reach the fruit. This has been proved actually harmful, says Richard Wellington of the New York State College of Agriculture.

Late maturing varieties usually show a greater decrease in the sugar content and a more striking difference in maturity when pruned in the summer than do the earlier sorts, says Mr. Wellington. Lack of maturity was found to be related to a decrease in sugar, varying with the variety.

Experiments are being continued into next year to determine whether pruning during the summer months has any effect on the following year's crop. No evidence has been obtained that the effect would carry over into the next year, but Mr. Wellington believes that the vine would be prevented from storing up adequate food supplies and would also be more subject to winter damage.

SALLY'S NEXT PARTY WILL BE AT RAVINIA TO SEE SERVICE MEN

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

It would be difficult finding anything to equal the party we have planned for Thursday, July 30, for that's the day Mr. Louis Eckstein has invited us to come and spend our party time at his lovely opera in the woods, Ravinia park. It will be a carnival day or "Army and Navy" day at the picturesque north shore arena and the program will be extremely interesting.

Just going to Ravinia is a treat in itself, for it's one of the most beautiful spots in this part of the country. A broad expanse of lovely green lawn will form the stage which is enclosed by huge spreading trees and beautiful thick shrubbery. Our seats will be out in the open, for so large and extensive is the program it couldn't possibly be given in the opera house.

From Fort Sheridan will come the soldiers for their part of the program, which will consist of drills and full dress parade. Then we'll have the sailors from Great Lakes whose performance last year was such a delightful one. The marine bayonet drill should be one of the high spots of the afternoon, and in addition to all this both the army band and the navy band will give us a good share of thrilling military music. There are other numbers on the program, too, which I can't tell you about now, but I can assure you that each of them will be extremely interesting.

We'll have a most enjoyable trip out to Ravinia, for Mr. Britton I. Budd, president of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad, is providing us with private cars so that even our ride will be a party.

To be invited to this lovely outing, I want every boy and girl in and around Chicago to write me what they think will be a winning letter. I may take one hundred of you with me and I shall choose as my guests those who write the most convincing and enthusiastic letters, the ones who sound the most anxious to go. Each letter must reach me no later than next Thursday morning, and it should contain your name, address and age.

No Widower Need Be Without Second Mate for Long, Says Doris

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Why is a lonely widower lonely?

From the evidence I gather, there is no reason on earth for him to stay lonely long. Just let me picture the plight of a man bereaved of his mate, as I did here recently, and the number of women who are willing to cure his lonesome ailment is simply legion. The women write that they are in the same plight, widowed by death or divorce and experiencing the same gnawing pangs at heart that the lonely man acknowledges.

It seems unfortunate that one cannot break a rule not to turn matchmaker. The tales of lonesomeness ring true enough. And very often the widower's plight is legitimate. But there's always that element of danger that has brought certain women to untimely graves after putting themselves in communication with a "lonely" stranger.

But what happens to the man when his wife is taken away from him? Is he conventionally bound to a long period of mourning? Or, does he lose grip on his old ability to convince a woman that he has much to offer her in the way of companionship and wedded bliss? Does he retire into himself, isolate himself from female companionship? Is he afraid of his children's censure? The same children, perhaps, are so engrossed in their own companionship with their respective mates that they have little time for a sympathetic hour with the bereaved father?

No widower who has been a good husband should be without a second mate for long. If he needs to be bucked up, let me assure him that he is a pretty eligible individual from the point of view of a goodly number of women. And certainly he is going to be a better citizen, a more cheerful one, and no doubt an abler one, if he captures within a reasonable period after his wife's death another mate.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Objects to Competition.

"Dear Miss Blake: My fellow has accepted a position in another city. Is it right that he should be offended when I accept other dates?

"C. D. H."

Unless his intentions are serious, and he has so declared himself, he should not feel hurt if you accept the invitations of others.

How to SUNBATHE HEALTHFULLY AND avoid SUNBURN

1 In the beginning, expose yourself to direct sun-rays for a short time—until your skin has become accustomed to the sun. In small doses the sun refreshes and benefits. In large doses it burns.

2 To have a safe, comfortable sunbath never expose your skin to the sun while it is wet.

3 While nothing in the world will positively prevent a burn if you expose yourself carelessly, you can avoid an ordinary burn and lessen a bad burn by sunbathing with the skin dried off and protected with an application of Nivea Creme before and during exposure. This precaution will assure you a fresh, healthy and invigorated skin.

4 When you have not taken these precautions and a sunburn or skin dryness develops after exposure, apply Nivea Creme—it will quickly soothe and cool your skin.

5 Druggists, department stores and chain stores will supply you with Nivea Creme.

ROBINS SOAR TO 2D PLACE; BEAT CUBS, 10-6

BRITONS CROWD U.S. TEAM OUT OF DAVIS CUP FINAL

Defeat Americans, 3 to 2.

PARIS, July 19.—(AP)—In one of the greatest Davis cup tennis upsets in years Great Britain today swept to victory in the last two matches of the Davis cup interzone finals against the United States, won the three day series, 3 matches to 2, and gained the right to challenge France, cup holder since 1927.

HENRY AUSTIN.

Frederick J. Perry conquered the New York youngster, Sydney B. Wood, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, to even the count at 2-2 and then in the final match Henry W. (Bunny) Austin swamped Frank Shields of New York in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2, 7-5.

French Fans Celebrate.

The crowd of 5,000, mostly French, which saw the double American defeat, was jubilant, for it envisaged French chances of holding the cup would be better against the British challengers than against the United States.

The British team will clash with France's crippled tennis warriors in the challenge round here starting Friday.

An endless greeted Austin's final pelted volley which beat Shields. It was the end of American international tennis hopes for 1931, an end which seemed inevitable as Shields, after a magnificent opening spurt carrying the score to 5-3 against Austin, lost his nut. Shields never appeared to have a chance after that. He had plenty of speed and power, but he never got into the match.

Sets American Invasion.

When it was over fans whooped, cheered and dotted the court with hunting of red carnations hurled from the seats. George Lott, sitting in the seats with John Van Ryn, picked up a newspaper and began to search the steamer lists for a liner home.

America's 1931 invasion of Europe was over. Great Britain's revenge for Wimbledon was complete, for Shields, who withdrew from the Wimbledon singles final so his injured knee will mend, was soundly beaten, while Vines, who holds the Wimbledon title, was beaten both by Austin and Perry.

It was a gusty, rainy afternoon for tennis. A morning downpour soaked the heavy clay court of Roland Garros stadium and showers continued throughout the play, forcing a halt of 45 minutes in the third set of the Perry-Wood match.

The slowness of the playing surface showed somewhat from the effectiveness of the Americans' speed, but the British victory none the less was well earned.

Wood Loses Lead.

Wood opened with a flash against Austin, who didn't return a single in the opening game, but it was a brief lead, for the Englishman broke Austin's service in the third game for a 2-1 advantage. Perry served a love game in lead, 4-3, and again broke the opponent's service in the ninth game for the set.

In the second set, Wood always was fighting from behind as games seesawed to deuce. In the fourteenth game Wood served at set point and then took an 8-7 lead. He lost the point, but won the seventeenth and sixteenth for the set, scoring chiefly on desperate rushes to the net.

Wood attempted to continue the offensive in the third set, but Perry led all through and wound up with a love service game. The fourth and deciding

U. S. Out of Davis Cup Finals First Time Since 1919

NEW YORK, July 19.—(AP)—The elimination of the United States Davis cup team by Great Britain at Paris today will leave America outside the challenge round for the first time since 1919.

It was in 1920 that Big Bill Tilden and Little Bill Johnston traveled to Auckland, N. Z., and won the Davis cup from Australia, 5 matches to 0. America successfully defended the cup the six succeeding years, but finally lost it to France in 1927. It was then the United States has missed the challenge round every year until this one.

The American record for reaching the challenge round annually goes back to 1915, for the campaign of 1919 be ignored. In 1919, with the great war barely over, only six nations participated in the competition and the United States was not one of them. Australia beat Great Britain in the challenge round that year, 4-1.

There was no competition from 1915 to 1918, inclusive, and in 1914 Australasia beat America in the final round. The following year, America had conquered Australia, 5-0. Thus America, in the 12 successive Davis cup campaigns in which it has participated, has won the cup or been beaten in the challenge round.

PUT TEACHOUT TO ROUT; BUSH POOR RESCUER

2 Homers Among 17 Brooklyn Hits.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Arthur (Bud) Teachout couldn't spread his southpaw tricks over more than five innings yesterday and the intermittent Cubs suffered accordingly. During the time mentioned, the one time collegian was good enough to work 23,000 patrons into a fever of expectancy, but then he collapsed. There still was a lingerkopf; so Guy Bush was dashed into action, but he was far worse than his predecessor and the Robins, who, like the Cubs, have their ups and downs, coasted into a 10 to 6 triumph.

JOHN FREDERICK.

No charge of guilt can be filed against the Cubs as hitters. They hammered Hollis Thurston in a style that was refreshing for the batting averages, but the former White Sox always liked to pitch that way. His courts trouble and bears down only when he finds it. That's why the north siders could brew only a half dozen runs from a batch of ingredients made up of fifteen hits, four passes, and two errors. None of these fifteen taps was a homer, whereas the Robins exploded a pair, and that's what made a big difference. Brooklyn collected 17 hits.

Teachout Fades in Sixth.

While Teachout still was in possession of his pitching faculties the argument promised to be another one of those turbulent affairs for which the Cubs are famous. The southpaw in five innings surrendered only two runs, one a homer by Bissonette, but the Cubs had given him three runs as a working margin. All this went to smash in a sixth inning revolt in which Thurston himself took a hand and Frederick completed with a homer. Then Bush took up the burden in the seventh, only to be rocked with five runs, which more than wiped out the value of some tallies picked up late in the game by the Cubs.

The Giants' two setbacks at St. Louis and Brooklyn's victory yesterday put the Robins in second place, 5½ games behind the Cardinals. The third place Giants are a game ahead of the Cubs.

Clark, who has won seven straight but hasn't started against the Cubs this year, may face them today. Uncle Robby's second choice will be Phelps. If Babe Herman, who was idle yesterday because of a twisted ankle, is back on the job Hornsby is likely to feed the Robins more southpaw pitching as cooked up by Lee Sweetland. Next in line is Root.

Jurgus' Triple Starts Scoring.

Jurgus opened the first inning with a triple into the left field corner and that's what started the Cubs on the road to a pair of runs. English bunted and collected a hit for himself by getting to first ahead of Bissonette, who fielded the ball. Jurgus stayed at third while this was taking place and scooted home a moment later on Cuyler's single to center. Frederick fumbled the hit and English went to third and Kiki to second. Wilson grounded out and Hornsby was intentionally passed. Taylor whacked a low liner, which Frederick picked off his shoes, and English scored after the catch.

Bissonette strolled up to start the second, and tested his strength by cutting loose with a long fly which was foul only by inches as it passed the right field flagstaff. He liked the feel of the wallop, so returned to the plate and did it again. This one was

PANTALEO MEETS GRIFFITH TONIGHT AT WHITE CITY

It's for State Title, Says Mr. Malloy.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Tuffy Griffith, born in Sioux City, Ia., and now a Chicagoan by personal election, meets Paul Pantaleo of the South Side Pantaleos tonight in a ten round bout at White City. Mique Malloy, who is bringing the heavyweights together at the site of his former promotional achievements, has announced the winner will be the champion of Illinois.

This title selection is said to have irked Ed Stevenson, manager of Otto Von Porat, and Mrs. Lena Levy, who directs her brother, King Levinsky. But Von Porat has been vacationing in the old country for many months and Levinsky was beaten by Griffith a while back so the case of each claimant seems without conclusive argument.

Griffith Looks the Part.

At that Griffith can be rated the best heavyweight in the central states if one neglects to consider Duluth, Minn., and its Charley Retzlaff. But Retzlaff and Griffith have never been introduced. Their business status is much the same as that of Von Porat and Griffith when Otto was bouncing around Chicago rings with Stevenson calling loudly for a match with Jack O'Keefe's boy.

Von Porat and Griffith, however, have one experience in common, although neither enjoyed it, particularly Von Porat. Each has been whipped by Young Stribling, one time pride of Georgia. Otto took his in a one round knockout and Griffith in ten rounds of sparring. The quotation on each fighter fell several points the night of July 2 when Max Schmeling stopped Stribling for the first time in Young Will's marathon career.

Tuffy Is Favorite.

Griffith, however, is concerned tonight with Pantaleo. Despite the wishful hopes of the south side Italians that Paul will outscrap Tuffy, Griffith must be considered the favorite. This will not prevent Pantaleo from bouncing Griffith on the seat of his pants, if he actually has the ability, but five will get eight it won't be done, not tonight. Malloy is quoted otherwise.

"It will be a close fight," Mique said yesterday at his Randolph street office when he took time from his calculations of how much the gross receipts would be if all seats were sold. But Mique's forecast might have been influenced by the thought that an even steven fight would draw a few more three dollar customers.

Malloy must receive credit for conceiving this match to give Illinois a heavyweight champion. Every state should have a champion.

Both Boys Are Ready.

Mique's second thought, if not paramount to the championship theme, equals it. He plans this bout to popularize professional boxing. Remembering that Jim Mullen with ten rounds of Levinsky and Hudkins popularized fighting only to the extent of $7,000, Malloy has a mark not beyond possibilities.

Griffith and Pantaleo are reported in condition. Paul has been working steadily at his trade while Griffith had a three months' vacation prior to his drill for tonight. But this layoff does not seem prohibitive of best endeavor to a 24 year old boxer who has done his vacationing during the daylight hours. Griffith is one of the exemplary boys of the ring and a vacation for him probably was just a vacation and not an opportunity to toss away the $20,000 purse King Levinsky donated him in his last fight.

Norman Meets Leach.

The other boxers on exhibition tonight have been playing the Chicago ball park circuit all summer. Each has a following and each has a local reputation for willingness and ability. Edgar Norman and Gary Leach will meet in an eight round encounter. Jerry Crano and Jack Moran, middleweights, are scheduled for six rounds.

Joe Corbett, O'Keefe's build up, will swing his right at Pat McLaughlin for six rounds or less. Dick Sisk and Tony Saunders, six rounds, and Buck Everett and Marion Matuszak, in an opening six rounds, complete the card.

Ready to Battle

PAUL PANTALEO.

TUFFY GRIFFITH.

McGraw, Set Down 3 Days, Flays Heydler

St. Louis, Mo., July 19.—(AP)—President John Heydler of the National league and Manager John J. McGraw of the New York Giants engaged in what witnesses described as a "heated verbal encounter" here today.

Notified by telegram this morning that he had been suspended for three days for using abusive language to Umpire Bob Clarke Saturday, McGraw, learning of Heydler's presence in St. Louis, went to Sportsman's park and waited for him near the press gate, just inside the park. When Heydler arrived, witnesses said, McGraw berated him because of his suspension.

"Protests Incompetent Umpire."

McGraw's remarks were plainly audible even above the hubbub of the press gate. The Giants leader accused Heydler of "protecting an incompetent umpire," and cited several previous incidents in which Heydler took the side of the umpire against him. McGraw then left the park, going to his hotel. Heydler said he would take no further action against McGraw.

"The suspension, however, stands," he said. "Just because McGraw is vice president of the New York club as well as its manager is no reason why he can have privileges on the bench. He was suspended because of the abusive language he used on Umpire Clarke."

Protest Decision at First.

McGraw's altercation with Clarke was over a close play at first base. Clarke called out Mel Ott and McGraw protested. The umpire then motioned McGraw to leave the bench, but McGraw would not depart until several minutes later when the plate umpire, Pfirman, told him to go.

Heydler said there was no significance attached to his visit to St. Louis.

MISS HOLM SETS NEW WORLD MARK FOR BACKSTROKE

New York, July 19.—(AP)—Eleanor Holm, star of the Women's Swimming association of New York, bettered the best listed record for the 50 meters backstroke swim here today. She was timed in 37 2-5 seconds, 1 3-5 seconds faster than the 39 seconds record set in 1925 by the late Sybil Bauer.

Helene Madison of Seattle, Wash., who holds 15 of the 16 recognized world's free style marks, failed in an attempt to snare the 16th—that for the 1,000 meters. Miss Madison covered the distance in 14:44 4-5, as compared with the world record of 14:39 2-5 set by Martha Norelius.

MATE GOES EAST WITH TURF TITLE WON IN CLASSIC

Twenty Grand, on Same Train, Looks Worn.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Their spectacular battle in the Classic stakes apparently forgotten, Mate, the new champion among the 3 year olds, and Twenty Grand, his most famous rival, boarded the same train at the Arlington Park race course yesterday morning and steamed away for Saratoga.

They may meet again about the middle of next month in the Travers Midsummer Derby at Saratoga, but the little group of horsemen who congregated to watch them loaded into their two private express cars shook their heads in doubt.

Twenty Grand wasn't walking with his usual dash, nor was the old triumphant sparkle in his eye. While those in charge of him were not alarmed, horsemen agreed that he came out of the race badly tied up. His muscles had undergone contraction and he was a bit stiff in the legs.

Long Siege Takes Toll.

He is beginning to feel the effect of his long siege of training which began last February and he will have to be freshened up before he is at his best again, in the opinion of the horsemen. A number doubted if he could take this much needed rest and then be put back into his best racing condition by the time the Travers is run.

Mate, with his owner, Albert C. Bostwick, bossing the job of getting him on the train, looked every inch a champion as he stepped into his car for the journey east. He came out of the Classic with no sign of a scratch or a bruise. He appeared as if he would be glad if somebody should ask him to run another mile and a quarter in around 2:02 any time.

Owner Bostwick regretted that he had failed to nominate Mate for the $30,000 Arlington cup to be run next Saturday.

"We would most certainly stay over for the Cup if Mate was eligible," Bostwick said. "I think he would win that race against older horses just as easily as he won the Classic. Mate is one of the great race horses of the time."

Others Return to East.

Traveling to Saratoga with Mate and Twenty Grand was St. Brideaux, the stable mate of Twenty Grand which finished last in the Classic. On the same train but routed to the Aqueduct track in New York went Sir Ashley, fourth in the Classic.

Spanish Play, whose brilliant race got him a decision over Twenty Grand, Joey Bibb and Sun Meadow in the Classic field, remained at Arlington. Sun Meadow may try for the Arlington cup on Saturday.

With the big 3 year old race out of the way interest at Arlington will center in two other big events this week—the Matron handicap for fillies and mares, worth about $17,000, to be run on Wednesday afternoon, and the Arlington cup on Saturday.

Sixteen Likely Starters.

There may be as many as 16 starters in the Matron, with the Worthington Farm stable's Con Amore ruling as a favorite. The field shapes up about as follows:

Horse.	Weight.	Horse.	Weight.
Sar Grace	116	Blind Luck	110
Cenda Jo	113	Con Amore	118
Dark Mamie	107	Maid of Honor	92
Martha Jones	101	Michigan Girl	102
Nellie Custis	111	Penny Walker	114
Rock Belle	100	Avenger	107
St. Frisco	105	Sunny Louie	100
Tessy Princess	102	Voltagrace	102
Biagas	102	Valenciennes	110

Several of the candidates for the Matron stakes come together in the Vicksburg purse at seven furlongs, which features the program at Arlington this afternoon.

The Cup on Saturday promises to be one of the great races of the year for older horses. It most likely will be a battle among Gallant Knight, Sun Beau, Questionnaire, and Mike Hall, the big four of American handicap stars this season. Several others will strive for the $30,000 prize.

Mr. Faber's 43 Year Old Arm Shames Young Sox Pitchers

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., July 19.—You'd think the nice, cool weather would compensate for a blue law Sunday in Philadelphia, but the truth is those of the White Sox who stayed in town just sat around second-guessing that first game yesterday, not getting any comfort whatsoever out of the freshening breezes.

RED FABER.

In case you don't know about that first game against the world champions yesterday, we'll tell you briefly that the A's scored two runs in the ninth to tie the score; then, after the Sox had made a run in the eleventh, the champs scored two runs on a walk, a single, and three walks in a row.

Red Faber, who pitched great ball until he retired with one run in the ninth, said it was the toughest loss he could recall in his 17½ years in the American league.

Red Gets Ovation.

When Red went out of the game the 43 year old athlete received the most spontaneous ovation we ever have heard accorded a pitcher, winning or losing, at home or abroad. There were more than 18,000 spectators in the stands and more than 18,000 pairs of hands clapped in a great noise of blended admiration and sympathy. You can't imagine a blasé Philadelphia crowd acting the way those folks did.

The contest was competition as one will see it in the major leagues, and the fans observed it on that basis. The Sox are going nowhere, as baseball language has it, and the A's are going nowhere because, to all practical purposes, they have arrived. So it was a ball game shorn of commercialism. The thrilled spectators were loyal to the home heroes, but they got their kick from seeing a 43 year old out there giving a battle to much younger men—the world champions of the baseball business.

This season, up till two weeks ago, most observers had concluded that at last old Red was all washed up. Then his famed spitball "started working." In the Fourth of July series at St. Louis Red won two games in three days, his first victories of the season. Then the Sox came east and Red held the second place Washington Senators to five hits, four of them infield scratches, to win his third in a row.

Young Fellows Flop.

Red admits that he isn't quite up to nine innings at top speed and it was the fear that he was tiring that caused his withdrawal yesterday. It was thought that men 12 to 21 years his junior, and fresh for duty, might be able to help out a tiring old athlete. The pitiable spectacle presented by these younger men was one of the second guessing topics today.

And while we're talking about old Red, this seems a good time for the periodical statistical reminders anent his prolonged career. Since joining up with the Sox in 1914, Red has worked in almost 3,800 innings. To date he has won 240 games while losing 186. His biggest years were 1915, when he won 24 and lost 13; 1920, when he won 23 and lost 13; 1921, won 25 and lost 15; and 1922, won 21 and lost 17.

The current series with the A's will be resumed tomorrow afternoon and the final will be played Tuesday. In tomorrow's affair Tommy Thomas will seek to make amends for his ludicrous performance in Saturday's heart breaker in which he forced in the tying and winning runs with two bases on balls, an effort in which he was able to throw only one strike to each of two batsmen who were up for a potential third out. He will be opposed by Mahaffey, a young man of courage who has won eight games while losing two.

Jennings Wins 3 Matches in Parks Tennis

George Jennings, national public parks title holder, won three matches yesterday to enter the quarter finals of the Chicago public parks tennis championships on the Hamilton club courts. His victims were Ray Stellar, Carl Becker, and Robert Lemon, who succumbed in straight sets.

Charles Lejeck found unexpected opposition in a pair of junior stars. Max Davidson lost to the home club star in a 7-5, 6-4 battle, and John Shustrum forced Lejeck to three sets before yielding, 6-4, 0-6, 6-4.

George O'Connell moved into the quarter final bracket by defeating William Garner, Donald Thompson, and Louis Streb, all in straight sets. The little Chicagoan will meet his first serious competition Thursday when he engages Scott Rexinger.

Other seeded players, Leo Lejeck and Rexinger, brushed aside less experienced players in their march to higher brackets.

In the resumption of the tourney on Thursday, George Jennings will meet Wade Storer, a former collegiate star, in a battle for a place in the semi-final round in which the winner will meet Leo Lejeck, O'Connell and Rexinger, partners in the doubles, will battle at the same time to decide which will meet Charlie Lejeck in the other semi-final on Saturday. The finals are scheduled for Sunday.

Competition in the doubles is not scheduled until Saturday, when 30 teams will clash for the public parks title and the right to represent the Chicago district in the national meet at Detroit Aug. 17-23.

Bell Beats Barnes for Denver Tennis Trophy

Denver, Colo., July 19.—(AP)—Berkeley Bell of New York, two time Colorado open tennis singles champion, today won his third championship and permanent possession of the Denver Country club trophy by defeating Bruce Barnes of Austin, Tex., 6-4, 3-6, 7-5, 3-6, 6-4.

ENTRY LIST FOR TRIBUNE SWIM OVER 1,400 MARK

Today Is Final Day for Filing Names.

This is the last day for entries in THE TRIBUNE'S 100 yard swim championships, which will be held next Sunday afternoon at the Lincoln Park lagoon. All letters postmarked today will be accepted.

The entry list already has exceeded the 1,400 who competed last year in the first annual championships. Despite the increase—75 per cent of the entries are expected to report for the swimming tests—it will be possible to hold the races in one afternoon. The first preliminaries will start at 1:30. Four hours, at least, will be required for the tests and the championship finals.

Must Report Early.

All contestants must report at the Lincoln Park Boat club between 10 a. m. and 12:30 p. m. for their numbers. Unless the numbers are called for between these hours the swimmers will not be permitted to race.

Fifteen will race in each heat, with the winner qualifying for the championship in each division. Only in class B, for boys 13 and 14 years of age, and in class C, for boys 15 and 16 years of age, will it be necessary to hold semi-finals. In the rest of the ten divisions—five for boys and five for girls—no swimmer will be required to swim the 100 yard course more than twice.

Badge for Each Finisher.

Each swimmer who completes the 100 yard test will receive a merit badge. The presentation of these badges, of course, has increased the number of contestants. From a field of nearly 2,000 only ten can win the gold championship medals, but all are eligible for merit badges. The swimmers finishing second and third in each race will be awarded silver and bronze medals.

Coach Brown of the Jackson Natatorium, 3506 Fillmore street, has entered a team of seventeen in the championships. The Jackson entry is divided between the first three divisions for boys. All the boys are junior lifeguards for the city and are in good standing at the natatorium. Four boys are entered in class A, seven in class B, and six in class C.

Blackhawk Enters Many.

Thirty-seven are entered from Blackhawk park, which has one of the best pools in the city.

Out of Town Stars Enter.

The championships continue to draw from sections far removed from Chicago. Among the out of town entries received yesterday were: Elmer Novak, New Buffalo, Mich.; Bob Tye, a class B swimmer from Fontana, Wis., and Jack Doyle, from Clinton, Ia. Doyle will swim in class C.

This is the last day the entry blank for the races will be printed. If you haven't mailed your entry, don't neglect this last opportunity. Team captains and coaches of playgrounds, parks and pools may make their group entries without reference to the blank, but ages must be given in order to classify the swimmers correctly. The names of all contestants will be printed in next Sunday's TRIBUNE and in the program for the meet.

Bob Shawkey Named Jersey City Manager

Rochester, N. Y., July 19.—(AP)—Bob Shawkey, former major league pitcher and last season manager of the New York Yankees, today was appointed manager of the Jersey City club of the International league. Jersey City yesterday sold Manager George Toporcer to Rochester for cash and two players, James Jordan and Bill Hinchman, the latter delivered from Danville of the Three-Eye league. Shawkey has been a coach with the Jersey City club.

CARDINALS WIN 2 FROM GIANTS BY 2-1 SCORES

Rally in Fourth Decides First Game.

St. Louis, Mo., July 19.—(AP)—The Cardinals nosed out the Giants, 2 to 1, in both games of a double header here today. The Cardinals won the opener on a single by Roettger, a triple by Hafey, an da double by Martin in the fourth inning after Mel Ott had knocked a homer for the visitors.

The first scoring in the second game came in the first of the ninth, when a base on balls and singles by Jackson and Verges gave the Giants a run. Pepper Martin, the first batter for the Cards, doubled, was sacrificed to third by Wilson, and scored on a single by Andy High, pinch hitting for Flowers. Singles by Adams and Orsatti then sent High home with the winning run. Scores:

THE HIGH COST OF FAKING—MATMAN ASKS $150,000

Demetri Demitrof, the giant Russian, pouted through his beard today at George Godfrey, who turned wrestler after Primo Carnera outscowled him. A pal who reads English told Demetri about a newspaper item in which the Leiperville Negro was alleged to have thrown the Russian in Springfield, Mass.

When he learned of this, did Demetri threaten to tear Godfery limb from limb? He did not. Wrestling is big business nowadays.

"I've never been in Springfield in my life," he told the lawyers, as he ordered them to sue Ernest Rosseau, Springfield sports promoter, for $150,000.

"If he wants to use my name he must use me, too—and pay me," Demetri declared.

KLEIN REGAINS BATTING LEAD IN N. L. WITH .358

Chuck Klein, Philly slugger, who has led the National league batting parade with only a few breaks since the season opened, went back into his accustomed place yesterday by making five hits in nine times at bat in a double header with Cincinnati. His average is .358, 9 points higher than that of Harvey Hendrick of the Reds, who went into second place by hitting three out of eight in the same contests. Babe Ruth made two hits in six tries, to take undisputed lead in the American, with an average of .377. The big six:

Senators Win 2d Straight from Tigers

Washington, D. C., July 19.—(AP)—Washington made it two straight from Detroit, Lloyd Brown gaining a 2 to 1 decision over Herring. The Washington southpaw won his game with a single, scoring Hayes.

The Senators bunched three singles and an infield out to put over two runs in the fifth. Brown held Detroit to four hits, an error blocking him from a shutout, while Washington nicked Herring for six. Score:

YANKEES WIN TWO.

New York, July 19.—(AP)—The Yankees trounced the Browns in both ends of today's double header, 10 to 9 and 8 to 2. In the second game Gomez held the Browns to seven hits, while his mates pounded out ten. Lou Gehrig hit his twenty-eighth homer, while Chapman hit one and stole two bases to bring his total to 36.

In the opener the Yanks managed to squeeze out a close one, due to Lou Gehrig's timely hitting. He drove in seven runs, cleaning the bases with a triple, and hitting his twenty-seventh homer with two on, also driving in what proved to be the winning run with a single in the eighth.

The Browns knocked out Weaver in the fourth but Johnson held them till he faltered in the eighth and Pipgras finished. The Yankees sent Hebert and Stiles away early and Kimsey finished. Scores:

Boston, Mass., July 19.—(AP)—The Red Sox made it two straight from the Cleveland Indians by taking today's game, 6 to 5, in twelve innings. Rothrock's single over Averill's head brought Warstler in with the winning run.

The Sox got away to a five run lead in the early innings, but Jack Russell, starting pitcher, was unable to hold it. The Indians scored four runs in the sixth to drive him from the mound. Wiley Moore pitched fine relief ball and his single in the twelfth started the winning rally. Earl Webb made his forty-second double in the first inning to score two runs. Score:

Robins Beat Cubs, 10-6, for Two in a Row

inside the pole, entitling him to a trip around the circuit. This reduced the Cubs' lead by one-half, but they restored their two run advantage in the third. Hornsby and Taylor walked with one out, and after two were gone Hartnett singled to left, Hornsby scoring.

Robins Held to One Run.

Teachout encountered so much difficulty in the fourth that he probably thought luck was with him when he escaped with only one run across. Bressler led off with a single to left and Bissonette fouled to Hornsby. O'Doul slapped a long drive to right. It bounded on top of the screen fence, but instead of going into the seats came back onto the field. The Robins peeped to the umpires about a homer, but they would concede nothing. This left Bressler on third and O'Doul on second. Finn walked, loading the bags, and while English was tossing out Slade, Bressler ran home. Then Lopez was passed, as a part of good strategy, and Thurston flied to center.

For a fleeting moment in the fifth it looked much as if Teachout's slender lead was about to vanish. Frederick fanned. Gilbert singled to right, Bressler flied to center and Bissonette singled to right center. O'Doul banged one back of Teachout, who by stretching up his glove, slowed down the ball so that Jurges could get in front of it and toss to English for a force play at second.

Three Runs for Robins.

The disturbance that wasn't cleared up until after the Robins had rung up three runs in the sixth began when, with one out, Slade caromed a hit off Hornsby's glove. A passed ball let Slade go to second and this spoiled what would have been a double play a moment later on Lopez's bounder to Hornsby. Then Thurston's triple to right center scored Slade, and Thurston counted when Frederick hoisted his homer into the right field bleachers.

Bush managed to retire one man in the seventh before the Robins decided to give him a worth while reception. Bissonette singled to center and O'Doul spanked one to left. Finn selected right as the ideal spot for his hit and Bissonette registered. When Slade and Lopez singled, driving home O'Doul and Finn, Bush said good-by to the party. Warneke walked Thurston and a hit by Frederick scored two more before a double play ended the inning.

The stiff breeze aided the Cubs in the harvesting of a run in the seventh. Wilson walked and Hornsby banged a fly to left. O'Doul failed to allow for the wind, so the ball eluded him for a double, Hack halting at third. He rumbled across the plate while Grimm was being thrown out. Thurston in the ninth Hornsby and Grimm singled and Hartnett rode them home on a double off the left field wall, but two runs didn't mean anything except a delay.

GERMAN DRIVER WINS ON PERILOUS EUROPEAN TRACK

ADENAU, Germany, July 19.—(AP)—Rudolf Caracciola, German pilot, today won the grand prize of Germany for automobiles, run on Thenuerburg ring, most dangerous race track in Europe. The winner covered the approximate 313 miles in four hours 38 minutes 10 seconds.

The Frenchmen, Chiron and Varzi, were second and third and the Italian, Nuvolari, was fourth. The only American competitor, R. Shafer, dropped out after two hours and a half.

Macks' Pitching Additions Strengthen Only Weakness

New York, July 19.—(AP)—If the Philadelphia Athletics ever had a real weakness, it lay in the lack of abundant pitching reserve, and now even that seems to have been fortified to the full extent.

The addition of Waite Hoyt and the splendid work of Leroy Mahaffey and Hank McDonald have rounded out a formidable hurling staff. As matters stand now, the Big Three—Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg—are able to take regular turns, a luxury they have not enjoyed since the A's began winning championships.

Earnshaw and Walberg Lose.

During the past week, for instance, the Mackmen outstripped all big league clubs with a record of nine victories and only two losses, including clean sweeps of three double headers. Yet their three standbys scarcely worked up a sweat. Hoyt and Mahaffey turned in two triumphs apiece, McDonald pitched a three hit masterpiece against Detroit and Rommell was credited with still another. Grove won a pair, running his total to nineteen, and Walbert picked up the other. Earnshaw and Walberg suffered the defeats.

Supplementing their great pitching, the champions scored 73 runs on 120 hits, eleven of which were home runs. They made only eight errors in the 11 contests, compared to 15 charged against their closest rivals, the Senators, in seven tilts.

Browns Second Best.

The Browns, with four victories and two defeats, had the next best American league record. Boston's Red Sox had a dismal time, winning only two out of eight. They scored only 21 runs, an average of less than three per game.

Dan Howley's Cincinnati Reds led in the National league by winning five out of seven against Pittsburgh, Boston and Philadelphia. Red pitchers registered two shutouts and held the opposition to 21 runs, an average of three to the game. The Reds, however, made only 63 hits and 33 runs. Playing in their own park with its distant fences, they did not hit a single home run.

Robins and Giants Split.

Winning four and losing three each, Brooklyn and New York tied for second honors. The leading Cardinals lost a half game of their advantage when they broke even in eight starts. The Phillies were the lone club to fall below .500, winning two and losing seven. Jumbo Jim Elliott scored both victories.

Pittsburgh was the week's heaviest hitting outfit, collecting 101 safeties. It also committed the most errors, 15. The Giants led in home runs, with six.

Following are the records for the last week:

POLO COMMITTEE PLANS BIG CARDS FOR CHICAGO

Argentine Series Spurs Fan Interest.

BY TOM PETTEY.

The international polo matches move on to Detroit this week, leaving Chicago enthusiastic over the game. High goal polo was a financial, social and sporting success during its ten day visit, and yesterday little groups of players and followers of the game congregated about Onwentsia Country club to discuss polo's future in the middle west.

MAJ. MCLAUGHLIN.

"This much is certain," said Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, chairman of the polo committee, "there will be another big polo series next season. It is too late now to plan another high goal match for this year, but Chicago has spoken in approval of the game in the most definite manner—that of buying tickets—and the United States Polo association has pledged itself to work with us in staging another major event here."

Say Bring Pedley Here.

There has been some discussion of a series in which Eric Pedley and the other Pacific coast stars would be matched against Tommy Hitchcock, the highest goal player in the world, and an eastern team of his selection. There have also been talked of bringing the Argentine Cowboys' team, which toured the United States this season, to Chicago next July.

"We have no definite plans yet," said Maj. McLaughlin, "but the other members of the committee, Charles F. Clove and Earle H. Reynolds, are working with me and we intend to see that Chicago remains on the polo map. The series just finished was witnessed by approximately 28,000 persons, and as polo fund of the club will be enjoined by approximately $7,000. The profit from the matches, and we never planned nor expected to make a profit, will go toward buying ponies and trying to get the younger members interested in the game. That is where the future international players will come from, and Chicago is going to develop its share of young players."

Polo Awakens Chicago.

Irving Crangeward on the train after Saturday's match, "Shadow," one of the ticket collectors, patiently explained to the writer why the crowd was large and the receipts at the gate comparatively small.

"We sold 'em tickets," said "Shadow," "to park their cars and for $55 they could bring a carload. I call a carload five persons. Well, I went out collecting at the game and, fellow, there were twelve people in some of the cars. They just trained their glasses on me and looked through me when I tried to collect cash from all over five in the automobiles. Fellow, they have Scotch pockets these days."

Capt. Wesley J. White, umpire at the matches and an internationally known polo authority, said the series between Santa Paula and Old Aiken of the victory by the United States "has done a lot to awaken interest in polo in Chicago.

Chicago Field Among Best.

Jesse Conley, who played with the Old Aiken team Saturday and who is well known wherever the game is played, told friends after the match that Chicago should be a major sport in Chicago. Before leaving for New York last week Louis E. Stoddard, chairman of the United States Polo association, expressed his pleasure at the progress of the game and the interest displayed in the matches.

Chicago has splendid polo fields. The field at Onwentsia ranks with the best. It is more than thirty years old, its turf almost perfect, being lush and springy. It is not level, but the rolling fields are favored by most players. The International field at Meadow Brook, L. I., is one of the finest polo fields in the world. In fact all of the championship fields are built like the one at Onwentsia.

Polo Argentine Ponies.

The Argentine ponies left for Detroit last night. Part of the Old Aiken string will follow. Two of the Old Aiken players, James P. Mills and Joseph C. Rathborne, will go to Detroit Wednesday, where they will be joined by Harold Talbert, an eight goal player, and Earle Hopping Jr., an eight goal man.

The Santa Paula team will leave Tuesday or Wednesday. Juan Reynolds said yesterday several of his team mates planned to fly to Detroit, but that he was going to take the train.

The Detroit series will begin Sunday, July 26. The second game will be played Wednesday, Aug. 5, and if a third game is necessary, it will be played on Sunday, Aug. 9. Four clubs, the Aiken and Hunt, Groose Pointe Meadowfield and Metormara, are competing these matches.

Forty-three on Hawthorne Handicap List

Nominations for the $25,000 added Hawthorne handicap, to be run Aug. 8, were announced yesterday. Forty-three of the country's leading thoroughbreds have been named. The distance this year has been increased from a mile and a sixteenth to a mile and an eighth. The race is for 3 year olds and up.

Sun Beau is coming back to the scene of a pair of his greatest triumphs, the Gold cup races of 1929 and 1930, while Gallant Knight, which first began to make turf history at Hawthorne as a 2 year old, also is entered.

A pair of Preakness winners, Mate, which also copped the American Derby and Arlington Classic this year, and Dr. Freeland, are among those named, while Mike Hall, the R. M. Eastman star, will be found among thosoe striving for the gold and glory that goes to the handicap winner. Plucky Play, surprise victor in the Stars and Stripes at Arlington, also will have something to say in this race, as will Tannery, Lightning Bolt, The Nut, and others. The nominations:

set went the same way, the Englishman running out from 2 all.

While Wood's defeat was a disappointment to American supporters it was not considered serious, as Shields took the court against Austin and jumped into a 5-2 lead.

In the eighth game, however, Shields suddenly changed his tactics, shut off steam and on the softer, more delicate play, Austin found his stride and, beginning with a love game, grabbed three straight to carry the score to deuce. Shields struck an erratic streak, netting and overhitting repeatedly. From 6 all, Austin scored another love game and then Shields, at a critical moment, double faulted on set point, to give the Englishman the set at 8-6.

Austin was playing far finer tennis than he showed against Shields at Wimbledon, and he continued it. Shields broke through Austin's service in the opening game of the second set, but it was the only time he led. Even his backhand and forehand drives down the line were going astray, and Austin finished off the second set at 6-3 with a clean cross court volley.

Playing with extreme caution, Shields again took the opening game of the third set and led at 2-1, 4-2, and 5-4. With games at 5 all, Shields had given everything he had and he lost the advantage game on service. He seemed to be able to do nothing right, particularly with ground strokes, while Austin was handling the American's smashes without difficulty. Austin won the twelfth game, set and match on his own service.

TILDEN SURPRISED

Washingto, D. C., July 19.—(AP)—England's defeat of the youthful United States Davis cup team today surprised America's two veterans of international amateur tennis play, William T. Tilden III. and Fank Hunter.

Tilden, who with Hunter recently turned professional and now is professional champion, was almost incredulous upon being told Frank X. Shields and Sidney B. Wood had been beaten.

"I had recognized a distinct possibility that the English might win, but I thought the match was safe after we won the doubles yesterday," Tilden said. Fred Perry's win over Wood surprised him.

American Chess Team Wins from Norway, 4-0

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, July 19.—(AP)—The United States team defeated Norway today in the eleventh round of the international chess tourney. The score was 4-0. Isaac I. Kashdan, Frank J. Marshall, Arthur W. Dake and Herman Steiner were the winners against Christoffersen, Hanssen, Halvorsen and Hovind, respectively. The United States total went up to 26, ahead of their three chief rivals.

Pueblo Outfielder Balks at Trade; Deal Is Canceled

Omaha, Neb., July 19.—(AP)—Ernest Koob, Pueblo Western league outfielder, last night ruined a trade consummated between the Puddlers and Packers by flatly refusing to report to the Packers. Managers Smallwood of Pueblo and Griffin of Omaha had arranged the trade of Neitzke for Allington, Koob, and Faber, second baseman. Griffin handed Allington his outright release and Smallwood promptly signed him.

Bloomington to Hold Central Illinois Net Meet

Bloomington, Ill., July 19.—[Special.]—Bloomington will be the mecca for amateur tennis players of the area Aug. 10, 11, and 12, when the Central Illinois tennis tournament is staged for the courts here. The Bloomington district tourney will be held Aug. 3, 4, and 5, and is open to players in nearby counties.

100 Open Play in Public Links Tourney Today

A wide range of golf activity is scheduled for Chicago and its environs this week, giving ample opportunity for tournament players to exercise their talent on both public and private courses.

Two major public links events for men and women get under way today. The fourth annual public links amateur championship starting at Lincoln park this morning will attract a field of 100 of Chicago's leading golfers. The tourney will continue during the week, with finals Saturday.

Cook County Women's Meet.

Cog Hill today will be the scene of the qualifying round of the women's Cook county open championship. Two flights of 32 each will be selected for match play which starts tomorrow. Mrs. Lillian Zech, who last year won her third title in this event, has elected to attend the matches this year only as a spectator.

A representative field, however, will strive for the title. Among the entrants are Mrs. Rose Marshall, recently winner of the city public parks championship, and Mrs. Daniel Meany, runner-up. The tournament is sponsored by the Women's Jackson Park Golf club.

Police Golfers Clash.

Chicago's golfing policemen will walk a beat over the fairways of the Olympic Golf club at Wheeling today in the annual policemen's golf tournament. Several hundred will compete for the trophy offered by Mayor Cermak.

Another event on today's golf calendar which will attract younger golfers is the junior team matches at the Evanston Golf club. The tournament is sponsored by the Chicago District Golf association. The qualifying round will be held today, with match play starting tomorrow.

Invitation Tourneys.

Several invitational tournaments will be held during the week. Bob o' Links annual Hullabaloo will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, while the Elmhurst Blowout is scheduled for Wednesday.

The Hamilton club will hold its annual golf outing at Elmhurst Thursday. On the same day the Prosperity club will stage its July tournament at Elgin. A three day best ball championship open to all golfers of the district will get under way at Mid-City Thursday.

The fifth Chicago District Golf Association handicap event will be played over one of the Olympic Fields courses Wednesday. The only eligibility requirement is possession of a Chicago District Golf association handicap card. A field of over 100 golfers is expected.

GOLF WITH CHICAGO GOLFERS

LLOYD JOHNSTON, home pro, and Wallie Chamberlain of Westward-Ho, defeated Joe Paletti of Olympic, and Terry McGovern of Columbia, 4—3, in an exhibition match at Mission Hills yesterday. Johnston shot a 68, four under par, and Chamberlain had a 75 for the eighteen holes. McGovern and Paletti both had 74s.

In semi-finals of the Sports and Pastimes Trophy play, E. E. Cannor defeated C. M. Burlingame, 5—3, and P. F. McCall defeated F. J. Gagen, 2—1. Cannor and McCall will meet next week. In the Ball Sweepstakes for class A, C. H. Hurtt scored his best round, a 73—5—68, for first place. E. E. Cannor was second with 86—9—77. In class B, R. V. McCroskey had 95—24—74, and in class C, Dr. E. A. Courversier had 103—26—77. Robert L. Ripley and T. D. Scarff tied for blind bogey with net scores of 84.

BRYN MAWR.

Gus Rosenau placed his flag just short of the 19th green in the Flag tournament. In an event for low net over five newly altered holes, E. B. Phillipson and J. Menfield tied with 18. H. A. Ruby and Mrs. Henry Friedman with a net of 149 won the mixed foursome twilight tourney.

WALL EYED PIKE IS FOUND EATER OF SMALL FISHES

Keeps Wolf from Door by Consuming Minnows.

BY BOB BECKER.

If the wall-eyed pike in a certain lake have sunfish, perch, and other small fishes as neighbors and the latter disappear while the wall-eyes flourish, the puzzled angler need only come to Illinois to find out why.

In a recent survey of Illinois game fish and their food habits a good sized pike perch was examined in order to learn about its food preferences.

From the stomach of this specimen ten small hickory shad were taken, thus giving the deep browed scientist a hot clew as to what and how much a wall-eye eats and also what a killer he is.

Pity the Finny Tribes.

From this evidence consisting of ten hickory shad the scientists deduce the fact that the old wall-eye is essentially a minnow eater and pity the finny tribes of any lake when he starts hunting. It's all right if the lake has lots of small nongame fish minnows, such as the shad in Illinois waters. But lacking these other minnows the pike perch must raid the ranks of bass, sunfish, perch, crappies, etc.

A single average sized wall-eye must have 600 small fishes per year in order to keep the wolf from his door and develop as he should. Reckoning the average life of a pike at three years, it is evident that a single fish must have between 1,800 and 2,000 small fish for its maintenance. Carrying this a little farther, we can get a better picture of what a wall-eye does to his underwater lunch counter.

Lakes Need Food Fishes.

Any average Wisconsin lake is not strained very much if fishermen take 100 pike a year from it. As a matter of fact 125 or 150 a year would be more like it. When the 100 have been landed and packed for shipment the residents on that lake can ponder over the fact that 180,000 to 300,000 small fish were gobbled up to produce those 100 adult game fish for the fishermen. This requirement emphasizes how important it is that lakes be stocked with food fishes like the hickory shad.

Here in Illinois there is no fish in our waters which is able to meet the demands of the wall-eyes except the obliging little shad, so abundant in the food of the wall-eye, unless the common carp will serve to provide meals for them.

HURRICANES BEAT RAMBLERS, 9 TO 8, IN EXTRA PERIOD

James Hannah's goal in an overtime period gave the Hinsdale Hurricanes a 9 to 8 victory over the Oak Brook Ramblers at the Oak Brook Polo club yesterday. The game was marked by the long hitting of Tex Crites, Paul Butler and Barney Balding.

Capt. Stockton of Hinsdale finished the game although he received a painful injury above the eye in the third chukker.

The Hurricanes, with a three goal handicap, led 5 to 1, after four chukkers, but the Ramblers tied the score as the eighth period ended. After five minutes' rest the team resumed the battle and Hannah shot the winning goal. Lineup:

ARCTIC TOURISTS START ON VOYAGE OF EXPLORATION

Also Have Icy Rendezvous with Zeppelin.

ARCHANGEL, U. S. S. R., July 19.—(AP)—Bound for a voyage of arctic exploration and a rendezvous with the dirigible Graf Zeppelin near "the top of the world," the soviet ice breaker Maligin was under way today, carrying three Americans and a group of Russian scientists and newspaper men.

Also aboard the ship, which sailed last night, was Gen. Umberto Nobile, Italian explorer, who will seek traces of the missing section of his wrecked dirigible Italia and the fate of his six missing comrades on the disastrous expedition of three years ago.

Mrs. Emma B. Dresser of New York; her son, Don L. R. Dresser, Detroit engineer, and Mrs. Elizabeth Patterson of New York comprised the American contingent and were the only other foreigners aboard. They will make the voyage as tourists.

Will Meet Graf Zeppelin.

The Maligin expects to establish contact with the Graf Zeppelin late in July or early in August in the region of Franz Josef Land, where mail is to be exchanged and the passengers are to visit back and forth by means of pontoons permitting the dirigible to alight on the water. More than a month will be spent in the far north, which at this season has perpetual daylight.

While it is primarily a scientific expedition for the study of meteorological conditions, the ice drift and ocean soundings, facilities have been provided for those wishing to hunt polar bear, seal and walrus.

Gen. Nobile is convinced that none of his missing comrades on the Italia survived, but he believes there is a chance that part of the missing portion of the dirigible's wreckage and even traces of the fate of the missing members of the crew may be found along the island shores of the waters east of Spitsbergen.

May Discover New Territory.

A possibility is seen that new territory may be discovered, for the Maligin's route takes her into hitherto unexplored waters. Through the White sea, Barent's sea and the Arctic ocean, the ice breaker will go to Hooker's island on the western edge of Franz Josef archipelago, where the soviet union maintains the farthest north meteorological station. The station's personnel includes Madame Demme, wife of the director, who has spent more than a year in this isolated region.

From Hooker's island, the route includes Cape Flora, noted for its birds' bazaar, Queen Victoria's land at the northern tip of the archipelago and Crown Prince Rudolf's island.

Early in August the ice breaker will swing southward to Novaya Zemlya and Kolguev island, ending her voyage at Archangel about Aug. 25.

Noble Rescuer in Command.

Prof. U. V. Vise, explorer and scientist, who commanded the Maligin when she went with her sister ship, the Krassin, to the rescue of Nobile, heads the present expedition, which is sponsored by the Archangel Institute for Arctic Studies.

The vessel of 1,900 gross tons, 243 feet long with a 41 foot beam, carries a crew of 50.

CASUAL CHAT OF EXPERTS BRINGS X-RAY DISCOVERY

Ends Costly Breaking of Tubes.

State College, Pa., July 19.—(AP)—Pennsylvania State college has a new pattern X-ray tube which has operated 11,000 hours and still shows no sign of burning out.

This tube appears to solve one of the vexing problems of scientists who delve into the structure of matter—the short life of expensive X-ray tubes due to burning out. Heretofore 450 hours has been considered a long life for an X-ray tube.

Discovery of the long life principle was an unexpected result of a conversation between two scientists talking on technical subjects as casually as two persons discussing the weather.

Has Studied Electrons.

Dr. W. R. Ham, professor of physics, was describing his experiments in relativity, a purely scientific study of no particular practical value. One phase of this research necessitated a study of electrons in an X-ray tube, to learn what they do and where they go.

Electrons are part of the current which streams out from the cathode in the tube, jumps a short distance, and strikes a "target," a piece of metal, where the impact produces X-rays. The electrons spatter like the spray of a hose stream hitting a wall.

The other party to the discussion, Dr. Wheeler P. Davey, professor of physical chemistry, was using X-ray tubes to investigate the structure of atoms in crystals. He related his annoyances in having valuable tubes cracked and ruined because of the heat that developed while in use.

Gives Rise to Idea.

Dr. Ham told how he found the electrons continually battering the glass walls of the tube. This remark gave Dr. Davey the idea for the new tube. In the electronic bombardment he saw the cause of the heating, and consequent cracking of the glass. Geting rid of this electron spatter produced the long life tube.

Dr. Davey moved the target closer to the cathode, the source of the electron stream. He placed it one-eighth of an inch distant instead of the usual one and one-quarter inches.

In the short distance of one-eighth of an inch, the electrical field is sufficiently intense to hold the electrons within its confines. At longer distances the field does not imprison them so well.

Youth Loses Hold on Boat and Is Drowned

Harold Mueller, 18 years old, 4506 North Artesian avenue, was drowned yesterday in Gray's lake, near Libertyville. He and another youth, neither of whom could swim, were clinging to the side of a boat which had been rowed out into the lake by another member of their party. Mueller lost his hold and sank while the rower was swimming some distance from him.

Farmer Killed Going to Aid of Son in Runaway

Kewanee, Ill., July 19.—[Special.]—Going to the aid of his son in a runaway at his farm here today cost the life of Carl Berg, Kawanee farmer. His son, Marshall, was driving a binder when the four mules became frightened and ran away. Berg rushed to his rescue and was crushed beneath the binder.

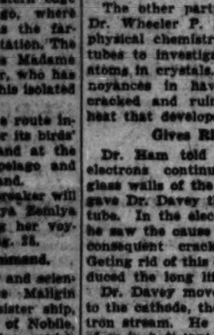
W. G. TWITTY, BOARD OF TRADE VETERAN, DEAD



WALTER G. TWITTY

Walter G. Twitty, oldest active operator on the Chicago Board of Trade, died yesterday in his apartment, 5555 Sheridan road. He was 73 years old and had been a grain trader for 56 years.

Despite his advanced age, Mr. Twitty was on duty as usual last Friday and was trading briskly when the gong rang to cease business at 1:15 p. m. Thereafter he complained a little of the heat and suffered what appeared to be a heart attack.

He went home and there, on Friday night, suffered a second attack, from which he did not rally. Death came in the early morning hours yesterday.

Born in Syracure, N. Y., Mr. Twitty was brought to Chicago as a child. In 1875, the year he joined the board of trade, he married Emma Wynn. She, a son, Edward Twitty, and two daughters, Mrs. Florence Rugee of Milwaukee and Mrs. William W. Holmes of San Francisco, survive.

The funeral will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow at the Twitty apartment. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

W. H. Haegele, Founder of Ice Company, Dies

William H. Haegele, founder and head of the Haegele Ice company, died yesterday at his home in Twin Lakes, Wis. He was 84 years old, and a native of Chicago. About thirty-five years ago he formed his ice company, which served north side areas. Recently Mr. Haegele moved from Chicago to Wisconsin. He is survived by his widow, Martha; one child, Myra, daughter of his first wife; a sister, Mrs. Louise Kircher, and two brothers, Henry and Charles Haegele. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at the Montrose cemetery chapel under auspices of Humboldt Park commandery, Knights Templar.

Boy Leaps Into Lake for Lost Oar and Is Drowned

His attempt to retrieve a lost oar cost the life, late yesterday, of Roy Cook, 14 years odl, of 1306 Argyle street. He was drowned in the lake a half mile off Berwyn avenue. Roy and his chum, Marshall Pruim, also 14, of 1247 Argyle street, were rowing in a small boat when one of the oars was lost, and Roy leaped into the water after it. He sank and Marshall dived after him, but failed to find him. Coast guards under Chief Mate Carl Howell were called to search for Roy's body.

Despondent Girl Found Dead with Arm Slashed

Her right arm slashed several times with a razor blade, Miss Jean Giomi, 26 years old, was found dead late yesterday in her room at 1300 North Dearborn street. Dr. John L. Reichart, 1650 Chase avenue, her brother-in-law, who found the body, told police Miss Giomi had been despondent over ill health. A bottle containing iodine was found in Miss Giomi's room, and the coroner's office will conduct an examination to determine if she swallowed any of it.

Mrs. Friederike Ott Dies at 90; Came to U. S. in '63

Mrs. Friederike Ott, 90 years old, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Bertha C. Schultz, 2035 West 110th place. She was born in Prussia, and came to the United States in 1863 with her parents, who bought a farm, near Blue Island. Her mother, Mrs. Fredericke Hock, was 101 years old when she died in 1918. Funeral services for Mrs. Ott will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow from her daughter's home, with burial in Waldheim cemetery.

KIDNAPED AND ROBBED.

Gaspar Litoti, 1321 North Mansfield avenue, was robbed of $15, and Joseph Rice, 605 North Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, of $5 by two bandits who kidnaped them in Litoti's car early yesterday.

YOUTH FATALLY SHOT IN STREET; NAMES GUNMAN

Ralph Fanara, 20 years old, of Specialville was shot and mortally wounded yesterday afternoon in the sight of street crowds at Milton avenue and Hobbie street, two blocks away from "Death Corner." Before dying he named his assailant as Bennie Leonard, a resident of the vicinity who is known to the police.

The shooting was reported to the Chicago avenue police but when they arrived they could find no witnesses who would talk. No one would admit having seen anything. Sam Greco, 247 West 23d street, took the wounded man to the Henrotin hospital, but he said he had not seen the shooting; that he was driving by a few minutes later and took Fanara into his car. Sergt. John Onthank hastened to the hospital and took a statement from Fanara just before he died. Fanara said he and Leonard had quarreled over the latter's sister. Fanara had been visiting his brother-in-law, Charles Radosta, at 1127 Milton avenue.

WOMAN STRICKEN; DIES.

Mrs. Katherine Bachr, 73 years old, of Columbus, O., was stricken with an attack of nephritis while on a motor tour to Chicago and died yesterday in the apartment hotel at 2136 Lincoln Park West.

TWO KILLED WHEN AIRPLANE CRASHES AFTER TAKING OFF

Parsons, Kas., July 19.—(AP)—Fred C. Campbell, 26, of Coffeyville, Kas., and James McCoy, 20 year old Parsons farm boy, were killed today when an airplane piloted by Campbell crashed from 300 feet soon after taking off at the Parsons airport.

Detroit, Mich., July 19.—(AP)—Maj. Louis G. Meister, 40, of Dearborn, Mich., test pilot for the Verville Aircraft corporation and a former army aviator, was killed today when he apparently was unable to bring a new plane he was testing out of a spin.

He leaped with a parachute at an altitude of about 1,000 feet, but pulled the rip cord too late to save his life.

Picnicker Is Drowned in Des Plaines River

Simon Bacus, 24 years old, 904 Roscoe street, owner of a cleaning and dyeing shop, was drowned yesterday in the Desplaines river at dam No. 2, near Des Plaines. His companions in a picnic party recovered his body. It was believed he suffered a heart attack while swimming.

2 Indiana Girls Drown in Vain Effort to Save Sister

Noblesville, Ind., July 19.—[Special.]—Three sisters, Mary, 10; Ada, 14, and Helen, 17, daughters of Norman Fesmire, a dairy worker, were drowned this afternoon in a gravel pit northwest of here. They were drowned when Mary ventured to a place where the water was over her head and sank. The other two girls died in an effort to rescue her. A brother, Harold, 12, was also swimming in the pit, but was unable to save his sisters.

Hedrick, Former Sanitary Inspector Here, Is Dead

Los Angeles, Cal., July 19.—[Special.]—Perry Lee Hedrick, former chief sanitary inspector for Chicago, and in recent years well known in Los Angeles and Imperial Valley, Cal., as engineer and contractor, died suddenly yesterday. He was 58 years of age.

DEATH NOTICES

In Memoriam.

EPSTEIN—Lena Epstein. In memory of our darling wife and mother, who passed away one year ago.
LOUIS EPSTEIN, BERTHA, ABE, DORA, ETTA, LIBBIE, AND JENNIE.

NEWBERRY—In loving memory of Walter C. Newberry, who died on July 20, 1930.

ZISOOK—Bessie Zisook. In fond and loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away July 20, 1927.
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But little do they know the grief that within our hearts is sealed;
Mother, dear, we are lonely, and though you're not beside us,
We know you'll always guide us.
We miss your beautiful and loving face,
but you left us to remember
That none on earth can take your place.
DAUGHTER AND SONS.

LOWEST PRICES OF YEARS FOUND IN GRAIN PITS

Big Crop Harvested in Southwest.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Lowest prices for all grains in years were made in Chicago and practically all markets last week. In fact, prices throughout the world averaged lower, while there is little reason to believe they will go to levels where trade buying may be expected. Many say it is now dangerous to follow the short side, while at the same time they admit that there is little prospect of a material upturn in the immediate future.

Harvesting of winter wheat is about finished, with the largest yields in the northwest and middle west in recent years. Quality is high and few millers or cash traders have had such good winter wheat as this year. It is unusually high in protein in Oklahoma and Texas, ranging from 14 to 17 per cent, while in Kansas it is 10 to 13 per cent and in the middle west about 12 to possibly a little better than in Kansas, all depending upon growing conditions at time of harvest.

Southwestern farmers raised 100,000,000 more winter wheat this year than in 1930 and are estimated to have sold this excess in the past seven days. Those Kansas, Texas, and Oklahoma farmers even now have more wheat on hand than in an average year. They are now, however, said to be less disposed to sell, and reports from the railroads indicate that the peak of the movement has been reached and from now on there will be no pronounced rush unless prices are materially advanced. The peak movement in the southwest is usually reached about the middle of July, as farmers get enough money to carry them along for a time and market their surplus in a more orderly way.

Prices Too Low.

In the middle west, farmers are dissatisfied with the low prices and at the close of the week there were reports of lighter offerings for the time being at least. An indication of the selling is seen in week's receipts of 20,617 cars at leading southwestern points, compared with 27,353 cars the previous week. In all it is estimated that about 200,000,000 bu have been marketed in the southwest in the past thirty days. Millers have taken millions of bushels of wheat and made large stocks of flour as consumers are taking advantage of low prices to load up.

Speculators who have been short have largely reduced their commitments and gave the market support, but the surge on futures in Chicago was only for a day for the week, and the close was unchanged to ⅛c higher as compared with a week ago. July closed at 62⅝@63⅛c, September 53½@53⅝c, December 58@57⅝c. Winnipeg December finished at 61¼@61⅜c, a gain of ⅝c for the week. Liverpool continued out of line as compared with Chicago, and until this situation is changed traders do not look for a real healthy situation.

Russia is estimated to have charter shipments for about 40,000,000 bu of wheat.

The farm board has brought millions of bushels of wheat to Chicago of late and moved it out through eastern lake ports, with 1,000,000 bu now under charter to Buffalo, Toledo, and other lake points. It is doing a large commission business and is said to be handling more cash wheat than any other interest in the trade. Prices for the week follow:

	July.	September.	December.
Mon.	61⅞	61⅛-.59⅝	58⅝-.57
Tues.	62⅛	61⅛-.59	58⅛-.57⅝
Wed.	61⅝	61⅛-.59⅛	58⅝-.57⅞
Thurs.	62⅛	60⅜-.54⅛	57⅞-.56⅝
Fri.	62⅝	59⅝-.54⅛	57⅞-.56⅝
Sat.	62	59⅝-.54	57⅝-.56⅜
Week	62⅝-.61⅝	61⅛-.54⅛	58⅝-.56⅜
Year ago	1.06-1.03	1.06-.99⅝	1.03⅛-.97⅝
1930-31	1.36-.62	1.36-1.51⅛	1.41-1.57
1929-30	1.49⅝-.82	1.49⅝-.75⅛	1.45⅝-.69

Bd. of Trade Votes Soon on Member Rule

The right of corporations to become members of the Chicago Board of Trade Clearing house will come up for a popular vote on Thursday, July 23. The idea is to place the Board of Trade on the same basis as the New York Stock exchange, which for a half century or more has barred corporations from becoming members, because in case of failure the liability of officers and stockholders would be limited, whereas in a partnership all members of a firm are liable for the company's debts.

The proposed rule denies the privilege of membership in the clearing house to any corporation which was not clearing on April 2, 1929, or to legal heirs of said stockholders.

Feature of Situation.

The feature of the situation centers in the recent purchase of a controlling interest of the Updike Grain company of Chicago by the Farmers National Grain company, a subsidiary of the federal farm board. The Farmers National Grain company is the largest grain cash handler in the country and does a large commission business in buying and selling futures to hedge its grain. It needed protection and ability to clear its trades and bought the Updike Grain company with headquarters at Chicago, and branches at St. Louis, Omaha, and a number of western points. It has come into competition with other commission houses who are understood to have lost business.

The farmers national has distributed a large part of its trading among different brokerage houses, the Updike Grain company getting the greatest share.

George S. Milnor, president of the Grain Stabilization corporation, is a member of the Chicago Board of Trade, and the farmers national also has a number of other memberships.

Attitudes Differ.

Those who have lost business are bitter against the farm board's company. At the same time there are many members who favor a continuation of the present plans for membership in the clearing house and are working against the proposed change.

Board of Trade directors have fully considered the situation and recently appointed a committee composed of Joseph P. Griffin, T. E. Cunningham, and James A. White to make an investigation and report. The committee has not rendered its decision as it intends to make a thorough investigation which it expects will require several weeks.

EDWARD MEHREN IS NEW PRESIDENT OF CEMENT ASS'N

The appointment of Edward J. Mehren of Chicago as president of the Portland cement association has been announced by Frank H. Smith, chairman of the board of directors of the association and banking commissioner of New Jersey.

EDWARD J. MEHREN.

Mr. Mehren was for ten years editor of Engineering Record, later Engineering News-Record. He afterwards became vice president and editorial director of the McGraw-Hill Publishing company, and latterly has been in charge of the company's activities in the middle west, with headquarters at Chicago. Besides being an engineer of national repute he is known as a publicist and an authority on industrial subjects. He is a graduate of Loyola university, Chicago, and of the University of Illinois.

The selection of Mr. Mehren establishes two precedents. It marks the first time that a man outside the cement industry has been designated to head the association, which comprises the majority of producing companies. Mr. Mehren will also be the first president to devote his entire time to this work.

TRADE VOLUME HOLDS UP WELL, REPORTS SHOW

Recovery Rests on Confidence.

New York, July 19.—(AP)—While the business outlook has been largely obscured by the week's financial crisis in Europe, actual volume of trade has been well maintained.

Retail trade has in past week tended to resist the enervating influences of midsummer, and most reports indicated that the volume equals that of a year ago. The shoe and textile industries continue to give a good account of cotton fabrics.

There comes a time in periods of depression when the purchasing of essential consumers goods, such as shoes and wearing apparel, cannot be longer deferred. A normal working of economic forces would suggest that buying of these essentials would represent the beginnings of a sequence of stimuli gradually working through the entire economic structure.

View of Moody's Service.

The progress of improvement naturally depends upon how thoroughly the job of deflation has been done. In point of time, certainly, the deflation has run far enough, if past experience may be used as a guide. Moody's Service expresses a view widely held in important financial and industrial quarters when it says, "So far as the United States is concerned . . . a recovery could start almost any week now, provided there were no serious obstacles in the way of completely restoring confidence." This service believes that a recovery sustained for a year would bring us back to normal.

Restoration of confidence progressed by leaps and bounds on announcement of President Hoover's war debt plan, but has lost much of its progress since it became apparent that the plan was too late to save central Europe from a serious crisis. Thus far, the European crisis has probably caused more confusion than discouragement in this country. Its ultimate effects upon business confidence may be expected to depend upon its duration.

Foreign Trade Sags.

Our foreign trade has already fallen back to the levels of 1914, and it has become the habit in recent months to plan for domestic recovery without much help of foreign markets. Such products as cotton and copper, however, might remain long depressed by any protracted state of economic chaos in central Europe.

The impairment of confidence by the turn taken by European affairs has been reflected in a fresh decline in commodity prices, the sharpest since stability began to appear early in June. Foodstuffs have been most prominent in the downturn, with nonferrous metals and chemicals conspicuous. Hides and leather, on the other hand, have shown further strength, and the wool market has been well sustained, with textile prices generally holding up well.

Wheat has remained one of the sore spots of the commodities. July wheat broke to a new low in the history of the Chicago market last week, coming within a fraction of a half dollar a bushel. The prospect that the low price may finally result in a sharp curtailment of planting seems to be about the only hopeful aspect of the situation.

Electrical Output Rises.

One of the most pleasing statistical exhibits of the week was the report of electric power consumption for the week ended July 11, showing a gain of 3-10 of one per cent over the like week of last year. This is the first time this year that these reports have shown a gain over 1930. A factor to be considered, however, is that the report includes some figures which are for the preceding week in each year which was the Fourth of July week. Last year the holiday came on Friday, so plants shut down for a three day week-end, while it came on Saturday this year, making a two day shutdown.

Freight car loadings as reported for the week ended July 4 showed somewhat less than the expected decline for the holiday week. The weekly steel reviews failed to report important change, with production holding close to 30 per cent of capacity.

Bond Trading Dominated by Berlin Finance Tangle

New York, July 19.—(AP)—As in other financial markets, trading in bonds was dominated last week largely by the financial situation in Germany.

Sharp gains in foreign issues toward the close of the week were not sufficient to wipe out all the losses scored in the first few days when the uncertainties of the situation exerted their greatest influence. This concern, which did not disappear by the end of the period, was at least pressing them.

Aside from political considerations and the lack of unanimity of the banking community on the best means of aiding Germany, conditions of the bond market alone were such as to make any loan necessitating a public offering unlikely. There is general agreement that one of the complications in the situation is the large volume of outstanding German credits.

Feel Pressure Most.

German obligations, of course, reflected the pressure more than others. The 5½s of 1965 of the national government and the 7s of 1949 served as pacemakers for other bonds of that nation. The ramifications of the situation are so great that their influence was more or less apparent in all foreign issues.

The announcement of a moratorium on Chilean obligations on Thursday accompanied a sharp slump in these issues, part of which was recovered subsequently.

United States government loans wavered back and forth without appreciable changes. Domestic corporate loans acted similarly. The average price of the representative rail loans closed at 100.3, compared with 101 a week earlier, but the difference in the comparative figures for public utility and industrial issues was smaller.

However, high grade corporate bonds continued to reflect a fairly steady demand. The plans for the early offering of issues of the Cincinnati Union Terminal and of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western indicate that the bankers are confident of the market for bonds of such high standing.

Plight of Rail Bonds.

The plight of railroad bonds in a general way appears from a survey by Moody's Investors Service, which says that thirteen of the largest carriers are likely to be removed from the list of railroads whose obligations are legal investments in New York state at the end of this year unless some change is made in the existing law. The survey further points out that the position of eight other railroads is doubtful.

"These results are indicated by poor earnings for the first six months of the current year as well as probable similar low earnings for the remainder of the year and by the slim margins by which various companies covered fixed charges one and one-half times in 1930," the survey point out.

Offerings during the week totaled $47,792,000. Aside from $15,000,000 of 4 per cent bonds of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, these issues were principally small flotations.

WILL REPORT ON STONY ISLAND BANK JULY 27

The depositors' committee of the Stony Island Trust and Savings bank, which closed June 9, will present a report on their investigation of the bank's condition Monday evening, July 27, at the Southmoor hotel. Dr. E. Byron Kelly, secretary of the committee, made the following statement yesterday:

"In an open letter to depositors, which will soon be distributed by the merchants in the Stony Island district, notice is given that admittance to this meeting can only be had by depositor's card. The depositor's card will be issued to any depositor who presents his or her pass book and a filing slip with name and address. Cards may be obtained at the various business houses in the vicinity any time after Wednesday, July 22.

"The committee has made a careful survey, not only of their own institution but of the committees from other banks which are confronted with like problems. A warning is made in the letter suggesting that depositors await the report and suggestions of their committee before employing agents to undertake the collection of their claims."

COMMONWEALTH ED. CO. 6 MONTHS' PROFIT EXCEEDS LAST YEAR

Net earnings of the Commonwealth Edison company were larger in the second quarter and the first half of this year than in the corresponding periods in 1930. In both cases earnings comfortably exceeded dividend requirements.

Net income for the three months ended June 30 was $4,076,130, or $2.68 a share on 1,517,743 shares, compared with $3,664,800, or $2.67 a share on 1,372,306 shares, for the second quarter of 1930. Net income for the first half of this year was $9,303,518, or $6.12 a share, compared with $8,785,666, or $6.40 a share on the smaller capitalization outstanding during the first half of 1930.

WALL ST. HOLDS FIRM IN FACE OF GERMAN CRISIS

Action of Bankers Averts Trouble.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 19.—The breakdown of the attempt by Central Bankers to devise a plan for staving off the financial crisis in Germany, followed by the closing of the banks in that country, provided the financial markets of the world with a critical test last week.

As was to be expected the most severe repercussions were felt in the foreign exchanges and in the markets for central European bonds. That our own stock market was able to meet the test without a wide-open break testified eloquently to the degree of liquidation through which it has passed since October 1929.

What the ultimate course of stock prices is to be, depends, of course, on the progress of domestic trade and industry during the coming months, even more than on what steps are taken to relieve the German financial position. It is evident, however, that the market has been measurably released from the fear of any further sudden collapse of prices, such as threw Wall street into confusion on a number of occasions during the past twenty-one months.

Eye Ultimate Effects.

The ultimate effects of an incident of the magnitude of the German financial crisis cannot clearly be seen while the immediate causes are still so much in the foreground. But it was evident last week that the immediate effects had been by no means as catastrophic as was commonly predicted.

This was due to the prompt action taken by bankers here to keep open their commitments with German bankers. The decision to maintain existing credits intact and to honor requisitions upon balances of German banks lodged here averted some of the more serious consequences of the restrictions imposed upon [illegible] financial institutions.

The incident that caused most concern in financial circles apart from the German crisis itself was the sudden and unforeseen collapse of sterling exchange on Wednesday. The decline of more than 2 cents in London exchange in one day, carrying the pound sterling to the lowest price since the return to the gold standard in 1929 and opening up the prospect of requisitions upon the Bank of England's gold supply by at least half

BANKERS KEEP GERMAN TRADE GOING IN CRISIS

Reserve Bank Accepts Discount Bills.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 19.—International banking cooperation made it possible this week to keep the lines of trade open between Germany and the United States, despite the fact that during part of the period all German banking institutions were closed and during the remainder of the time rigid restrictions were imposed upon them.

Meeting at the Federal Reserve bank, representatives of all the New York banks doing business abroad agreed to keep open their lines of credit to German banks to the extent that these lines were being employed just prior to the closing of the German institutions.

The Federal Reserve bank continued to accept for discount bills drawn by German interests and accepted by member banks of the reserve. The Reichsbank agreed to sell necessary foreign exchange to German banks who had to remit funds to this market against maturing acceptances.

Do Not Extend Credits.

In almost all respects business between banks here and in Germany pursued its normal course. The only restrictions placed upon it were that New York banks, while agreeing to "stay put" on existing lines of credit, refused to extend their commitments beyond those outstanding when the crisis in Germany compelled the government there to issue its emergency decree limiting the activities of the banks and German banks, in view of the restrictions, were unable to fully reciprocate the services supplied to them by New York banks.

The agreement among the American institutions enabled German banks to draw upon their balances here by bills, checks, drafts, or cables, even though at the time balances of New York banks in Germany were tied up. It provided the German institutions with the opportunity of drawing new bills whenever outstanding acceptances matured, so that no diminution in the amount of credit they had at their disposal should occur.

It probably marked the first occasion in which banks of one nation had taken so liberal an attitude toward their correspondents in another country when the latter was in the throes of a serious financial crisis. An illustration of what might have happened, if the New York banks, under the leadership of the federal reserve, had not reached their agreement, was provided by the course of action taken by some of these institutions prior to the arrangement of a unified policy.

Add to Difficulties.

A number of banks, acting on the advice of counsel, took the stand early in the week that since their balances with German banks had been temporarily "frozen" they were under no obligation to release funds of German correspondents held by them. Accordingly, when checks were presented against deposits of German banks they refused to honor them. Such a procedure, it was at once recognized, could only add to Germany's financial difficulties and in the end work to the detriment of all concerned.

Other banks which from the beginning had honored checks of their German depositors took the stand that a unified policy was essential. Accordingly meetings were held at the Federal Reserve bank and it was agreed that the German institutions would have full access to their balances here.

Name Haugan Midwest Co. Head; Others Join Firm

Jevne Haugan has been elected president of the Mid-West company, mortgage and investment concern with offices at 33 North La Salle street, according to an announcement made yesterday. Mr. Haugan was formerly a vice president and director of the Foreman-State National bank and before that held a vice presidency in the State Bank of Chicago. He has been a director of the Mid-West company for a number of years. In addition to Mr. Haugan's election it was announced that several former members of the Foreman personnel will also become associated with the investment firm. They are Roy G. Johnson, William B. Lassen, Herbert C. Anderson, Arthur P. Peterson, and Frank F. Healey. The firm will extend its activities to include refinancing, extensions and other services in the handling of real estate. Hoyt Thompson is secretary and treasurer of the company.

New Municipal, State Financing Drops Sharply

New York, July 19.—New state and municipal bonds scheduled for award this week total $23,861,800 and represent the needs of fifty-nine communities, the Bond Buyer reports. The total compares with $45,109,945 last week and a weekly average of $40,906,289 for the year to date. The large issues include $10,000,000 state of South Carolina bonds for state highway purposes on Thursday; $2,640,000 Trenton, N. J., bonds on Wednesday; and $1,000,000 state of New Mexico state highway debentures on Monday.

Shoe Output Continues Expansion, Reports Say

Expansion in shoe production continued during June, a preliminary estimate of the New York Hide exchange indicates. The estimate placed last month's production at 27,000,000 pairs, as compared with 23,900,000 pairs in June, 1930, an increase of approximately 13 per cent. Production for the first six months this year totaled 158,759,000 pairs, an increase of 1.2 per cent over 156,475,000 pairs for the corresponding period last year.

Profits of 15 N. Y. Banks Reported as Behind 1930

Indicated net profits of fifteen leading New York City banks and trust companies in the first six months of 1931 were 49 per cent less than in the corresponding period last year, after appropriations for reserves, a survey by Moody's says. Since local banks do not customarily publish detailed financial statements the computation is based on dividends paid and a comparison of balance sheets.

STEEL ACTIVITY DROPS ALMOST TO DECEMBER LOW

Large Copper Producers Keep Price at 8c.

New York, July 19.—(AP)—Steel mill activity has receded almost to the low point of last December, and the outlook is said to be for further slight slipping off during the remainder of the month.

Steel ingot production is now estimated at 37 per cent of capacity, as demand for products is restricted by seasonal summer shutdowns in many industries. The trade looks for a moderate pickup in buying during August prior to small inventories in many lines and a fair tonnage of orders pending for various construction projects, the largest being a tentative award of 110,000 tons for the Golden Gate bridge, San Francisco, formal award of which awaits sale of bonds.

Prices Irregular.

Some irregularity is reported in prices, with announced advances for steel quarter being held firmly for steel products and concessions being granted for others. Pig iron is quiet and barely steady.

Although copper was available through custom smelters at 7½c., large producers maintained quotations at 8c for electrolytic in the Connecticut valley last week and the undertone was firmer at the close of the week. Improved foreign buying was reported by a more favorable view of general European conditions, while domestic demand increased somewhat following announcement of further curtailment by a large producer and no metal was available under 8c late in the period.

Tin Is Irregular.

Sharp and irregular fluctuations in tin caused consumers to withdraw from the market and demand was limited. Partial rallies occurred late in the week in sympathy with London, but buyers held off.

Demand for lead was stimulated by a favorable view of the June statistics, which revealed the first decline in supply stocks since the spring of 1930. Tone held steady largely in sympathy with the firmer tone to the copper and lead markets, but buying continues on a restricted scale. Antimony was easier in a dull market, reflecting decline in silver exchange.

NEW YORK CURB EXCHANGE TRADE TREND IS MIXED

New York, July 19.—(AP)—The New York curb exchange, like all other security markets, continues to fluctuate with the uncertainties of the German crisis.

Trading last week was irregular. Groups encountered a scarcity of buyers in the earlier sessions, but the tone improved after midweek when the central European crisis seemed less alarming. German bonds plunged with the outlook was most gloomy, some sinking 5 to 20 points, but there was a recovery in these coupon securities also.

In general, the market was dull even when declining. Movements sensible to special situations were infrequent. Oils weakened when further unfavorable trade developments appeared, and the utilities gave under some pressure. Electric Bond and Share, for example, broke to 34, an ultimate drop of more than 5 points, but rallied well when sentiment became brighter.

Solar Refining was a feature of the week's dealings. This oil stock, an equity in one of the old line Standard companies, climbed from 4¾ to above 70 in the accompaniment of reports that a merger with Ohio Oil, similar to the Vacuum Society combination, was pending. High priced specialties were erratic, but dealings in more active issues of that general classification had little significance. Woolworth, Ltd., reacted to 19½, but got back its loss.

Investment trusts followed the market down at the first of the week. Tobin Founders was especially soft, dipping to 4½, although it recovered when pressure was lifted.

GIVE FURTHER DETAILS OF CENTRAL-REPUBLIC BANK CONSOLIDATION

Further details of the Central Trust-National Bank of Republic bank consolidation were announced last night. Just as the two banks will merge under the name of Central Republic Bank and Trust company, so their investment subsidiaries, the Central Illinois and the National Republic companies, will unite as the Central Republic company.

This affiliate of the new bank will have an established national organization with branch offices and representation extending from New York to San Francisco and will rank among the strongest investment concerns in the middle west. It will be located in the main banking quarters of the present National Bank of the Republic at 134 South La Salle street following the removal of the bank to the Central Trust building at 208 South La Salle street.

The executive offices of the Central Republic company will include men who have been active in the affairs of both Central-Illinois and National Republic companies. Philip R. Clarke, who will become president of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, will also be chairman of the board of Central Republic company; Harold W. White, president of The National Republic company and vice president of The National Bank of the Republic, and Louis H. Schroeder, vice chairman of Central-Illinois company, will be vice chairman; Carroll E. Gray Jr., executive vice president of Central-Illinois company, will be president of Central Republic company.

Other officers will include Newton P. Frye and William C. Freeman, senior vice presidents; J. Sanford Otis, James A. Cathcart, and Charles H. Ireland, vice presidents; Edward K. Wells, assistant vice president; William W. Hinshaw Jr., secretary; Howard P. Allen, treasurer; Olaf T. Henderson, controller, and Nathan S. Jones, manager municipal department.

LOWEST PRICES OF YEARS NOTED IN GRAIN MARTS

Big Wheat Crop Harvested in Southwest.

where good rains are necessary and, unless they come, damage is likely. Present condition, however, is unusually good, but the crop is said to be poorly rooted and in no condition to stand drought. Trade interests are greatly divided and there is congestion in July with the largest holders taking cash corn on delivery and shipping it out, and outside markets are selling corn to Chicago for July delivery. Other holders took profits at 60c and above.

September corn had good support and moved up sharply toward the last, but ran into liberal selling from local traders who believe that it is too early to take a pronounced position on the buying side of corn. They believe that when more is known about crop prospects they can gauge conditions more readily. For the time being the market is considered a two sided affair with local professionals the principal supporters.

At the close July corn was 59¾c; September, 54½@54c; December, 46¾@46¼c, July being up 2Zc, September 2¼c, and December ¾c higher than a week ago. Prices for the week follow:

Oats Supported on Breaks.

Oats met good support on all good breaks which were occasioned largely by unloading by tired holders. Crop reports were, in the main, less favorable, but the crop is largely made and harvesting is under way. A few cars of new oats have reached the different markets, but no regular basis is being established. That there will be a smaller crop than earlier expectations is regarded as certain, but it will be ample for all requirements.

TOOL MACHINE ORDERS POINT TO BUSINESS PICK-UP

Indications that manufacturers are looking for better times during the balance of the year are seen in reports by trade observers of the Chicago Association of Commerce of increased orders on tool machine producers during the past week. Inquiries for future delivery showed a marked improvement over the same period a year ago, and tool makers, who were then talking pessimistically regarding the last half of 1930, are now just as outspoken about an upward trend in general factory activity for the balance of this year.

In the general Chicago market the past week continued to show a firm foundation based in great measure on orders from rural consumers. One large mail order house announced a pick-up of 30 per cent over orders for the same week in 1930. In the wholesale district buyers are still numerous and buying in fairly satisfactory quantities.

Retail business in Chicago was strong in volume but weak in profit. Marked down sales and other specialty sales stunts are getting the business, but with little results on the ledger.

Aviation Corp. of Delaware Reports Six Months' Loss

The Aviation Corporation of Delaware and subsidiaries report net loss for the six months ended June 30, 1931, of $729,480, as compared with a loss of $3,236,317 for the like period in 1930. The six months period showed a profit from operations, before depreciation, of $39,621, as compared with a loss in the corresponding 1930 period of $983,076. Less after depreciation amounted to $601,029, as compared to $1,784,879 in the first six months of the preceding year.

Deducting other income consisting of interest earned, dividends, and profit or loss on sale of securities, amounting in all to $96,081 [against $482,311 in 1930] and adding $231,947 expenses of parent company [against $482,311 in 1930] and adding $231,947 expenses of parent company [against $320,835 in 1930 and $1,095,813, being extraordinary charge offs and provision for special losses including adjustments relating in part to prior periods] and further adding $7,414 proportion of profits of controlled companies, not consolidated [against a loss of $517,110 in the 1930 period] results in net loss as reported.

Electric Ice Box Sales Holding Up, Survey Shows

Electric refrigeration sales are still holding maintained at levels exceeding those of a year ago, according to Standard Statistics company. Indications are that this condition holds for all of the leading producers, the survey says, and in nearly all of the outstanding marketing areas. Complete statistics of current production and sales are not available, but the improving spirit of coöperation among producers is rapidly developing a situation which likely will result in the release of detailed data at regular intervals throughout the year, it was stated.

TOTAL CHILEAN DEBT IS GIVEN AS $556,670,400

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 19. — The following report of the financial situation of Chile was read by Pedro Blanquier, minister of finance, during a meeting of the cabinet presided over by President Carlos Ibanez:

"The total amount of external and internal debt is 2,909,000,000 pesos, approximately $353,930,850. The state has extended a guarantee to loans both here and abroad that total 1,167,000,000 pesos, approximately $141,970,000. Also the state has extended guaranteed notes on foreign and national currency that total 85,000,000 pesos, approximately $10,310,250.

Owes Other Sums.

"Besides internal and external promissory notes, and loans, the state owes various sums of money, received on account of taxes, that total 414,000,000 pesos, approximately $50,363,100. In total, the Chilean government is responsible for the sum of 4,576,000,000 pesos, approximately $556,670,400. The annual payment of interest and the amortization of this debt, that the state makes good, totals $11,000,000 pesos, approximately $37,333,150.

"Its budget now has a deficit of 47,000 pesos, approximately $4,000,000. The actual deficit for the present year will be 106,000,000 pesos, approximately $12,894,500. The total actual deficit will be 165,000,000 pesos, approximately $17,629,250. There is talk, pending compromise, in the senate, to amount of 90,000,000 pesos, approximately $10,985,500, and the balance available in the fiscal treasury is 5,000,000 pesos, approximately $608,250. The deficit in the treasury, therefore, is 35,000,000 pesos, approximately $10,310,000."

Bond Coupon Query.

In view of the measure adopted by the government to deposit currency in the country to the value of the foreign debt until such moment that the deposit can be transferred abroad without affecting the central bank's reserve, several inquiries have been received as to whether the bond coupons of the foreign debt will be paid on presentation in this country, provided the holder accepts Chilean currency.

The minister of finance replied that the idea of the government in taking such measures has been to prevent for the moment the outflow of gold, and as in the case on which he has been consulted, the government would have no means to inquire if these payments would or would not be transferred into gold drafts for foreign countries.

I. C. ANNOUNCES CUT OF 50 TO 70 PER CENT IN ROUND TRIP FARES

Substantial reductions in round trip fares to all points of its 7,000 mile system were announced yesterday by the Illinois Central railroad. J. V. Lanigan, passenger traffic manager, said the new schedule will go into effect for Aug. 7 and 8.

The reductions include 70 per cent cuts for chair cars and coaches, and 50 per cent cuts for Pullman and parlor cars. The Pullman fares themselves will not be reduced but the price of railroad tickets entitling passengers to Pullman travel will be sliced in half. The low rates will bring the cost of rail travel to about 1 cent a mile for coach passengers and less than 2 cents a mile for parlor car and Pullman passengers.

Mr. Lanigan believes that business in the fourteen states served by the Illinois Central will be stimulated by the reductions.

"We have tried these cut fares once before," he said, "and various trade associations reported considerable increases in business directly traceable to the travel bargains. The public generally also seemed to appreciate the opportunity to travel at these low rates."

German Electrical Firms Pay Short Term Credits

New York, July 19.—Dillon, Read & Co., bankers for Siemens & Halske and Siemens-Schuckertwerke, German manufacturers of electrical products, announced that they have been advised by these companies that they have voluntarily paid off short term credits outstanding with the New York banks, anticipating their maturities by several months. This action was taken to avoid any possible service difficulties in view of the exchange restrictions imposed on Germany.

Ill. Power Co. Rests Case Before Commerce Body

The Illinois Power company, seeking approval of the state commerce commission of a contract with the Panhandle Pipe Line company for purchase of natural gas and for authority to install natural gas service in Springfield, has rested its case before the commission. The city moved the application be dismissed because no demand for the proposed change in service had been made. Application of the Central Illinois Light company for approval of a similar contract with the Panhandle company for a change of service in Peoria was scheduled for hearing late today.

U. S. INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY IN JUNE FALLS 5 PER CENT

Industrial activity in the United States in June fell 5 per cent from May and registered a 9.3 per cent decline from the level prevailing in June, 1930, according to Electrical World's monthly summary of electrical energy consumption in 3,300 manufacturing plants scattered throughout the country. Records of plant operations during the last eight years show an average drop of 5 points from the preceding month. The decrease this year is therefore ascribed entirely to usual seasonal changes in the several industries, but when seasonal adjustments are applied to the individual indices, industry is relatively on the identical level as May.

National Dairy Products, Golden State Deal Off

New York, July 19.—(AP)—T. H. McInnerney, president of the National Dairy Products corporation, announces the corporation has withdrawn its provisional offer for the acquisition of the Golden State Company, Ltd. This action terminates a stockholders' fight in Golden State, a Pacific coast organization, which started with the announcement that the terms of exchange would be one share of National for two of Golden State stock.

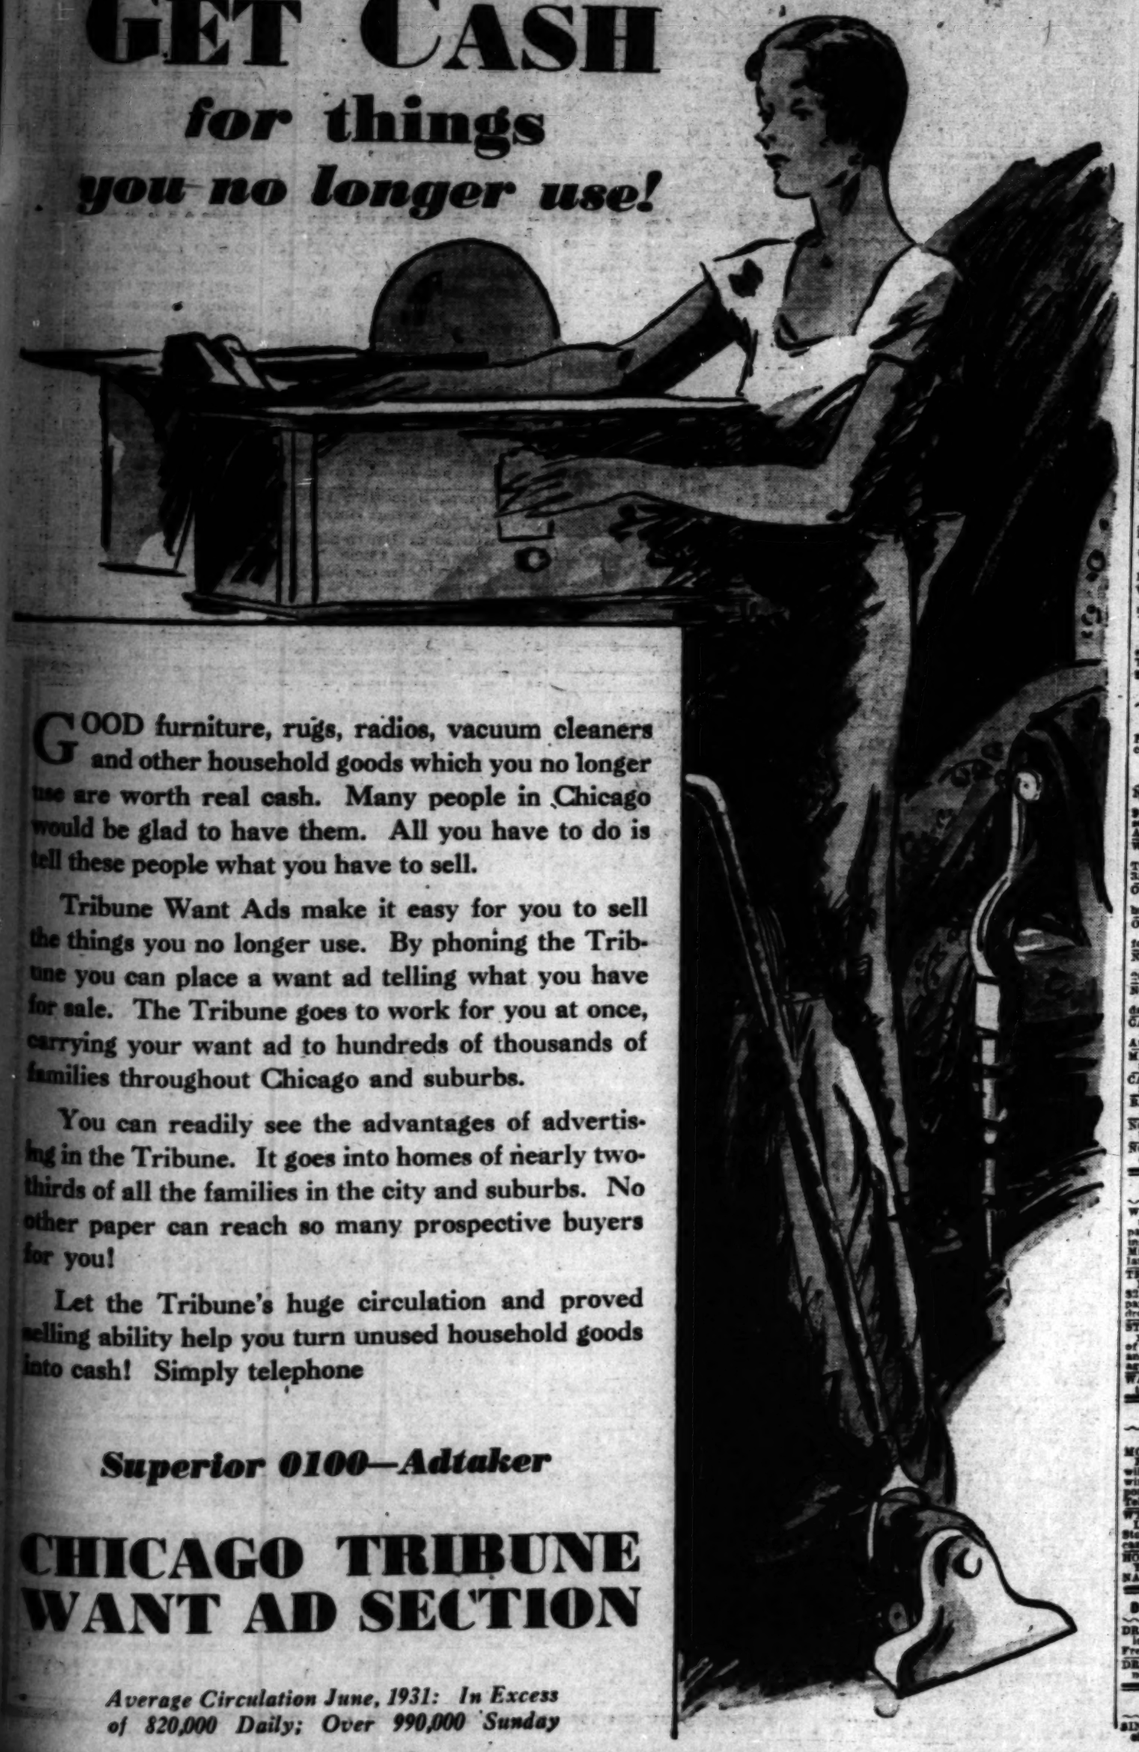
GET CASH for things you no longer use!



GOOD furniture, rugs, radios, vacuum cleaners and other household goods which you no longer use are worth real cash. Many people in Chicago would be glad to have them. All you have to do is tell these people what you have to sell.

Tribune Want Ads make it easy for you to sell the things you no longer use. By phoning the Tribune you can place a want ad telling what you have for sale. The Tribune goes to work for you at once, carrying your want ad to hundreds of thousands of families throughout Chicago and suburbs.

You can readily see the advantages of advertising in the Tribune. It goes into homes of nearly two-thirds of all the families in the city and suburbs. No other paper can reach so many prospective buyers for you!

Let the Tribune's huge circulation and proved selling ability help you turn unused household goods into cash! Simply telephone

IS NOT BECAUSE
Moler pays a commission to students while learning and finds places for those who desire to earn meals while learning.
BUT BECAUSE
Moler's is the original, the first school in the universe teaching Beauty Culture.
BUT BECAUSE
Moler's thousands of graduates running their own shops send to Moler for their help who have Moler's more practical degree.
Open every day and every evening.

Household's rates are the lowest in Chicago

The nationally advertised Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.
